Where to Hit the Horse.
Deadly Fist Fights.
Let Haiti Read Froude.
Fighting Chinese Women.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HODGE, Cal., Feb. 12.

UNCLE SAM must raise hundreds of millions more in taxes, unless he economizes, and that he will NOT do to any extent. Some said:

"Tax the heavily taxed big incomes more heavily."

But that would discourage enterprises that give work to the idle. A general manufacturers' tax of 1 per cent was suggested and expected to yield six hundred million dollars. The drop in manufacturing would now cut that sum to four hundred millions, and the tax would discourage employment.

Income tax, customs receipts, are off, but thirteen hundred million extra dollars must be found somewhere. Where to hit a tired horse to make him go faster is the problem. Some say a general sales tax, hitting the horse gently, everywhere at once, would be the best plan.

IN ONE COLUMN you read that Kid Elton, prizefighter, is dead at Palm Beach, of prize ring injuries. In another column you observe the death of a 19-year-old high school boy, killed in a public school boxing match in Los Angeles. A blow on the nose caused a hemorrhage of the brain and death, and the school authorities say:

"Just an accident."

Was it necessary, or different from an assault by a bandit? Did it do any good? Has fighting with fists any value, now when every thug carries his "gun."

HAS SUCH FIGHTING any value in war? Does it not promote brutality, uselessly? Is it not a disgrace that public schools, and the Army and Navy should encourage such barbarism."

HAITI PROTESTS because her finances are controlled by the United States and managed by American banks. Haiti should rejoice, because at least, she has a financial system and some credit, which she would not have otherwise.

Dissatisfied Haitians, who think they could manage their finances better, should read Froude's book on the West Indies. It tells of a population, similar to that of Haiti today, one-half free to govern itself and its finances, one-half run by British management. On both sides of the island there had been fine docks, brick buildings. On the side managed by the natives, these fell into ruin, while the natives that owned them went over to work for the British that knew how to provide work and wages.

Nothing is more beautiful than human liberty, as Tom Reed said, but you must know how to use it.

CHINA'S WAR takes you back to the mythical days of the Amazons. Harvey Duncan and Carl Lemcke, American business men on their way from Shanghai's foreign settlement to Woosung fort, were stopped by a regiment of short, thick-set Chinese women, wearing earrings and carrying old muskets with bayonets.

They were holding trenches that protected their village. The two Americans turned back. The ladies spoke no English. Later the same Americans tried again and found Japanese occupying those trenches, taken with machine-gun fire.

Twenty-four of the Chinese fighting women had been buried. Their willingness to be killed may mean trouble that Japan did not anticipate in her Chinese venture. Universal Service tells about it.

JAPAN ANNOUNCES that, in spite of sad events in China, she, Japan, favors disarmament. In this she is at least as sincere as any other nation, for Japan will need, for the present, only as much armament as is needed to give her what she wants in China.

A modest armament will suffice for her fighting needs there, since Japan feels able to attack a nation of four hundred millions with an army of forty thousand.

THE GOVERNMENT says we have more gold than we need. So one billion dollars' worth of the metal will be "released" to increase credit and "bring back prosperity."

More power to the yellow billion. Wall street took the promises seriously yesterday and put up prices. Some less optimistic will ask how much of the billion, turned loose, will be hoarded, how much will find its way in United States gold coin to the Bank of France and how much will be used to expand our currency, which is the thing needed.

DEMOCRACY'S POLITICAL pot is boiling. Speaker Garner, whose strength is increasing, remarks that the silver-plated knobs on the White House front door remind him of handles on a coffin. Alfred E. Smith will be entered as a candidate in North Dakota on Saturday by a friend who was once postmaster, and perhaps would like his job back.

Clown's Romance Revealed in Death

MISS SALLY WHITE . . . 'BEANS' WAS TO HAVE MARRIED HER

Miss White, jobless piano-accordionist who next Friday would have been married to "Beans," the jobless tumbling clown who amused Improvement of the Poor refugees for his keep. But "Beans"—Edward Boyce, 33—in a hospital died last night of pneumonia.

WEDDING PLANS TOLD BY GIRL

Death today shattered the romance of "Beans," the tumbling clown, and Sally White, another trouper, whom he was to have married next Friday on his thirty-third birthday.

Beans died in Allegheny General Hospital from pneumonia which developed Sunday. Grief-stricken, Miss White, a blonde, who played a piano accordion and a guitar in a novelty act, told of his plans to return to the stage. She said:

"Beans had a heart of gold. He joined our troupe of five while we were playing in a small town in Kentucky last April. He traveled with us, and in Wheeling, last August, the troupe disbanded for lack of work. Beans and I came to Pittsburgh then.

"Beans never had a chance because he had no money. It takes money for the props, makeup and clothes. We planned to marry next Friday on his birthday. He was sure we could team together on the stage—he the acrobatic clown, and me as his partner, a piano accordionist."

Beans lived at the Improvement of the Poor Home and in return for his board he tumbled high and low for the brother-guests. In an engagement in New Kensington several weeks later, Beans' hard luck followed him. His wrist snapped in the performance. He went back to the Improvement Home.

Miss White, rooming at 721 Sandusky street, said Beans' correct name was Edward Boyce. The body was shipped to the home of his parents in Akron, O.

'Kingfish' Senator Golfs With Hagen

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Huey Long, Louisiana's "Kingfish" Senator, today "crashed" his way into a pro-amateur tournament. He even drew Walter Hagen for a partner.

The Senator shot a 64-64—128 for the 18 holes, by far the highest card of the day.

French Deputies Votes for Suffrage

PARIS, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The Chamber of Deputies today voted overwhelmingly to give suffrage to women but its action must be also approved by the Senate, whose concurrence was believed by many to be doubtful.

AID FOR BANKS APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The Senate Banking Committee quickly gave its approval today to the emergency measure opening the Federal Reserve System for cashing of new paper held by the nation's banking institutions.

Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, was authorized to take his bill immediately before the Senate and he announced that would be done during the day.

The committee acted after a one hour session during which additional safeguards to protect the Federal Reserve from a loose inflationary process were put into the bill.

The legislation faces prompt enactment in the Senate, but likely will not be taken up until Monday. Speaker Garner promised quick House consideration.

False Alarm Snarls Downtown Traffic

Traffic was snarled in Water street and the lower Penn and Liberty avenues today when eight pieces of fire apparatus answered a false alarm from Box 2, at the base of the ramp to the Point and Manchester bridges. It required 10 minutes to untangle the mass of autos, wagons, street cars and fire appartus.

Volpe and Girl Arrested In Park; Jailed, Freed

Johnny Volpe, the beaten political boss of Wilmerding, is now qualified to write a tome labelled "How It Feels to Spend Four Hours in Jail."

Dapper John did that today, in the Oakland Police Station.

And so did his companion, pretty Ruth Alyons.

John and Miss Ruth were arrested in "Honeymoon Circle" in Schenley Park at 4:30 a. m.

The time was 4:30 a. m. and the vehicle was John's flashy 16-cylinder roadster.

John, according to Patrolmen James McGuire and Thomas O'Connor, didn't give the right answers when they merely asked him for his driver's license, so they escorted him to jail.

They said they found a 38-caliber revolver on John's person, but explained he carried a permit.

Not so dapper was John when finally he was released, along with Miss Alyons, on $50 forfeits for hearing tomorrow.

John was reticent. He didn't appear to understand why he had been arrested. He was perturbed, too, by the presence of a news photographer, and would not leave the police station until escorted by John J. Verona, who used to be the undisputed political boss of the Hill district, and three others.

Patrolman O'Connor reported that John had announced he just couldn't be arrested.

Miss Alyons, a young brunette, gave her address as 1215 Ridge street, Wilmerding. The name and address were believed fictitious.

SCHAD FREED IN VOTE TRIAL

Verdict Ordered by Court; Walsh Admits Mistake In Testimony for Self

George J. Schad, former chairman of the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes, was acquitted of guilt in the First Ward vote conspiracy case today on a verdict directed by Visiting Judge Davis W. Henderson.

His acquittal leaves three of the six who were indicted still facing trial.

They are Constable Paul Walsh, son of the superintendent of police; Saul Klein, battalion fire chief, and Samuel Ramsey, a former tax office clerk.

SECOND ACQUITTAL

C. J. McBride, former tax board secretary, was freed on a directed verdict yesterday, and Frank Alpert, a former subordinate assessor, turned state's evidence with a plea of no defense.

The defense rested its case shortly after 2 p. m. and Schad's acquittal was ordered immediately after the intermission which followed.

Walsh, on the stand in his own defense this morning, admitted he had been "mistaken" in testimony which he gave yesterday.

It was the second mistake of the week for a witness.

Alpert yesterday confessed on the stand that testimony he gave on Monday and before the grand jury last fall was false and, he said, "given to protect Walsh and Klein."

Walsh admitted his "mistake" under cross-examination by Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk.

Charles B. Prichard, Walsh's attorney, had asked him in direct examination if he had taken tax

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Rescue of 17 members of the crew of the ill-fated fur steamer Baychimo from their encampment near Seahorse Islands, where they had been icebound all winter, was thought to have been effected today by two airplanes from Nome.

Drinkwater Rallies After Bad Night

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The condition of John Drinkwater, noted British poet, playwright and biographer, was reported somewhat better today. He had a bad night, the report said, but his temperature was somewhat lower this morning. He is suffering from bronchial influenza.

BANK CLERK LEAPS TO DEATH

Federal Reserve Officer Plunges 180 Feet From Span in Panther Hollow

Thomas Milton Jones, 57, chief clerk of the Federal Reserve Bank, leaped 150 feet to his death from the Panther Hollow Bridge in Schenley Park this morning. His crushed body was taken to the morgue, where identity was quickly established.

Jones, an employe of the bank since its organization, resided with his wife and son at 5650 Woodmont street. This morning he told his wife he was going for an auto ride, but indicated that he did not want her with him. Mrs. Jones said he had not been in his usual health since he suffered an auto accident three years ago.

SEARCH FOR AUTO

After the body was found police searched for his auto. It was not parked anywhere near the bridge.

Francis Swartzwelder, 3623 Frazier street, told police he was walking along the Junction Railroad when he glanced up at the bridge 600 feet away. He saw a man put one foot over the railing, then draw the other over and leap.

The man crashed near a tree alongside a roadway near Panther Hollow Lake.

ACCOUNTS IN ORDER

W. S. Jones, said he could not understand his brother's act. He said Thomas was in good spirits when he saw him last on Sunday evening.

Jones, had been chief clerk of the bank for several years, having been promoted when the position of fiscal agent was abolished.

At the bank it was stated his accounts were correct.

The body was identified at the morgue by a fellow employe.

AGREE TO TAX GIFTS, INCOMES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—A new schedule of federal income taxes and a gift tax, not in the present law, were tentatively agreed to by the House Ways and Means Committee today.

The new income tax rates are understood to follow closely the Treasury recommendations, reaching a maximum of 40 per cent on incomes of more than $1,000,000 a year, with no change in present exemptions.

The gift tax is graduated to follow closely the inheritance estate tax and is understood to reach a minimum of 40 per cent on gifts exceeding $10,000,000.

Auto Kills Man Felled by Blow

DETROIT, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Ernest Ingles, 38, knocked down in a fight over a woman, was killed by an automobile which ran over him while he lay unconscious on the street, a Coroner's autopsy this afternoon disclosed. Prior to this announcement detectives said Ingles was killed by a blow that ended the fight.

The man who struck Ingles, Frey Clayton, 35, and his wife, Caroline, 33, are held by police for questioning.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 12.—Hello, everybody!

Well, sir, I hopped back here to Shanghai tonight, a little muddy, unshaven and dirty around the collar, but still able to report that the oncoming offensive I predicted in my last dispatch is now well under way on the Woosung creek sector.

It's no individual effort either. Late this afternoon when I left the scene of the battle, both sides seemed to have selected the same moment for a joint conference.

It looks like it's going to be one of those things where both sides are attacking at the same time and meeting in the middle.

While Japanese reinforcements rushed forward with floating duckboards—sort of single track cork pontoons by which the infantry hoped to cross Woosung Creek for an assault on the German-built defenses—Chinese cavalry scouts and horsemen made a daring foray around the Japanese left flank, recalling the famous exploits of Mosby's Confed-

BIG ATTACK LAUNCHED

Envoys in Peace Parley As Tokio Troops Open New Offensive

By DIXON HOSTE
International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 13. (Saturday, 12:30 a. m.)—Japanese big guns shelled the North Station area of Chapei near the junction of Paoshan and Jukong roads early today. Numerous fires broke out in the wake of the bombardment.

Under cover of the heavy barrage, Japanese troops in the Paoshan district penetrated deep into the Chinese lines.

Undeterred by artillery fire from the Chinese emplacements, the Japanese crossed the railway line and took up new positions in the Ningpoo Guild.

United States Marine outposts reported witnessing Japanese tracer bullets crossing the sky like flaming arrows. By watching the course of the visible bullets, observers figured that the Japanese had penetrated the very center of the Chinese defenses.

AMERICANS ARMED

American residents of the French concession were aroused from their beds by the sounds of explosions which seemed to be nearby and which were at first thought to be in the old Chinese walled city of Nantao, which adjoins the concession.

It was later revealed, however, that sound wave refractions due to the low-hanging mist carried the detonations from the artillery duel in Chapei across the International Settlement.

The heavy bombardment continued while Nelson T. Johnson, the American minister to China; Sir Miles Lampson, British minister, and Henri Wilden, French diplomatic envoy, called upon Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese ambassador, in a new peace effort.

A spokesman for American Minister Johnson declared that Japanese firing on Woosung began just as he and Sir Miles Lampson were passing aboard ships of their respective navies, en route to Shanghai from Nanking.

WARSHIP MOVED

Japanese officials asked the British naval headquarters to shift the position of the H. M. S. Berwick, moored near Woosung, in order to prevent its being struck accidentally by shells.

The spokesman for Johnson declared the Japanese "must have timed their attack purposely."

Upon arrival at the branch of the American legation, located at the consulate-general here, the spokesman said:

"It was incredible. Unless I had witnessed it myself I would never have believed the Japanese would have staged a naval attack on Woosung just as the U. S. S. Simpson, bearing Johnson, and a British gunboat bearing British Minister Lamp-

Billy Sunday Stricken, Defies Preaching Ban

Battling against laryngitis and pronounced by two physicians on the verge of a nervous breakdown, Billy Sunday, 70-year-old evangelist, today refused to take their advice and give up the remainder of the meetings in the First United Presbyterian Church, North Side, scheduled to close Sunday night.

Dr. Harry B. Goehring treated the veteran preacher in his room in the Roosevelt Hotel this morning. He called in Dr. C. B. Schildecker, of the West Penn Hospital staff, for consultation. Dr. Goehring said:

"Mr. Sunday is like a run-down storage battery. Only a rest of two weeks will recharge that battery."

They advised him to go to a hospital for a complete rest.

Asked if he would take their advice, Sunday replied:

"In everything but one—my preaching. I will go on with that."

Nurses will be on duty to care for Sunday late today, the physician said.

SENATE STUDIES JOB AID BILLS FOR VOTE ON MONDAY

REED CONDEMNS PLAN, BLAMES PINCHOT

Senator Scores Action on Talbot Act; Denies State Needs U. S. Aid for Poor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Senate leaders agreed today to vote Monday on the various unemployment relief bills now pending.

The decision to defer the vote until Monday was made because many Senators found it necessary to be out of town for the week-end.

The first vote Monday probably will come on the Democratic substitute for the La Follette-Costigan bill. The substitute would provide for loans to states instead of outright gifts as carried by the original proposal. Both bills now carry $750,000,000 to be divided equally between road construction and relief.

STUDY COMPROMISE

Another possible compromise is receiving the consideration of those leading the movement for federal aid. Offered by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, it proposes to advance relief funds to the states out of future road appropriations. The Wagner bill would give $375,000,000 to the states for relief and reimburse the federal Treasury by cutting down highway appropriations beginning with 1937.

The Senate approached a vote on the proposals yesterday, but there was a renewed outburst of debate which sent the balloting over.

The entire project was labelled "criminally unwise" by Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, in carrying on the administration fight to defeat federal relief.

REED BLAMES PINCHOT

In his attack on the proposal Senator Reed indirectly laid the blame for delay in disbursement of unemployment relief funds in Pennsylvania upon Gov. Gifford Pinchot. Reed told the Senate Pennsylvania has "a perfectly adequate relief act" which has been held up by court litigation over its constitutionality. Reed said:

"I have no quarrel with the Governor, but it's not the fault of leaders of the state that the law is not in force today."

He referred to the passage by the State Legislature of the Talbot act appropriating $10,000,000 for relief. The bill, he added, had been allowed to become a law without the Governor's signature, but is "now tied up in the courts" with payments delayed.

HOLDS STATE CAPABLE

As a consequence, Reed said his state is in a "peculiar" situation, continuing:

"Pennsylvania is as badly hit as any, and based on the number of unemployed my state would fare as well as any other if this bill is passed.

"But Pennsylvania can fend for itself. It can take care of its own distress. Pennsylvania sees no value in taking money away from others to help it and vice versa. We don't want the federal government in this.

"From my own city, Pittsburgh, I have heard people say, 'why should I give to the community chest when I'm going to have to pay higher taxes in order to provide federal aid?'"

LABOR'S BEER BILL URGED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture of beer up to a 2.75 per cent alcoholic content by weight, demanded in a resolution of Labor's National Committee for the Modification of the Volstead act, was urged upon members of Congress today.

The petition was based on the following grounds:

"Modification will bring immediate employment of hundreds of thousands of workers, and restore useful life to an industry recognized as legal throughout the world.

"It will immediately provide enormous revenues, federal, state and municipal.

"It will remove the cause of gangsterism, racketeering and a host of other crimes, including the invasion of personal constitutional rights by law enforcement officers.

"It will strike a blow at intolerance and make way for a return to tolerance and temperance."

HOOVER WON'T RUN IN DAKOTA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—President Hoover will keep out of the North Dakota primaries next week, it was decided today.

Friends of the President in North Dakota, calling themselves the "Real Republican" party there, argued successfully that little benefit could accrue from his entrance into that primary.

Mr. Hoover received indirectly reports of conditions in North Dakota. Only one day remained for filing when the final decision to stay out was approved.

N. Y. Governor's Workers Alarmed by Smith, to Raid 'Favorite Son' Delegates

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Thoroughly alarmed over the "menace" represented by Al Smith's passive candidacy and the ambitions of some 15 favorite sons, Franklin D. Roosevelt and his supporters have decided upon an immediate and energetic drive to pledge as many delegates as possible for his nomination next June.

Parts of the old McAdoo machine of 1924 are being re-assembled to assist in the push.

Homer S. Cummings, one of the McAdoo floor leaders in the memorable Madison Square Garden row, was in Washington today busily conferring with Roosevelt's lieutenants over plans and strategems. Cummings, a former national committeeman from Connecticut, has been out of politics for some years. Daniel C. Roper, another old McAdoo captain, also is busy here in Roosevelt's behalf.

SMITH HAS STRENGTH

What really has alarmed the Roosevelt camp are cold figures which show that Smith's conceded strength in the convention, coupled with that of the favorite sons, can control approximately half of the delegates at Chicago.

This situation can be corrected, from the Roosevelt standpoint, only by the New York Governor abandoning some of the polite scruples heretofore expressed against going into some of the favorite son states in quest of delegates.

For fear of offending these favorite sons, and thus losing valuable "secondary strength," the Roosevelt supporters had tacitly agreed to stay out of states which are to offer candidates for the nomination. There are some 15 of them—Ritchie in Maryland, Garner in Texas, Lewis in Illinois, Robinson in Arkansas, Murray in Oklahoma and others.

RAID FAVORITE SONS

So long as Al Smith stayed out of the picture the plan was looked upon as good strategy, for by themselves the various favorite sons did not look particularly menacing. But with Smith's announcement this week that he was available for drafting, another face was put on the matter.

Numerous telegrams have gone to Albany from the Roosevelt lieutenants in the capital this week urging him to "get busy" and meet this "Smith menace" while it is yet young.

BACKERS FORM FOR ROOSEVELT

HARRISBURG, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Pennsylvania Democratic leaders supporting Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, for President, were to meet here today to form a campaign organization.

Sponsors of the movement announced they expected between 500 and 600 persons from 30 counties to attend the gathering for formation of a "Roosevelt for President League."

Conflicting ideas among state leaders over the support of presidential candidates today had widened the breach in Democratic party councils. E. B. Zimmerman and Warren Van Dyke, secretary and publicity director, respectively, of the state committee, resigned their posts after their open avowal of support for Gov. Roosevelt was sternly frowned upon by State Chairman, John R. Collins and National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler.

Murray to Enter North Dakota Race

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Gov. William (Alfalfa) Bill Murray confirmed reports today that he would campaign for the presidential nomination in the North Dakota primaries.

Suspect Held on Bad Check Charge

Edward Lane, 25, of 300 Shingiss street, McKees Rocks, was held for further hearing Monday in Central Police Station today on charge of passing a worthless check. Lane was accused by the S. V. Thompson Company, brokers in the Investment Building, of presenting a worthless $500 check in payment for a motion picture theater.

House Acts on Bill To Ban 'Lame Ducks'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—The Norris "lame duck" resolution to prevent defeated members from serving in Congress and changing the date of inauguration of the President, was called before the House today with a final vote set for Tuesday. It has been passed by the Senate.

Both Democratic and Republican leaders predicted passage, although a two-thirds vote is necessary to submit the constitutional amendment to states for ratification.

M'Fadden Undecided On Senate Contest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Representative Louis T. McFadden (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, returned here today from a speaking tour in Western Pennsylvania, still undecided whether to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Senate in the April primaries.

McFadden disclosed that his name was entered in the North Dakota presidential primary by a committee of Progressive Republicans with his knowledge.

INDIANA LEADER LAUDS GARNER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The dean of the Indiana congressional delegation today described Speaker Garner as "the type of leader needed in the country" and said he would be "delighted should he become the national standard bearer" of the Democrats.

This statement by Representative Canfield (Dem.), of Indiana, followed reports that an effort will be made to have the Indiana delegation to the national convention instructed for Garner for president. Canfield said:

"Speaker Garner, admired by all who know him both because of his rare ability as well as his engaging personal qualities, is a national figure who, as presidential nominee, would become the idol of democracy.

"If the entire country could know Jack Garner as do those of us who have opportunity to be associated with him, the suggestion of Speaker Garner for president would meet with a wide-spread response from all parts of the country."

Schooley Jury to Report Next Week

HOOVER PRAISE GIVEN MELLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—President Hoover today formally accepted Andrew W. Mellon's resignation as Secretary of the Treasury, paying high tribute to the 11 years of service he had given in that office.

The White House made public Mellon's letter of resignation, under date of February 8, and also the President's reply. Writing to America's new ambassador to Great Britain, Mr. Hoover said:

"I am in hopes that your new and important responsibilities will prove congenial and I am well aware of the extent of the burdens which you are undertaking out of a sense of patriotic duty.

"I wish to take this occasion to again express the personal feeling of loss I have after these years of association in the cabinet."

Mr. Mellon will take the official oath as ambassador to the Court of St. James late this afternoon and, following this ceremony, Undersecretary Ogden L. Mills will be sworn in as Secretary of the Treasury.

Labor Executives Rap Federal Judge

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Organized labor will be destroyed or enslaved if "extremists like Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson are permitted to enjoin legitimate activities," the Senate Judiciary Committee was told today.

Donald R. Richberg, counsel for the Railway Labor Executives' Association, scored Wilkerson's labor record and offered new arguments against the Chicago jurist's elevation to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Paris' Smallest Street Vanishes

POPE APPEALS FOR PRAYER TO AID WORLD

Vast Throngs See Pontiff Mark 10th Year of Reign; Guards Seize Disturber

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Pope Pius, celebrating the tenth anniversary of his coronation, appealed today to all the peoples of the world to join him in a prayer for help from God "at this time of suffering among all the nations."

It was his message to the world, broadcast through the Vatican radio station as he stood in St. Peter's Cathedral surrounded by his cardinals and tens of thousands who had crowded in to witness the ceremony.

He expressed the hope that his words would be a "consolation and comfort" to all and that all would be with him "in prayers that the Supreme Lord of all things earthly should cause peace to return to the earth."

MAN TOSSES ENVELOPE

The Pontiff was carried in solemn procession from his private apartments to the basilica on a portable throne, borne on the shoulders of 16 stalwart Vatican attendants in red. As he entered the cathedral silver trumpets were sounded by Swiss guards.

Some excitement was created while the Pope was proceeding up the aisle of the church when an elderly man advanced into the aisle as the Pope neared the great altar and tossed an envelope toward him, shouting:

"I ask a grace!"

The guards around the portable throne immediately surrounded the man and took him away.

BLESSES THRONGS

Pius wore a white cassock, and in vivid contrast to it a red mantle, embroidered in gold and studded with jewels. On his head was the jeweled tiara, or triple crown. He raised his right hand occasionally to bless the shouting people, kept back by wooden barriers lined with papal gendarmes.

As the pontiff was carried up the central aisle the sistine choir chanted "Tu es Petrus" (Thou Art Peter). The crimson attendants bore him to the large throne to the left of the altar. He left the portable throne and ascended the dais.

The cardinals advanced one by one, knelt and kissed his hand.

Then Cardinal Locatelli, the first cardinal created by the Pope, celebrated the mass.

Ambassadors and ministers of 33 nations who have formal relations with the Vatican sat in the diplomats' benches. Students of the American College in Rome and the college for Latin-Americans were present also.

Aged Woman Bound, Robbed by 2 Men

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 12.—Bound and gagged by two robbers at her home in Clinton, Salt Lick Township, Mrs. Anna Gaborkl, 67, was robbed of $30 by the men who ransacked the house. The two bound her arms and legs and ransacked the house in a search for money. A grandson who lives with the aged woman returned two hours later and found her on the floor.

Police Chief Needs Silencer for Frogs

WINCHESTER, MASS.—Police Chief William H. Rogers, accustomed to restraining dogs, rescuing cats and performing kindred services, recently received a complaint which, officially speaking, is still "on the table."

It was the appeal of a woman who wanted the police department to keep the frogs from croaking at night in the Mystic Lakes.

Garner Given First 'President' Auto Tag

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—An old Texas friend of Speaker Garner—C. S. Fowler, of San Antonio—today brought the first "Garner for President" automobile tag and presented it to the Texas Democrat.

Garner thanked his friend, but said nothing about his being a possible candidate. Reminded that he had no automobile here in which to put it, he smiled.

Harry Brown's Daughter Faces Divorce Contest

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 12.—Joseph Josack, Jr., theatrical and movie manager, today declared he would contest the divorce suit instituted in Pittsburgh by Mrs. Margery E. Josack, of Webster Hall, a daughter of Harry Brown, manager of the Nixon Theater.

Josack, whose address in the divorce papers was given as "unknown," lives at 5846 Lexington avenue. He said:

"I still love my wife and hope we can be together again. I intend to contest the divorce action. It is not her fault. I know if I could talk with my wife personally we could iron the matter out. At present I am unable to get away from my duties at a local film studio to get back to Pittsburgh."

Mrs. Josack filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court January 27, charging her husband with cruelty.

KIN OF LINCOLN HELD IN JAIL AS RED

Accuse Woman of Trying To Overthrow Union That 'Railsplitter' Died to Save

PINEVILLE, Ky., Feb. 12.—While all the nation today joined in celebrating the one hundred and twenty-third anniversary of Abraham Lincoln, the great Civil War President, one of Lincoln's relatives languished in jail here on charges of trying to overthrow that same union which Lincoln saved.

The Lincoln kin was Mrs. Clarina Michelson, 50, of Boston, Mass., held in the Bell County Jail here with eight others for alleged criminal syndicalism in connection with the activities of the National Miners' Union among striking Kentucky miners.

Mrs. Michelson, well known in New York and Boston social circles, was found today in a small white-washed two-room addition to the main jail building, where she has been confined since her arrest January 5 in a raid by deputies on the union's headquarters here.

Suffering from acute laryngitis, she lay on a cot, her head and neck swathed in hot towels, between the folds of which were visible strands of black hair turning to gray. She said:

"Sure, I am a distant relative of Lincoln, but what about it? I'm not looking for publicity."

Her father, she explained, was Charles S. Hanks, second cousin of Nancy Lee Hanks, mother of Lincoln.

She stared out of the window toward the West, where 125 miles away there is a tiny log cabin near Hodgenville, Ky., where Lincoln was born. She continued:

"Lincoln fought for the freedom of the slaves. I too am fighting for freedom of slaves—wage slaves."

WILKINSBURG SCHOOL CHILDREN PAYING HOMAGE TO A HERO

Pupils in Penn avenue, at the junction of the William Penn and Lincoln highways, in a quiet minute of homage to Abraham Lincoln, whom a great nation reveres today, his birthday anniversary.

LINCOLN VISITS RECALLED ON BIRTHDAY

Children, Societies Join as City Honors Memory of Martyred War President

Pittsburgh school children have been making miniature log cabins, reciting Lincoln's Gettysburg address and writing essays aboutt "Honest Old Abe" in memory of his birthday today. Many civic and fraternal organizations have planned programs commemorating the birth of the great Civil War President.

A few old-time residents remember Lincoln's visit to Pittsburgh four years and two months before his assassination. February 14, 1861, he and his family stopped here overnight on their way to Washington. John Newton Boucher, who recorded the visit in a history of Pittsburgh written in 1908, said:

"The reception which was accorded him was a spontaneous, rather than a pre-arranged one, but no returning conqueror, no prince or potentate ever received a more loyal nor a more demonstrative welcome than he."

HAILED BY CROWD

Although his train was delayed two-and-a-half hours, a crowd estimated at 10,000 waited in the rain at the Federal Street Station and on Smithfield and Front streets, near the Monongahela House, where he was to stay, to glimpse the famous President, Boucher said.

They cried for a speech as his carriage passed from the station to the St. Clair (now the Sixth Street) Bridge, escorted by a military company composed of the Pennsylvania Dragoons, the Jackson Independent Blues and the Washington Infantry under the command of Gen. J. S. Negley. The reception committee, members of Pittsburgh and Allegheny councils and thousands of enthusiastic citizens followed the carriage through rain and mud, according to Sarah H. Killikelly, another Pittsburgh historian of 1906.

Because the crowds outside the hotel would not leave without seeing him, he spoke to them a few minutes from the balcony that night. He told them, this author said:

"Tomorrow morning I will address you in broad daylight at half past 8 o'clock from this balcony, when you will have an opportunity of seeing my handsome physiognomy."

'KEEP COOL' MESSAGE

His address the next morning had a message as good today as then. He said:

"My advice is to keep cool. Let the people keep their self-possession, and just as other clouds have cleared away, in due time so will this great nation continue to prosper as heretofore."

Following a reception the committee of the Legislature escorted the President to Harrisburg. Lincoln is said to have attended the first Republican convention in Pittsburgh, February 22, 1856, and to have been in the city often as an unknown passenger on trains.

News of Lincoln's assassination reached Pittsburgh at 1 a. m. April 15, 1865. All business was suspended. Many shops and houses and the suits of rooms he had occupied at the Monongahela House were drapped in mourning. Three days later an order from the Governor and Mayor again suspended commercial activities while the dead President's funeral train was going through the state from Washington to Philadelphia.

MEMORIAL MEETING

Frank C. Huston, of Indianapolis, commander-in-chief of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will speak at a dinner in Soldiers' Memorial Hall tonight. Mrs. Wilma Combs, of Des Moines, Ia., national president of the auxiliary, is a guest. Samuel P. Town, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Mrs. Lenore Helm, department president of the auxiliary, Philadelphia, will be present. Mrs. Sue Rowland, president of the Federated Patriotic Orders, will act as toastmistress.

Judge James H. Gray spoke on the life of Lincoln at the annual Lincoln Day banquet and card party of the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local Union No. 95, in Kaufmann's dining room last night. General President John Possehl, of Savannah, Ga., was a guest speaker.

RUSS EXPLORER TO WED AFTER ASIA PERILS

Hailed by Miss Schurman In Peiping After Party Braves Marco Polo Trail

PEIPING, China, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The Haardt-Citroen expedition reached Peiping today after an 8,000-mile trek across Asia, and revealed the romance of Miss Barbara Schurman, daughter of the noted American diplomat, Jacob Gould Schurman, and Vladimir Petropavlosky, Russian member of the expedition.

Miss Schurman, who arrived from the United States several days ago, met her fiance on his arrival today. The couple will be married tomorrow at the American legation after a separation of almost a year.

CAPTIVE THREE MONTHS

Members of the expidition told a thrilling tale of how the love affair almost came to a disastrous end in Chinese Turkestan. Petropavlosky, who helped organize an auxiliary unit which went from Peiping to meet the main body of explorers, was held in virtual captivity for three months in Hami, Chinese Turkestan.

The Russian had gone there to guard expedition supplies and shortly there began a seige by Mohammedan rebels. The Russian was faced with the prospect of placing himself at the mercy of the besiegers or remaining in Hami. He finally succeeded in escaping by automobile into an unknown section of the Taklamakan desert with a Chinese officer.

JOINS MAIN PARTY

There followed much traveling, but Petropavlosky finally reached Urumchi just in time to meet the main expedition on its arrival from Aksu.

The adventurers, with the noted Frenchman, Georges-Marie Haardt, as their leader, left Beirut, Syria, April 4, 1931. They followed the trail roughly blazed centuries ago by Marco Polo, but had modern tractor-driven automobiles to get them through the unknown areas of the continent.

WOMAN FIGHTS POISON CHARGE

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Hunted in connection with an alleged poison plot of Borgian cunning, pretty Mrs. Marie Kegel, 34, was located by newspapermen today.

Prostrated by a nervous breakdown, she is in a private sanitarium. When her condition permits, probably tomorrow, she will surrender and demand immediate trial on the charge of assault with intent to murder, contained in a true bill reported voted by the grand jury.

Meantime, young Gerald Lee, grocery clerk, said to have been named with Mrs. Kegel in the reported indictment, retracted his story of a meeting at which Mrs. Mary Ryan, 35, claims to have been poisoned.

Mrs. Ryan, former maid in the Kegel home, is to be the chief witness against Mrs. Kegel in a suit for divorce brought by Dr. Arnold Kegel, former city health commissioner. The physician charged that his wife frequently tried to poison him.

WRITERS TELL OF HARLAN ROW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—A New York writers' committee went to the Capitol today to press their demand for a congressional investigation into conditions in Harlan and Bell counties, Kentucky, where they charge violence was used against them.

After a brief conference, it was decided to lay their request before a number of Senators who accepted their invitation to hear the writers' story.

Linton M. Oak, New York, acted as spokesman for the protesting group on their arrival here, as Waldo Frank, the author-chairman, who claims he was beaten about the head during a struggle at Pineville, Ky., rested.

Teacher Invents Airplane Muffler

OKLAHOMA CITY.—(AP.)—A school teacher who has made flying machines a hobby since 1907 has invented a muffler for airplane motors which he claims virtually eliminates motor noise in flying.

He is Edgar S. Smith, manual training instructor in an Oklahoma City school. His muffler has been patented and tests have been started with various sizes.

Sang Lincoln Dirge, Society Celebrates

UTICA, N. Y.—(INS.)—Sixty-seven years ago when the body of the martyred president, Lincoln, passed through here the Utica Maennerchor, this city's oldest singing society, went to the train and sang a funeral dirge. The group has just celebrated its sixty-seventh anniversary. The organization now has 400 members.

HEIRESS TO WED MAN SHE SHOT

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The Daily Express today said that Alice Silverthorne, niece of Mrs. Ogden Armour and formerly the Comtesse Frederick De Janze, is to marry Raymond De Trafford, whom she was charged with shooting in a train in 1927.

She was tried in France on the shooting charge and acquitted.

The Express recalled frequent rumors that Miss Silverthorne, who resumed her maiden name after her divorce in 1927, and Trafford were going to marry and that these always were denied.

Reports were current two years ago that De Trafford, youngest brother of Sir Humphrey Edmund De Trafford, and Miss Silverthorne, formerly of Chicago, were engaged.

Miss Silverthorne shot him and herself in a compartment of a French train in 1927. She and Count De Janze were divorced in the same year.

HONOLULU, Feb. 12.—Indomitable courage and the irrepressible spirit of youth are leading Thalia Massie back to health and the normal activities of life.

Where another less sturdy soul might have succumbed to the shock of two crushing tragedies in the brief space of four months, the young United States Navy matron, who is the central figure of Honolulu's social and political upheaval, told me today that she has a "serious mission to perform in life."

This mission, she declared, is to tell the whole story of her terrible experience "to save other girls and awaken Honolulu's long dormant public conscience."

CONFIDENT OF FUTURE

Mrs. Massie will celebrate her twenty-first birthday on Sunday, St. Valentine's Day. Typifying the modern girl in every respect, she refuses to believe that the futures of herself and her husband, Lieut. Thomas Massie, have been blasted forever. She said:

"There is no earthly good now in crying or feeling sorry for myself."

The interview took place aboard the United States Navy receiving ship Alton in Pearl Harbor. It is aboard this ship that Mrs. Massie's husband, her mother, Mrs. Grace Fortescue, and Edward J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, enlisted Navy men, are being held pending trial on second degree murder charges arising from the "honor slaying" of Joe Kahahawai, ringleader of five gangsters alleged to have attacked the pretty matron on the night of September 12.

Mrs. Massie asserted:

"There is no punishment the courts could inflict upon my assaliant which would in any way compensate me for my sufferings."

TELLS OF OUTRAGE

Mrs. Massie denied reports that another woman was with her on the night of the attack and commented with some bitterness on the cruel slanders circulated about her in Honolulu shortly after the incidents of the attack became public.

Reconstructing the story of the fateful night, Mrs. Massie said she entertained friends at home in the early part of the evening, and later all went to the Ala Wai Inn., where they had dinner and danced.

At about 11:30 P. M., "feeling bored and tired," Mrs. Massie left the inn alone for a brief walk in the fresh air. After a few yards she crossed a bridge and turned into John Ena road. She had proceeded only a short distance when an automobile bearing five men halted. Two got out and seized and struck her, she said, and the next thing she knew she was in the back seat of the car with three of the men. The other two were in the front seat.

Recounting the story with emotion, she said:

"Every time I spoke they would strike me to stiffle my cries for help and kept choking me. Finally the car turned off into the brush at the side of Ala Moana boulevard and I was dragged from the car for about 30 feet.

"After that—it was too hideous."

Mrs. Massie was asked if any of the five men was more brutal than the others. She replied:

"Yes, Kahahawai was the most bestial and cruel. It was he who broke my jaw."

WANTS TO FORGET

Lieut. Massie entered the cabin toward the close of the interview. Attired in the white uniform of a lieutenant in the submarine service, he stood smilingly by while Mrs. Massie concluded:

"Some day I know that Tommy, my mother and I in less distressing circumstances will look back on the incidents of that terrible September night and tragic January morning as more of a nightmare, than an awful reality.

"All of us are facing the world unafraid and although we must pass through unpleasant ordeals ahead, we are confident that in the end justice will be found on our side. We all want to go home and be with old friends so we can forget our tragedies."

LAUDS LINCOLN IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Abraham Lincoln's determination to uphold the dignity of America before the world was praised by Representative Burnett M. Chiperfield (Rep.), of Illinois, in a speech in the House today on the anniversary of the Civil War President's birth. He said:

"One lesson taught by Lincoln that may be helpful at the present day was his unfaltering determination to stand steadfast before the nations of the world for the rights of America.

"Today we are in the midst of a great national crisis and confronted with and threatened by a world cataclysm which all pray may be averted.

"It will be averted whenever the people of the nation are sufficiently impressed with the importance of and need for united action."

Lincoln Courage Urged by Smoot

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Senator Smoot, in the Senate today, said the "buoyant courage and unswerving determination of Lincoln puts to shame those Americans who have surrendered to skepticism and despair because of the economic storm which is now sweeping over the world."

Recalling that Lincoln sustained the nation through its greatest political crisis by his own indomitable courage, the Utahan said he had every confidence that same spirit "will actuate the American people in this present exigency."

Birthplace Pupils Pay Lincoln Honor

HODGENVILLE, Ky., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The pages of history were turned back to antebellum days today as Hodgenville school children depicted the early life of Abraham Lincoln in a realistic pageant.

The pageant, enacted at the birthplace of Lincoln here, was the main event on this little town's celebration of the great emancipator's anniversary.

Lincoln Couldn't 'Play' With G.O.P. Now—Pinchot

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—A wreath sent by President Herbert Hoover was placed at the tomb of Abraham Lincoln today. In the group which paid homage to the emancipator, was Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, who last night declared Lincoln wouldn't "get to first base" with Republican leaders of today. And Dr. Jose Manuel Puig Casuaranc, the Mexican ambassador.

At 7 p. m. the annual meeting of the Abraham Lincoln Association will be held, with Dr. Louis A. Warren, director of the Lincoln Historical Research Foundation of Fort Wayne, Ind., as speaker.

SAW LINCOLN INAUGURATED

Vivid recollections of the great crowd that saw Abraham Lincoln inaugurated President for his first term, March 4, 1861, are brought on the one hundred and twenty-third anniversary of his birth to Mrs. Clara H Leezer, of 815 Butler street, Tarentum.

Mrs. Leezer

But her memories of the actual incidents of the historical event are submerged by the mental impression the great crowd made upon the mind of the 11-year-old girl she was when she made the trip to Washington.

She was taken to witness the inauguration of the frontiersman by her uncle, William Hight, with whom she lived.

Today, she recalls only the railroad trip to the capital, the great throng that attended and the beautiful day for this memorable event.

Mrs. Leezer, who is the mother of ex-Burgess J. K. F. Weaver, of Tarentum, will be 82, March 3. She is the widow of two Civil War veterans, and is still active in affairs of the Ladies Auxiliary of Eli Hemphill Post No. 135, G. A. R., at Tarentum.

Her first husband was Samuel Weaver, a veteran of the 102d Pennsylvania Infantry. He died April 26, 1898. She later married George Leezer, who died 11 years ago. He, too, was a Civil War veteran.

Mississippi Floods Stores in Kentucky

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Muddy waters of the Mississippi River were spreading over the business district of Hickman, Ky., today, but merchants were erecting scaffolds in their stores and conducting business as usual. The scaffolds were being built two feet above the present water in anticipation of higher water in the Mississippi and its tributaries which are stretching out over a wide area in Southwest Kentucky and Northwest Tennessee.

The Chinese thereby successfully evaded the Japanese outposts and reached the defenders of Woosung village with fresh supplies and ammunition together with information and advice from German advisers quartered at the Chinese army headquarters in the rear of Chapei.

Also at the same time Chinese plainclothesmen by a daring infiltration through the Japanese lines, reopened their house-to-house offensive in the rear of the Nipponese attackers.

Did you read my last dispatch about my adventures in the launch?

CHUCKLE FOR GIBBONS

Well, sir, I got quite a kick over reading the following paragraph in Shanghai's American newspaper, as follows:

"A warning against the use of Woosung Creek was broadcast today by Capt. Yukuchi of the Japanese headquarters staff, as the result of the appearance of a tiny vessel off Woosung Creek. The boat flew the Stars and Stripes at her stern. She was not fired on by Japanese forces because she flew the American flag, but as Japanese military believe the boat's occupants actually were Chinese, no such courtesy hereafter will be shown foreign-owned craft unless notification is first given to Japanese army headquarters."

Ain't that the pay-off?

After a lot of cruising around here in my speedboat to get a line on the Japanese bombardment of the Chinese shore defenses about Woosung, I borrowed a runabout and hit the military road along the shore of the Yangtze and headed back for Woosung Creek.

As I reached the creek a sudden roar of motors overhead was followed by the staccato of a machine gun as a Japanese airplane dove below across the road. I couldn't figure out what the pilot was firing at and my curiosity was shared by two Chinese linemen straddling the crosspieces of a telegraph pole fixing the wires 100 yards off.

They looked blandly upward the same as I, wondering as to the cause of the firing—but not for long! As the splinters began to fly from the telegraph pole the linemen realized suddenly that they were the targets for the aerial visitor.

STEPS ON GAS

Both shinnied down in a hurry as the plane zoomed upward and circled above, again firing bullets kicking up mud around the Chinese fleeing across the low field, in and out between large mounds of Chinese graves. I speeded up my car.

This was just the beginning, the forerunner of a stiff battle.

The Japanese sailors, after two weeks, have failed to occupy the North Railroad Station in the Shanghai Chinese city, but the Japanese land forces certainly have moved into both railroad stations on the south side of Woosung Creek.

This was apparent as I parked my car in the shelter of a foreign cemetery wall through which Japanese advance guards had made a breach as they drove the Chinese defenders before them the previous day. The railroad station beside the cemetery was surmounted by the Japanese sun flag flying from a tall bamboo pole lashed to the chimney.

Rifles were cracking intermittently, a mere omen of the fire that was to follow almost immediately.

Japanese field guns were firing from behind a bamboo enclosure tossing shells on well-constructed Chinese defenses extending westward for more than a mile on the north shore of Woosung Creek.

ATTACK REPULSED

Machine-gun fire from Chinese defenses suddenly broke out in a rattling crescendo as the Japanese infantry attempted to swing Chinese barges into pontoon position close beside a destroyed railroad bridge which crossed the creek.

Japanese machine-gunners and riflemen firing from the trenches and behind individual steel armor plates on the south side of the creek increased a crackling fire into a roar endeavoring to cover the advance of the bridge builders.

The costly attempt failed with severe losses to Japanese soldiers who, riddled with lead, plunged headforemost into the muddy waters of Woosung Creek, while the wounded were sprawled on the barges, crawling and dragging themselves, seeking shelter behind wooden gunwales, which were splintered by the ripping blasts of machine-gun fire.

In the midst of the repulsed crossing, Japanese destroyers again hurled shells from the Whangpoo River on the right and seaplanes overhead dropped heavy explosives on the Chinese side of the creek, causing terrific destruction, but not silencing the steady and persistent fire of the Chinese defenders.

The Japanese made two other costly attempts to cross the creek during the afternoon, but failed again with severe losses.

CHINA DEMANDS LEAGUE ACT

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT

International News Service

GENEVA, Feb. 12.—China today called upon the League of Nations Council to convoke the assembly in extraordinary session to consider her conflict with Japan.

After a series of conferences with diplomats of other nations, W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, handed the league secretariat at 11:30 a formal letter making the request upon the council.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary and one of the leading legal lights of England, told International News Service he had absolutely no idea what powers the League of Nations assembly possessed to deal with the Sino-Japanese dispute.

U.S. DOUGHBOYS IN CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS)—Policing of the International Settlement at Shanghai is now under the control of the 31st United States Infantry, with the exception of a small sector about the North station which is still patrolled by an infantry regiment of Russians, Admiral M. M. Taylor advised the Navy Department today.

Taylor reported the arrival of two American destroyers, Parrot and Smith Thompson, at Nanking to assist in evacuation if necessary. Shasi, 750 miles up the Yangtze River, was reported quiet by the United States gunboat Palos, with martial law prevailing during the night.

RUSS DEFENSE TIGHTENED

WARSAW, Feb. 12.—(INS)—The Soviet government is intensifying its defense measures along the Manchurian frontier, it was learned from the most reliable sources here today.

Military trains continue to depart for the East daily.

The fear of war with Japan has gripped the Russian people, who know that if hostilities commence the Red army will be well rationed with food and they may be put on a starvation diet.

A strict censorship is being imposed at Moscow on all dispatches relating to military movements.

Chinese Stampede Swamps Americans

SHANGHAI, Feb. 12.—(AP)—American civilians of the Shanghai Volunteer Guard had to call for help today when droves of Chinese besieged the Settlement gates into Chapei while this morning's four-hour truce was effective.

The Chinese thought the boundary had been thrown open and they would be permitted to go back to their ruined homes to salvage what they could. No one was permitted to cross the boundary.

British Regiment Ordered to China

POONA, India, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The British East Lancashire regiment, which was due to have gone from here to Khartoum, Egypt, in March has been ordered to Shanghai instead. It will sail about February 23.

B. & L. Bankruptcy Ban OK'd by Hoover

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—President Hoover late yesterday signed the bill passed by Congress exempting building and loan associations from being adjudged bankrupt.

son arrived near the forts this morning.

CRUISER OPENS FIRE

"A Japanese cruiser fired eight shells into the fort, and shortly afterward a destroyer fired more. Then a plane dropped bombs upon the fort, one of which fell in the water less than a quarter of a mile from our bows.

"The Chinese did not reply. The Japanese, of course, knew the British and American ministers were aboard, and they must have timed their attack purposely."

The plan of the two foreign ministers to come to Shanghai from Nanking where they are stationed was announced publicly two days ago and the time of their trip also was made known.

3,000 Refugees Taken From Battered Chapel

SHANGHAI, Feb. 12.—(AP)—More than 3,000 marooned victims of a terrible two-week battle were brought out of Chapei during the four-hour truce today, many of them wounded soldiers in ambulances. These were taken to hospitals.

Father Jacquinot, French priest, who arranged the truce and led the rescue party into Chapei, said the hundreds of civilians who were brought out undoubtedly escaped death.

It was not easy for Father Jacquinot and his "mercy" corps, bearing Red Cross flags, to persuade some of the Chinese families to retire out of reach of the bombs and machine guns. They hesitated long about leaving their homes, even in the abattoir Chapei had become, and some of them refused all persuasion, preferring to remain with their household goods and their possessions in their own homes to the safety and modicum of comfort they might find in sectors of peace.

REPARATIONS PACT BARED

GENEVA, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Reports that France and England had reached an accord on reparations were confirmed today by a reliable Italian source.

Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, and Sir John Simon, foreign minister of Great Britain, went over the entire reparations situation last night, International News Service informant said.

Furthermore it was learned that Grandi had agreed to a belated reparations conference at Lausanne in June. The conference scheduled to take place last month was postponed.

The British foreign minister informed friends he would leave for Paris tomorrow and would meet Premier Laval presumably to put the finishing touches on the accord.

Kingford-Smith May Head Chinese Fliers

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Charles Kingford-Smith, the Australian flier, has been offered the post of commander-in-chief of the Chinese air force to fight against the Japanese, according to a Sydney dispatch to the Daily Herald.

In an interview with the Australian correspondent, Kingsford-Smith was quoted as admitting he had been offered a price by the Chinese for the purchase of his Australian National Airways fleet of planes.

League Commission Postpones Sailing

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The sailing of the League of Nations commission, which will investigate the Sino-Japanese conflict in Manchuria, has been postponed until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Inability of the commission to reach here in time for a scheduled embarkation at noon today resulted in the decision to hold the trans-Pacific liner President Coolidge 22 hours.

Priests and Nuns Reported Wounded

TOKIO, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Tokio newspapers print dispatches from their Shanghai correspondents declaring that several Catholic priests and nuns carrying the Red Cross flag were wounded by Chinese plainclothesmen when they entered the Chapei district under today's truce to evacuate wounded.

(Editor's note—There is no confirmation of these reports from International News Service correspondents at Shanghai, one of whom accompanied the rescue party into Chapei.)

Japan to Protest Filipino Volunteers

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Newspaper reports here that 700 cadets of the University of the Philippines Islands planned to enlist in the Chinese army brought an immediate announcement from Japanese Consul Kumura today he would protest to the Governor General.

Inquiry disclosed, however, that only two Filipino cadets and one cadet officer have said they planned to go to China.

Air Pilots Strike Mediation Offered

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—With a member of Congress ready to act as mediator and their stand solidly supported by the American Federation of Labor, the cause of the striking pilots of the Century Airlines was regarded as strengthened here today. Representative La Guardia (Rep.), of New York, offered to act as mediator for the pilots in a telegram sent to President E. L. Cord of the airlines at Chicago.

MY COMMISSION EXPIRES

203,634 lbs. of butter, 3,182 large tubs—101.8 tons—over 12 carloads—were sold in 4 weeks—24 business days—from January 4th to January 30th at retail—every pound over the counters in Donahoe's Fifth Avenue Store.

As we believe the public is more interested in what we sell—the quality and price of our foodstuffs—rather than the quantity we sell, we do not like to boast about how much we sell of various items, but where all world's records are broken in the sale of butter in a single store, we think we owe it to the public to let them know.

"Who's Who" in the butter business of Pittsburgh

Donahoe's Butter is so good, so high in flavor and aroma, so reliable and so dependable that day by day since the opening of the Fifth Avenue Store, only a few years ago, the reputation of Donahoe's Butter has so steadily increased that its handful of users then has multiplied into the host that made possible this record-breaking sale during the four weeks from January 4th to January 30th.

Every day more and more people are getting the habit of buying their butter and other foods at DONAHOE'S conveniently located store in FIFTH AVENUE—right in the heart of the shopping district.

CANTOR SUES TRADING FIRM

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—The Times says an accounting for $100,000,000 allegedly lost by the Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation through improper management is sought in a stockholder's action by Eddie Cantor, stage comedian.

The action, filed at Wilmington, Del., names a group of present and past co-partners of the banking firm of Goldman Sachs and Company, certain officers and directors of the trading company, the trading company itself and the Central States Electric Corporation.

In particularizing his charges the newspaper quotes Cantor as saying he holds stock of Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation for which he paid approximately $330,000 and which now is worth around $7,000.

ALLEN TURNING TO STABLES

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12—(INS)—Edward H. B. Allen, the main line society youth recently acquitted of slaying his sister's suitor, is going steeplechasing again. His great love for horses has so attracted him to the stables of friends that young Eddie for the present has given up plans for a Bermuda rest trip.

Instead he is now recovering his strength on the Berwyn estate of Sydney J. Holloway, breeder and owner of a number of thoroughbreds. There he has renewed his friendship with many of the jumpers and hunters whom he rode prior to November 9 last when he shot and killed Francis A. Donaldson III. He is still too weak, however, from his three months' imprisonment and the strenuous ordeal of his trial to do much riding.

Henry Gets Humes' Board Post Here

Attorney John M. Henry, of 1934 Beechwood boulevard, has been appointed to the Pittsburgh Board of Registration Commissioners, according to an announcement today from Harrisburg.

Henry succeeds Maj. E. Lowry Humes, of Pittsburgh, whose term has expired. Humes was not confirmed by the state Senate during the recent special session and Gov. Pinchot did not re-appoint him.

Railroader Held As Bogus Officer

William H. Ramsey, 53, former railroader, of Conway, Pa., was held for Federal Court trial, charged with representing himself as a secret service agent, by a United States commissioner today. According to testimony he displayed a badge to Charles Nosoff, Ambridge storekeeper, who cashed an alleged worthless $50 check for Ramsey, January 13.

POEM EVIDENCE IN COURT FIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—A privately printed poem called "The Wild Party" went into Superior Court records yesterday as argument against the qualifications of its author, Joseph Moncure March, to rear children.

March and Peggy Prior Von Eltz were married several days ago, and yesterday Mrs. March went into Judge Dudley Valentine's court in a continuance of her effort to obtain custody of her two children by Theodore von Eltz, film actor. The children are now being cared for in a neutral home.

Von Eltz's attorney, Hal Hughes, produced a copy of "The Wild Party" and called March to the stand to inquire if he were the author. March admitted it and Hughes filed the book in evidence to sustain his claim that March's home would not be a proper place for the children. Judge Valentine took the case under advisement.

Rush on Pump Shows Flow Of Spirits

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 12.—Harry Kloss' pump has become the popular gathering place hereabouts.

Harry complained to police that instead of Aqua pura spiritus frumenti gush forth.

Police investigating found that the alcohol is supplied by seepage from the basement of a neighboring bungalow where prohibition agents dumped 20,000 gallons of mash.

State Constable Held On Charge of Beating

Corp. Joseph Schmidt of State Police Troop D at Butler was held for court charged with assault and battery last night by Justice of the Peace Tony Savatt of Stowe Township in connection with the alleged beating of Nick DeAngelis, store proprietor of Fleming Park, in a raid January 23. Hearings of two constables also accused of assault were held over.

COURT ACQUITS SCHAD IN VOTE FRAUD CASE

orders to Mercy Hospital prior to the September election last year. The witness said he had—for the nuns who live there.

Clunk asked him:

"Then you were 'mistaken' yesterday when you testified that you didn't get any tax orders."

The witness answered:

"Yes."

ATTACK ALPERT STORY

Today's defense witnesses obviously were sent to the stand to discredit Alpert's story and his veracity.

They included Patrolman Martin Averbach, Michael Hooper, Al Goldstein, William Richardson and Thomas Lysaght, all First Ward residents.

All except Averbach testified that Alpert had told them he used Walsh's name as one of those who asked him to place additional names on the assessment lists—the first basis for vote registration—because he thought its influence would help clear him.

Patrolman Averbach, who lives at 41 Marion street, said that William Dacy, another policeman, was with him when he heard Alpert ask Klein for the $5,000.

RECALLS CONVERSATION

This was at the time the grand jury investigation of the vote conspiracy charges was starting, the witness said.

A short time later, he continued, he and Dacy met Alpert again and the later said:

"I'll have to get out of this jam. I did it for somebody else."

The witness said he asked Alpert why he didn't tell who he did it for and explain everything. He quoted Alpert as replying:

"I'm afraid. If I squawk, he'll kill me."

When Prosecutor Clunk took over the witness he asked:

"Did he tell you who he meant?"

REFUSED TO TELL

Averback answered:

"No. He wouldn't tell."

"You are a police officer. Weren't you interested in who was going to kill a man?"

"Yes. But he would not tell."

Patrolman Dacy followed Averbach and corroborated his statements.

Klein then went on the stand and denied all of the charges against him.

Ramsey followed Klein and told of how the additional assessment book AE, in which the prosecution contends 922 names were fraudulently entered, came into existence.

TELLS OF BOOK

He said it was given to Alpert as a field man, to obtain First Ward assessments and was returned at 10 o'clock the morning after the day it was supposed to have been back in the office.

He testified that he said to Alpert when the latter presented the book:

"This is a hell of a time to bring it in."

Alpert, Ramsey said, explained he had been working on it all night, so Ramsey accepted it. It was transcribed, he said, after George J. Schad, former chairman of the Tax Board, and the fourth defendant, had approved of it. Schad had been assured, Ramsey said, that the names in the book all were legitimate.

Ramsay testified that Alpert had said the County Commissioners wanted him to take the book to Mercy Hospital.

The designation AE was given the book, he said, because none of the regular books were available for the purpose and such a marking would distinguish it.

AIR LINER SETS SPEED RECORD

When a mail plane of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., landed at Bettis Field at 5:15 p. m. yesterday, it had established a record flying time from Columbus, O., to this city. The 160 miles was covered in 50 minutes, the plane flying at a rate of 192 miles an hour.

The pilot was Pat Weaver, and his co-pilot was Bill Netherhoessen. Soon after the plane left Columbus with seven passengers and 1,000 pounds of mail, the pilot received a radio message to speed up the machine, a standard Ford tri-motor, because of an approaching storm. He "stepped on the gas" and the record was established.

Pilot Weaver is from the Pacific Coast, where he has established several speed records. The Transcontinental and Western Air handles mail between Los Angeles and New York.

'Black Eye' Films Win Divorce For Wife

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Every time her husband, Redmond J. Egan, hit Mrs. Helen Egan in the eye, she said, she hurried to a photographer to have her picture taken.

Yesterday she appeared before Judge Craig Hood, exhibited her collection of photographic black eyes, and won a divorce degree.

Judge Hood ordered Egan committed to jail for six months—not for the black eyes, but because he was back in his temporary alimony payments.

LOST, KNEW LINCOLN

FRANKLIN DEVINE, 88 . . . COULDN'T REMEMBER HIS ADDRESS

Mr. Devine at Carrick Police Station, where friendly police sought to locate his home. A Civil War veteran, he could remember Abraham Lincoln, stirred his memory to talk about his deeds.

LINCOLN SPURS VET'S MEMORY

A reminder that today was Lincoln's birthday stimulated the memory of an 88-year-old Civil War veteran in Carrick Police Station where he was taken by a friendly officer because he couldn't remember where he lived.

Franklin Devine, the veteran, couldn't remember the location of the Baldwin Township home which he had left to take a morning walk, but a chance remark mentioning Abraham Lincoln revived a memory that had been dimmed by the years.

And then there followed an account of battles that were fought many years ago. He had taken part in many battles in the Civil War, he told the officers.

Sure, he knew Lincoln; met him several times in Washington after his release from a government hospital in Philadelphia where he was confined with bullet wounds.

While he was entertaining the officers, his son-in-law, James Reyher, of R. F. D. No. 78, came to the station in search of the man, and took him home.

POWERS CALM IN DEATH CELL

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Harry F. Powers outwardly is not worrying about the day he'll hang for killing Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke. His behavior, Warden A. C. Scroggins, of the West Virginia Penitentiary, says, has been of the best.

Powers, who was convicted of killing Mrs. Lemke and burying her body on "Quiet Dells" farm, reads a great deal, talking on a wide range of subjects, but never his crimes, and takes his life in prison without a grumble.

He is not in solitary confinement, but has a room in "death row," where his nerves apparently remain steeled. No one but prison officials and attorneys visit him.

Powers is under sentence to die March 18 for his crime, but a battle for a new trial has been started. He was indicted for killing Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her four children, of Park Ridge, Ill., but he was not tried on that count.

Stone Will Resume Show After Funeral

The death of Mrs. Clara J. Stone, 77, mother of Fred Stone, the actor, in Freeport, N. Y., will not affect his performances at the Alvin Theater here next week, it was announced at the theater. Stone, who closed his Washington engagement, will resume there Saturday and move to Pittsburgh over Sunday. His daughter, Dorothy, playing in Youngstown, O., hurried east for the funeral.

Three Held Here As Robber Suspects

Suspected as being responsible for a series of safe robberies, three Youngstown men today were held over in Central Police Station for further investigation. The prisoners, William J. Kelley, 30; Frank Bell, 41, and Charles Barry, 28, were turned over to city detectives by Beaver Falls police.

House Urged to Ask Pardon for Mooney

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Representative La Guardia, of New York, introduced today a resolution which would have the House of Representatives urge Gov. Rolph, of California, to pardon Tom Mooney.

STORE VETERAN TO MEET PUBLIC

Mr. Horne

Albert A. Horne, for 67 years an employe of the Joseph Horne Company, and a second cousin of its founder, will play an honor role in the store's eighty-third anniversary celebration, which starts today.

He will hold a public reception on each of the celebration's eight days at 3:30 p. m., in the Inspirational Rooms, on the store's third floor. There he will reminisce informally with those who desire information of Pittsburgh during the past three-quarters of a century.

Horne recalls distinctly the excitement which followed the assassination of President Lincoln—just two days after he entered the store's employ. He tells of the rush for mourning materials and how within a few hours not a piece of black goods could be purchased in Pittsburgh, every yard having gone to drape houses and public buildings.

Black to Address Secretaries' Forum

Sol Black, of 1001 Chateau street, will address the Secretaries' Forum of the Linen Supply Association of America, which meets Monday and Tuesday in Atlantic City. The convention will discuss problems facing the linen supply industry.

Hoover Signs Bill For Homestead Span

President Hoover yesterday signed the bill permitting the County Commissioners to build a new bridge spanning the Monongahela River between Homestead and Pittsburgh, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Mayview Coal Mine Wage Parley Slated

A conference to iron out wage difficulties of miners employed at the Municipal Coal Mine at Mayview was scheduled for tomorrow between Council members, Controller James P. Kerr and Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Welfare.

Fourteen miners and tipplemen employed at Mayview have protested against contemplated reductions in pay in conformity with the new union scale, which goes into effect shortly. The miners argue, it was said, that the scale should not affect men employed in non-commercial workings.

$18,000 WILL AIDS CHURCHES

James McCallister, North Side, left $18,000 to churches and institutions by his will. One-fifth each was left the Christian Missionary Alliance, Pittsburgh Association, and Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, and one-tenth each to Kingsley House Association, Elida Orphanage and Rescue Home, Asheville, N. C., Masonic Home for Girls, St. Barnabas Free Home, New Covenant Mission and the Providence Presbyterian Church, North Side. Of his $30,000 estate, $12,000 was left a brother, Hugh, Port Angeles, Wash., and relatives.

Robert E. Owings, of 535 Campbell street, Wilkinsburg, left his $20,000 estate to his wife, for life, and at her death or remarriage $1,000 to the Baptist Orphanage, Castle Shannon road, and the remainder to relatives.

EDUCATOR HERE TRANSFERRED

Dr. Carroll

The Rev. James F. Carroll, vice president of Duquesne University and head of the department of philosophy, has been transferred to the Holy Ghost Seminary, Ferndale, Norwalk, Conn., as director of the scholasticate, it was announced today.

Dr. Carroll, an alumnus of Duquesne University, received his master's degree here in 1910. He became a member of the faculty in 1920 and soon after was made dean of the college of arts and letters. Four years ago he was appointed to the vice presidency, succeeding the late Rev. Henry J. McDermott.

30 Hurt in Berlin Fascist-Red Strife

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The Fascists and the Communists renewed their political warfare last night when nine clashes occurred in scattered sections of Berlin and at least 30 persons were injured, many seriously.

Chairs, knives, razors, beer mugs and blackjacks were brought into play by the combatants before police squads took a hand and arrested 40 of them.

William Hodge Wills His Estate to Widow

GREENWICH, Conn., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The estate of William Hodge, playwright and actor, was left to his widow, Mrs. Mary Dale Hodge, under the terms of his will, admitted for probate here. The will disposes of real estate valued at $163,110, and personal property estimated to "exceed $1,000." Hodge died in his home here January 30.

MAN IN HOOVER KIN CASE FREED

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 12—(AP.)—Clifford S. Dailey, grocer, arrested last November 8 with C. Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover on a charge of possessing liquor was acquitted by a municipal court jury of six men and six women last night.

Leavitt, previously tried and acquitted, was a witness. He testified that when officers approached the store the grocer thrust a sack containing 19 pints of liquor into his hands and asked that he take it away.

He did not know what the sack contained at the time, he said. He admitted having taken several drinks of liquor before the incident.

Defense witnesses sustained Dailey's assertion that he was not in the store at the time. One Walter Butterly, testified that when Leavitt entered the place he was "staggering drunk."

How Does a Woman Champion Manage?

Women champions cannot have "off days." Day after day of practice and play, and matches that permit no postponements. Then how do they manage during regular periods when other women are sunk with pain? They meet these monthly emergencies with Midol and they don't ever experience a twinge of periodic pain.

Harmless as it is, a Midol tablet blocks all possibility of periodic pain for hours at a stretch. It isn't a narcotic. But it acts in seven minutes, and lets you menstruate in comfort! Just ask the druggist for Midol.

Chic Frock and Bolero

Pattern 2282

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS

When your income is limited, it is clever to combine frocks and jackets so that many different ensembles may result. Here is an adorable frock with paneled skirt that rises above the waistline, done in a gay print and a sleeveless yoke in solid color. The bolero uses the print and may be worn with white or colored frocks that harmonize with the print. Or you may reverse the order and wear a jacket of plain color over a print frock.

Pattern 2282 may be ordered only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 39-inch fabric, ¾ yard contrasting.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

THE NEW SPRING FASHION CATALOG IS NOW READY. This beautiful, colorful book offers 32 pages of chic, authentic Anne Adams styles for adults and children. The newest frocks for afternoon, evening and sports wear, exquisite lingerie, attractive house dresses and adorable kiddie models are featured—all personally chosen by Anne Adams and all fashionable, practical and easy and inexpensive to make. SEND FOR YOUR COPY. PRICE OF CATALOG, 15 CENTS. CATALOG AND PATTERN TOGETHER, 25 CENTS. Address all mail and orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book, send 10c extra.

ESSAYS WILL BE JUDGED BY EDUCATORS

School Leaders in Five Counties on Committee In Washington Contest

Prominent educators of five counties, including Allegheny, will be included in the committee which will judge the winners of the Washington Essay Contest.

The contest, based on George Washington's farewell address, will begin Sunday when, in the Sun-Telegraph, a full page illuminated print of the address will be published.

Students of every college and university in Western Pennsylvania and most grade and high schools have signified their intention, through school officials, to compete in the contest.

Nearly all the schools in Pittsburgh, and in Allegheny, Westmoreland, Washington and Fayette counties have announced their intention of competing.

William Randolph Hearst will present 500 awards to the winners. The first prize will be a gold cup and $100, the winner to be between the ages of 16 and 21 years, in or out of school. Four other classifications will have special prizes.

North Side Man Cut, Suspect Arrested

Roy Defenbaugh, 17, of 533 Boyle street, was recovering in the Allegheny General Hospital today from a knife wound in his hand inflicted last night, police say, by a companion, James McDowell, 17, of 533 McClintock avenue, during an argument. McDowell was lodged in North Side Police Station.

Skipper and Girl Brave Gale to Wed at Sea

LONDON, Feb. 12—(INS.)—Nordic romance defied the fury of the elements today when a Norwegian ship captain and his sweetheart braved one of the heaviest seas in years to be married at sea.

Neither Capt. Danielson, of the schooner Adour, nor his bride, until today Emilee Daude, are qualified English residents, so their marriage, in accordance with English law, had to be performed at least three miles off England's shores.

Despite blizzards and freezing temperatures and treacherous mountains of waves, the couple set out in a little tug.

While the captain's Adour crew manned the tug, the couple were married according to Norwegian rites.

FIRE CAUTION IN HOME URGED

Fire prevention is just as important in the home as in the factory, Chief Edward H. Warr, of the Baltimore Fire Insurance Patrol, told the members of the Chamber of Commerce "fire school" at its fourth session last night. He warned against leaving combustible materials near furnaces or stoves, advised that cellars and garrets be cleaned out and particular attention paid to electrical wiring fixtures, as some of the measures that could be taken to forestall life and property loss.

John T. Ryan, chairman of the fire school committee, was chairman of the meeting.

Asks Permit to Sell Mars Rails, Bridges

Maurice R. Scharff, receiver for the Pittsburgh-Mars-Butler Railway Company and the Pittsburgh-Harmony-Butler-New Castle Railways Company, asked permission to sell the tracks and bridges of the two companies to Ralph M. Morganstern. He has offered $29,000 for the Pittsburgh-Mars equipment and $84,000 for the other company's. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker ordered creditors to show cause why the sale should not be made.

MUSIC

Marguerite Lang
Schenley Ballroom

PROGRAM

Lungi del Caro Bene	Secchi
Danza, Danza	Durante
Faust Fantasie	Wieniawski
Aria "Racconto" 3rd act opera "Andrea Chenier"	Giordano
Traume	Richard Wagner
Es Blinkt der Thau	Rubenstein
Morning Hymn	Henschel
Folk Song	Foster
Grand Aria opera "La Gioconda"	Ponchiello

Marguerite Lang, dramatic soprano, sang a recital in Schenley Ballroom last night before an audience which doubtless admired her and demanded many extra songs.

Mr. Lissfelt

Miss Lang's voice is one of the beautiful voices in this city. She chooses excellent songs and in her singing lends them distinction and the best taste. She is naturally musical although she has not yet realized the fullest possibilities of her voice. It wants still more spontaneity.

Her best contributions were both dramatic arias which were exceedingly attractive with the accompaniment of piano and string quartet. In these there was an operatic largeness of declamation that made them realistic. In her songs Miss Lang is best when her sense of light humor is leading her.

Assisting the singer was Oscar Davis, a youthful violinist, a big talent who was not quite ready for the difficult Faust Fantasie, but whose charming encore was full of smooth tone and thoroughly poetic feeling.

Gladys Schane-Kiaber played accompaniments for Miss Lang, Ferdinand Fillion for Oscar Davis, and the Fillion String Quartet lent a rich background for the operatic numbers.

J. FRED LISSFELT

Nevada Policeman Weds N. Y. Heiress

RENO, Nev., Feb. 12.—(INS)— Dallis B. Reneat, inspector of Nevada state police and Mrs. Ella Smith Decker, heiress daughter of the late Charles Gilbert Smith, a New York banker, are on their honeymoon following their marriage by a justice of the peace. The new Mrs. Reneat divorced Edward P. Decker, New York [illegible], at Carson City recently. Reneat was divorced from his first wife here in 1927.

LEGION TO NAME JOB LEADERS

Appointment was expected today of a Pittsburgh committee of the American Legion to co-operate with the national Legion organization in the greatest mobilization since the World War, concentrating this time on an effort to check the economic depression.

Legion posts with a membership exceeding 1,250,000 men in all sections of the country will devote their energies from February 15, to obtaining employment for 1,000,000 men in 30 days.

Harry L. Hall of New York, special representative of National Commander Henry L. Stevens of the Legion, spoke at a meeting of Western Pennsylvania district commanders, post commanders and adjutants, explaining the plan last night. Newspapers, magazines, billboard owners, radio stations, advertising agencies, stores and industrial firms have already promised co-operation, Hall said.

Foundry Official Will Speak Monday

K. V. Wheeler, of the Lebanon Steel Foundry, Lebanon, Pa., will speak at the meeting of the Pittsburgh Foundrymen's Association Monday night in the Fort Pitt Hotel. H. J. Rowe, of the Aluminum Company of America, will also speak. "Foundry Factors Affecting Casting Design" will be the general theme of the meeting.

FLOYD GIBBONS HERO OF WARS, UPRISINGS

'Buddy' Who Shared Risks Tells of Correspondent

Following is the first of a series of six stories giving the high lights of the colorful and interesting career of Floyd Gibbons, now covering the Sino-Japanese situation at Shanghai for clients of International News Service. The stories are written by Henry Wales, himself a famous war correspondent and a "buddy" of Gibbons for a great many years.

By HENRY WALES
International News Service.

FLOYD GIBBONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—Floyd Gibbons is writing history in another war. His epic, graphic dispatches from China are thrilling millions of readers in America. Syndicated and copied abroad, they are giving the news of the Sino-Japanese struggles to millions more.

The Sino-Japanese clash is the fourth that Gibbons has covered. His first was in Mexico, during the Carranza-Villa operations; later, he was with Pershing's punitive force which thrust deep across the border in pursuit of the bandit's army.

Next came the great war when Gibbons was one of the 14 accredited newspaper correspondents attached to G. H. Q., A. E. F., to Gen. Pershing's staff directly. He covered operations of the Allies' armies all along the front, Belgian, British, French and American, from the North Sea to Switzerland.

Covered Riff War

After that he covered the Riff War in Morocco, when the French joined the Spaniards in a determined drive on Abd-el-Krim's Moors. It resulted in the capture and exile of the rebel leader, the shattering of his forces.

Gibbons has paid a price for his military experience. His left eye was shot away, and his left arm was drilled twice by German machine gun bullets in Belleau Wood, near Chateau Thierry, in June, 1918.

Thrice around the world, once across Asia abroad the trans-Siberian express, over the Sahara desert from Algiers to Timbuctoo on the Niger; around Africa, stopping at every port; through the Antipodes, from Singapore to Australia and New Zealand, he has visited every country on the globe, lived in every capital, except a few insolated districts in South America.

In Russia during the dread days immediately after the Red revolution, he covered various fronts during the foreign intervention uprisings, when Judenitch, Kolchak, Denikin and finally Wrangel, attempted to wrest back the country from the Bolshevics.

In Famine Zone

Afterward in the terrible famine which swept over the Volga region and the Ukraine, he visited the scene of the scourge, witnessed the plight of the dying thousands. Then he made his way back, alone, to Moscow, straight across European Russia to file despatches which resulted in the United States rushing its help, food, medicines, clothing, to the starving peasants.

After covering the "Black and Tan" troubles in Ireland, he rushed to Berlin for the "Kapp putsch" to overthrow the German Republic in 1920, went to upper Silesia for the bloody riots between Poles and Germans in 1921, was in the Ruhr ,or the military occupation by the French and Belgians in the next year. Afterward he hurried to Poland for Budienny's Red cavalry drive on Warsaw, only checked at the gates of the capital.

Later he covered the election of Pope Pius in Rome, then the Socialist riots and outbreaks in Vienna, the Carolist rising in Budapest, the menace of civil wars in Rumania and Spain, then the Pulsudski coup d'etat in Poland.

Torpedoed at Sea

He was aboard the Laconia when the Cunarder was torpedoed by a U-boat in the Atlantic. He was aboard the Dutch packet plying between England and Holland during the war when she was held up by a submarine and the king's messenger, bearing secret code dispatches from the British government to its embassy at The Hague, was taken off by the German commander.

Later he flew over the Caribbean sea and visited the various ports and islands in the West Indies, studying the potential theater of hostilities of any eventual naval war in American waste.

Turning to new fields, Gibbons burst into radio broadcasting. His "Headline Hunter" series became the most popular feature on the air.

He wrote two books, "The Red Knight of Germany" and "The Red Napoleon." Previously, when he was recuperating from the loss of his eye, he wrote "They Said We Wouldn't Fight." He had done several scenarios for the films. He made lecture tours. He appeared in vaudeville. And he prepared and directed a series of motion pictures in which he appeared personally with such notables as Gen. Pershing, Newton D. Baker and Gen. Harbord.

Far East Beckons

The end of September last, the first danger spark of trouble in the Far East flashed across the international sky. Japanese troops seized Mukden, took possession of the arsenal there, one of three in all China, and the largest and best equipped.

The International News Service obtained Floyd Gibbons' services. They put him under contract to go to the Orient and report the situation. They grabbed this veteran of three wars and a score of foreign revolutions, whose descriptive writings and utterances had enthralled the American public for a score of years.

Gibbons dashed across the Pacific in the same steamship with Will Rogers, off on a jaunt 'round the world. The International News Service completed arrangements by wireless for Gibbons to be received, as soon as he could motor to Tokio from Yokohama, by the Japanese premier and the Japanese minister of war.

A couple of hours after he had touched Japanese soil, Gibbons was flying over it, westward toward Manchuria. His plane refuelled at Shimonoseki, traversed the Straits of Korea to Fusan, refuelled again and sped northwest over the ancient "Hermit Kingdom" and on to Mukden.

Welcomed by Japs

The veteran war correspondent literally "cleaned up" in the Manchurian phase of the Japanese operations. His experience and ability won him the respect of Gen. Honjo and his staff. Pony sleds, riding horses, automobiles, trains and airplanes were put at his disposal. He was given all facilities to visit every theater of action.

Epic Dispatches on China Strife Top Amazing Career

He visited the various Chinese organizations, Gen. Mah's army and the irregular formations, some practically bandit forces, harrying the invading troops.

Scenting the coming shift in operations, he flew down the Lian Tung peninsula, past Dairen, the one-time Russian port, to Port Arthur, constructed by the Tzar prior to 1905 as a Pacific naval base and eastern terminus of the Trans-Siberian Railway. He started for Shanghai.

Japanese naval forces, steaming under forced draught on their secret mission to Shanghai, arrived at the Whangpoo only a couple hours before Floyd Gibbons.

He 'Mops Up'

Covering the Shanghai operations, Gibbons has "mopped up" in impressive style. His eye-witness stories of the menace to the International Settlement, of the seething panic in the Chinese quarter, of the dreadful carnage from shells and bombs in the flimsy built suburb of Chapei, and finally of the assaults on the Woosung forts, are classic examples of the art of journalism, the nice dovetailing of complete, accurate news with graphic descriptive and keen human interest.

No other newspaper correspondent's despatches have approached those of Gibbons in clarity, in vivid color, in wealth of detail. And his messages on the general situation, his analysis of the strategy employed, and the tactics used, his forcast of future phases of the operations, have been unequalled.

Tomorrow the Sun-Telegraph will publish the second installment of Floyd Gibbons' life and activities.

HOME BURNED IN OVERBROOK

Fire early today destroyed the two-story frame dwelling occupied by W. L. Heisey, Jacobs street, near Whitted avenue, Overbrook. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

The fire started, firemen reported, from hot coals dropping from an open grate on the first floor. More than 1,000 feet of hose were required to reach the blaze. Heisey was the only occupant of the house.

Y. W. C. A. Holding Health Conference

The health education departments of the Y. W. C. A. of Western Pennsylvania will hold a seminar in the East Liberty branch tomorrow. Mrs. W. Clarke Maxwell, chairman of the health education department of the East Liberty branch, and Mrs. Charles Longanecker, chairman of the department at the Central branch, will preside.

Speakers will include Miss Helen Crawley, Miss Phyllis Beal, Miss Norma Seal, Prof. Allene Swain Orr, Hunter College, New York; Miss Wilma Lewis, Dr. C. C. Wholey, University of Pittsburgh.

GUARD PREMIER IN JOBLESS RIOT

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Extraordinary precautions were taken today to guard Prime Minister Squiers from another attack as a crowd of unemployed gathered at the government council chambers for the resumption of discussion of a demand for larger doles.

Nearly one-fifth of the population is receiving $1.60 a month per person in government grants.

A delegation of 1,500 demonstrators sought an interview with the Premier yesterday. Angered by what it thought too great a delay in receiving them, the crowd of idle stormed the building, breaking through the police lines.

The surging crowd invaded the Prime Minister's office and in the melee Squiers was hit, but not injured. Doors were broken, windows smashed and furniture damaged before police quelled the riot.

Aluminum Watches On Display Here

Aluminum wrist watches, weighing less than an ounce, said to be the lightest timepieces for practical use, ever manufactured, are on display at McCreery's, this week. The only steel parts are the main spring, hair spring, hands and balance wheel. The aluminum alloys are virtually the same as used in the navy dirigible "Akron," it is said.

HALT DIVERSION OF ALCOHOL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Relatively few producers of industrial alcohol said Commissioner Doran today, are now under suspicion of diverting their product into bootlegging channels.

This view was set out in announcement of a new bulletin dealing with facts on industrial alcohol production, published by the Treasury Bureau which regulates this industry. The announcement said:

> "The alcohol which bootleggers peddle (now) is derived principally from illicit fermentation of corn sugar, cane sugar, molasses and grain to a lesser degree."

It pointed out that in the first years of prohibition industrial alcohol was the chief source of supply. The industrial production under permits now totals nearly a hundred million gallons a year.

BELL IN RACE TO RETAIN POST

William T. Bell today declared himself a candidate for re-election to the Legislature from the Sixth District of Allegheny County. Bell has been a member of the Legislature since 1922, and has served on important committees. In the last session he supported the Pinchot program for utility legislation.

Former Sheriff William S. Haddock has been indorsed by Independent Republican leaders of Dormont as a candidate for delegate to the Republican national convention. Permanent headquarters have been established by the Dormont Independents at Belrose and Potomac avenues, and a meeting with Independent leaders of Forty-fifth Senatorial District will be held Tuesday evening. Edmund H. Ginniff is chairman of the Dormont section, K. William Schuckman, first vice chairman; Chester Winters, second vice chairman; Homer McEwan, secretary, and Frank D. Seidel, treasurer. Legislative candidates will be indorsed at Tuesday's meeting.

Women Independent leaders of seven North Side wards have organized with Mrs. Emma Crossman, of the Twenty-sixth, as general chairlady. The other ward leaders are: Mrs. Kathryn Plank, Twenty-first; Mrs. Julia Allen, Twenty-second; Mrs. Irene Kriegelstein, Twenty-third; Mrs. Jennie Steward, Twenty-fourth; Mrs. W. H. Hart, Twenty-fifth, and Mrs. Elizabeth Zachar, Twenty-seventh.

James R. George, Brighton road business man, and Frank C. Bauer, are receiving Independent indorsements for the Legislature in the Seventh District. Neither has announced his candidacy, but it is understood petitions in their behalf will be circulated next week.

FRIEND TO BURY EX-RICH MAN

The body of the once wealthy J. G. Lewis, one of whose ancestors, he claimed, signed the Declaration of Independence, and who died in the Improvement of the Poor Hotel, Duquesne way, was to be claimed today by his last and only friend—a window washer.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Lewis, of Franklin, his divorced wife, informed Allegheny County Morgue attaches last night she had no intention of claiming Lewis' body.

An attempt to find a sister in Catskill, N. Y., where Lewis was born, was made, but word came back that she was unknown there.

Later, the window washer, G. B. Craig, of Webster avenue, told Coroners the aged man had been his friend and that he would take charge of the burial.

15-FLOOR LEAP KILLS WOMAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Leaving a note in her room, a woman about 30 years old jumped from a fifteenth-floor window of the Claridge Hotel early today. The body, dressed in night clothes, was found on a terrace two floors above the street by a hotel engineer.

The woman registered at the hotel late yesterday as Mrs. Clorida Holland, of Portland, Ore.

The note was as follows:

> "To Whom It May Concern:
> "I did this because it was impossible to go on."
> "Clorida Holland."

McKeesport Doctor Asks Name Change

Change of surname to Menlowe was asked by Dr. and Mrs. Patterson Morris Menlowitz, of 141 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, in a petition filed in Common Pleas Court, stating they suffer embarrassment and inconvenience by the spelling and pronunciation of their name.

Turtle Creek Man Injured in Fall Dies

Injured when he fell down a flight of steps at his home, Harry Lesher, 41, of 111 Brown avenue, Turtle Creek, died in the Braddock General Hospital early today, according to a hospital report. The accident occurred late yesterday.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

SCHOOL CHIEFS OPPOSE PAY REBATES

Officials of Only Two Areas Favor 'Voluntary' Cuts As Superintendents Meet

Only two out of 16 school districts represented in the Independent District Superintendents' Association of Allegheny County favor "voluntary" reduction of teachers' salaries, it was learned following a meeting of the association yesterday.

C. C. Kelso, superintendent of Swissvale public schools and president of the association, said he was not at liberty to reveal the districts favoring salary reductions, as the roll call in which the officials expressed themselves was secret. He said:

"It doesn't seem to me that this disease of salary cutting is very contagious. I don't think it will spread. Those two favorable districts did not indicate they would attempt to effect a reduction but said they might consider such action."

The meeting was called as a result of teachers in Homestead and North Versailles offering "voluntary" salary rebates to the school boards.

John S. Hart, of Glassport, president of the Principals' Round Table in the school district under the jurisdiction of C. E. Dickey, County Superintendent, has announced the salary question will be discussed at the group's meeting Saturday in the City-County Building.

Hart has expressed himself as opposed to any duplication of the action taken in Homestead and North Versailles.

Superintendent Dickey today said he had not received word from Dr. James N. Rule, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, regarding a ruling by the Attorney General on the effect the teachers' action would have on state appropriations to school districts.

5-DAY TROLLEY WEEK DEBATED

The possibility of a five-day week for street railway employes to prevent throwing a large number of "extra" men out of employment was indicated last night after a meeting of representatives of Division No. 85 of the railway men's union.

A vote on the five-day week is to be taken within the next week at all the car barns, it is reported.

The meeting developed differences of opinion, with a majority of the men taking an opposite stand from their executive officers, who seemed to favor the retention of the six-day week.

The original proposition of the Pittsburgh Railways Company had been the reduction of the operating force by 400 men. It is reported that, through negotiation, the union leaders had cut down the reduction to 250 men. Sentiment among the men is divided, it is said, many favoring the five-day week to help their comrades.

Wife Sues Wilson, Movie Stunt Flier

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Albert P. Wilson, motion picture stunt flier, has been made defendant in a marriage annulment action filed by Mrs. Marjorie Wilson. She asserted their wedding, November 5, 1929, at Agua Caliente was illegal in that they had not been residents of Mexico for the required three months. They have a 16-month-old son.

Mrs. Wilson's 18-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Betty Sellars, was married at the same Agua Caliente ceremony to Wilson's partner in aviation and business, Frank B. Tomick.

Chinaman Held, Faces Deportation

Yee Toon Wah, a laundryman in Turtle Creek, arrested on a warrant under the Chinese exclusion act, the first of its kind in this district since 1923, was held for court by the United States commissioner.

He was alleged to have deserted a ship at an ocean port 10 years ago and is without a certificate of residence. He has been in Turtle Creek five years, it was said.

College Students Launch New Racket

COLUMBIA, Mo.—(INS.)—Fearful lest they fail in final examinations for the first semester, more than 900 students at the university enrolled for a fee of $1 each in a student-organized "tutoring school." The scheme progressed nicely until Walter Williams, president of the university, investigated the school. Many students had entered the school believing that enrollment was mandatory.

Baker Sees Crowder On Havana Visit

HAVANA, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, and Mrs. Baker, en route to New York City from Mexico, stopped off here yesterday for a brief visit.

The Bakers called upon Maj. Gen. Crowder, U. S. A., retired, who has been seriously ill here at the Hotel National. They found the former Judge Advocate of the Army slightly improved.

Woman in Hospital Wins $8,000 Damages

Catherine A. Gardner, in Montefiore Hospital, was awarded $8,000 damages in her suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company by a jury in Common Pleas Court before Judge James R. Macfarlane. She claimed she was thrown to the floor when a car did not slacken speed on a curve in Ellsworth avenue, February 13, 1930. Injuries have confined her to the hospital since last November, she claimed.

Summer School Head At Hungry Club

Miss Hilda W. Smith, chairman of the committee of Affiliated Summer Schools, and affiliated with Bryn Mawr College, will speak Monday at the luncheon of the Hungry Club in the Fort Pitt Hotel on "Achievements in Workers' Education, and the Present Challenge." Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of Pittsburgh schools, will be chairman.

NEWSBOYS WILL SEE UBANGIS

The Ubangi savages from the Congo will have an enthusiastic audience Sunday afternoon when Sun-Telegraph carrier boys and newsboys visit Motor Square Garden at a special exhibition, as guests of the management.

Three thousand "newsies" will visit the native village and, in as much as they are inquisitive youngsters, they will probably know all about the life and habits of the Africans when the afternoon is over. Special Ubangi dances and songs will be given for the boys, who will assemble for the Ubangi party at 3 o'clock. Admission will be by ticket only.

TAXES ON HOMES HELD UNFAIR

A bias in the assessments of small homes as compared with large industrial or business properties is one of the more serious things about the increasing tax rates in America, according to Dr. Marion K. McKay, professor of economics at the University of Pittsburgh, in an address at the Pitt Business Men's luncheon.

In a number of cities, Dr. McKay said, small homes are assessed at higher percentages of sales price than larger properties. The levying of personal and corporation income taxes by the state to take some of the burden from real estate was suggested.

The speed at which tax burdens have increased has created a new interest in tax matters, Dr. McKay declared. He pointed out the surest way to secure lighter burdens on home owners is to reduce public expenditures, but that is difficult and often impossible. Such economy moves as have been made are the result of an aroused public demanding tax relief and are being heard even by indifferent public officials, Dr. McKay said.

REFRIGERATION AD DRIVE URGED

Greater national and local advertising to increase sales of electric refrigeration was advocated by Dr. G. W. Allison, field manager of the Electric Refrigeration Bureau of the National Electric Light Association, last night at a meeting of the Electric League of Pittsburgh in the William Penn Hotel. He spoke on "Co-operative Merchandising."

Dr. Allison explained the $1,000,000 activities program the bureau is conducting. The bureau was organized a year ago by manufacturers and works in co-operation with district organizations, sponsoring electric refrigeration generally through national advertising.

The speaker, introduced by Councilman Robert Garland, president of the local league, said a substantial increase in sales was noted last year over 1930, due, he declared, to the large advertising and activities program.

HERE'S WHY

EVEREADY RAYTHEON TUBES

HAVE 4 PILLARS INSTEAD OF 2

Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. All other tubes have only a two-pillar foundation. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

A RADIO tube is as sensitive as a finely built watch. Its accuracy in operation depends on keeping every delicate part in exact position. The slightest dislocation of its elements results in faulty tone, lack of power and harsh noises. If a tube is to keep its accuracy, it must be protected against the dangerous jolts and vibration that all tubes receive in handling and usage.

Only Eveready Raytheon Tubes have four sturdy pillars to hold their elements firmly in place. Their accuracy is permanently safeguarded by four rigid supports, one at each corner of a square. All other tubes have only two supports.

That's the reason for the immense improvement in tone which you notice with 4-pillar tubes. Accuracy to the thousandth of an inch—protected by solid strength!

Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes. Compare them tube for tube with others, and the difference is amazing. But to realize what an enormous improvement they can make in a radio, install a complete set of 4-pillar tubes . . . then listen!

Eveready Raytheon Tubes are Quick Heaters. Don't be fooled by tubes of the old, slow-heater type with which the market is flooded. A modern tube should heat up in 10 seconds or less. Time it yourself!

LISTENING IN

—With the Radio Editor—

PRESIDENT HERBERT HOOVER leads the tribute of the radio world to the memory of Abraham Lincoln today. Speaking from the Lincoln Room of the White House, the chief executive will deliver an address in connection with the annual Lincoln Day dinner of the National Republican Club in New York at 10:30 p. m. The President's voice will be heard through Station WCAE.

Bob Sherwood, one of the few men now living who saw the martyred President's second inauguration, will portray the role of Lincoln on the 8 o'clock program on WCAE. Sherwood will read Lincoln's farewell speech to the citizens of Springfield and the Gettysburg address. Gaius Paddock, 96, who lived in Springfield with Lincoln, reads Ida M. Tarbell's "He Knew Lincoln" at 3 p. m. on WCAE. Miss Jane White conducts a half-hour Lincoln program for children on the Sun-Telegraph family period at 4:45. Miss White will be assisted by 16 Pittsburgh children, including David Carey, 5, and Ruth Morrison, 8.

KDKA's Lincoln birthday features include a "Heart to Heart Talk With Lincoln" on the Pat Barnes presentation at 11:15; a reading of Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews' "A Perfect Tribute" with musical accompaniment at 2:30, and a romantic story of Civil War days by Aunt Quimby in the Friendship Town program at 9.

Lieut. Col. Ulysses S. Grant III, grandson of President Grant, broadcasts a 'escriptive tour of the old Ford Theater in Washington where Lincoln was assassinated, on WJAS at 2, while the news drama at 8:30 reproduces scenes from the new play, "If Booth Had Missed."

John K Chapel's "Twilight Reveries" from KQV at 5 will be offered as a special tribute to Lincoln.

Tonight's Highlights

RUTH ETTING, musical comedy favorite, singing "I'm Lonesome Tonight," "Home" and "I'm Sorry, Dear," with Leo Reisman's Orchestra at 9:30 and the Sampler Orchestra premier at 10, on WCAE; Zoel Parenteau's String Choir at 7:15, Irvin S. Cobb at 9:30 and Paul Whiteman at 10, on KDKA; Vaughn de Leath at 6:30, the Boswell Sisters at 7:30 and Toscha Seidel at 9, on WJAS; Don Shoup at 9:30, on KQV, and the Schenley Trio at 7, the Shafer-Englert Orchestra at 8 and Ethel Ramus Harris at 9:15, on WWSW.

Fan Fare

Maria Jeritza has the soprano role of Elizabeth and Lauritz Melchior the tenor role of Tannhauser in the second act of "Tannhauser" on KDKA this afternoon, the first performance of the Metropolitan Opera Annual Wagner Cycle.

When Broadway stars twinkled in the NBC studios during the presentation of the third annual Drama League of America program, Pauline Lord was nervous; Alla Nazimova was highly-amused and Helen Westley was puzzled as to which side of the "mike" she should address.

Now NBC has gone and banned: "Ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience."

Hereafter it is to be reserved for outstanding events such as Presidential addresses. The purpose is to eliminate excess verbiage. Another restriction bans announcers' names unless their inclusion is considered essential to a particular program.

Ford Miller received 11 cakes for his birthday, and none of the WCAE staff got "tummy-ache" . . . Believe-It-Or-Not Ripley will interview Queen Vaekeha, of the Fiji Islands, who has 500 husbands . . . Alex Gray, "satisfying" baritone, takes pride in the kitchen equipment of his Long Island bachelor apartment, where he cooks his own breakfasts . . . Lanny Ross threatens to shoot the first editor to refer to him as an "It" crooner . . . Al Smith says he will speak on a home-rule plank on prohibition on a national hookup February 27 . . . Ralph Federer is down with the "flu" . . . So is Sonny Joy.

Little Jack Little has been signed by CBS to appear over its network exclusively. He will be heard in his own piano and song recitals every morning except Sunday at 9 o'clock, beginning Monday. Jack was born in England 28 years ago and came to this country when a boy. He was educated in Iowa, and while a student at the university there, decided that song-writing would be more profitable than a college degree.

Peter Dixon, author of the "Raising Junior" series, writes approximately 48,000 words a month for 360 minutes of dialogue—enough for a short novel. He does his work—of all places—in a refurbished coal bin in the basement—to get away from his two youngsters.

Edith Meiser, author of those Sherlock Holmes scripts, formerly was on the stage, playing with the Theater Guild, in musical comedy and vaudeville. She got her idea after reading all of Conan Doyle. She had to try for a year before she could sell the script, because broadcasters thought it "too old-fashioned." She writes most of her episodes in bed, in long-hand. Her pet dog is "Dr. Watson." . . .

Dick and Ray, KQV's harmony duo, have started a collection of dogs. Fans are sending them china dogs, wooden dogs, dogs made of auto inner tubes, old fur coats and just plain rags. Dick and Ray have been on the air nearly two years now and are now offering 15 programs a week.

Studio Static

Arthur Bagley, director of the NBC Tower Health exercises every morning, received this request the other day from an ardent physical culturist:

"My radio set is just a floor above the furnace and I wish you would broadcast the proper motions with appropriate music so I can shake the furnace each morning at 7 o'clock.

'Globe Trotter' Proves Popular

Thousands of radio listeners go globe-trotting daily through Station WCAE with Louis L. Kaufman on his regular programs as Globe-Trotter for the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News. These news broadcasts, which have become outstanding on the air, are given each day at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

A special presentation of the colorful features in the American Weekly section of next Sunday's Sun-Telegraph will be given on WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock.

The Sun-Telegraph Family children's program at 4:45 today will be devoted to a tribute to Abraham Lincoln.

The Lawson Sisters and Jack Sidler are featured on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club at 11:15, with Riggs and Moke as master of ceremonies.

The Loudspeaker

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Six months have passed since the moaning baritones sailed into the broadcasting harbor, bringing cargos of amorous ballads to the listeners of America.

Such an unusual phenomenon, you will recall, that the radio chiefs ceased their ordinary activities, made way for the exponents of a new style of crooning, bombarded the press with details of crooning rivalry, sat back contented with the most lavish display of personality build-up seen in the land since Tex Rickard, past master at such enterprises, was gathered to his fathers.

* * *

But now the moaning baritones, studio seers tell us, are getting ready to sail away. Another day has dawned. Even the crooners have to make way for others who are on their way to the radio harbor. It is hard to believe. If it is true it is the most forward-looking step broadcasting has taken since it made Europe as accessible as Main street. Radio has too long been identified with crooning in all its forms. It was hard for the broadcasters to concentrate on new ideas so intent were they on what they believed was the chief appeal of the air channels.

Vare-Martin Ticket 'Uninteresting' Here

By MARK SHIELDS

Allegheny County Republicans will be "uninterested" at the primary election in the state-wide ticket picked by William S. Vare and State Chairman Edward Martin unless it is rearranged to include representation for Allegheny County.

Mr. Shields

This county either must have Judge Stadtfeld slated for election to the Superior Court, or must have the Auditor General, or both.

These things were made crystal clear to Martin yesterday by County Chairman William D. Mansfield.

Subsequent to the conference between Mansfield and Martin, County Commissioner McGovern, chairman of the County Board and Independent leader, spoke exactly the same sentiments expressed by Mansfield.

Mansfield told Martin that a fit candidate for Auditor General would be James H. McClure, of Glassport, member of the Legislature, and Republican campaign manager in the last general election.

McGovern, told of this suggestion, said he would have no objection to McClure.

This rumble of rebellion was revealed to Martin during a one-day visit here yesterday, on which he was accompanied by Senator Frank Baldwin, of Potter County, designated by the Philadelphians and Martin at an eastern conference two weeks ago as a candidate for Auditor General.

Martin and Baldwin met several local political leaders at the state chairman's hotel suite. Among the callers were E. R. Crawford, of McKeesport, rapidly coming to the front as a leader in Allegheny County, and Senators Mansfield, Frank J. Harris, Morris Einstein and Joseph G. Armstrong, all of Allegheny, and William S. Rial, of Westmoreland.

* * *

Growing Displeasure Produces Ultimatum

Crawford stood with Mansfield when the ultimatum was delivered to Martin, giving it additional strength. Furthermore, Baldwin in his talks with Harris and Mansfield, both of whom differed from him on many legislative issues in the last session, never mentioned his candidacy.

Martin talked with conflicting opinions to various callers. To some he expressed the opinion that the slate drawn at Philadelphia was practically set and would not be revised. To others he said there was as yet no definite decision on the slate, intimating it might be altered. It was apparent to some callers that the state chairman, due to the changed political picture through the elimination of his chief support, A. W. Mellon, from the Hoover cabinet, was not in a position to speak with positiveness at this time.

The ultimatum of Mansfield, together with the position of McGovern, is the product of a growing displeasure here among regulars and independents in the Republican party at the manner in which Allegheny County has been ignored, not only by the state organization, but by Gov. Pinchot.

There was real annoyance when the Philadelphia conference, after selecting Judge Robert Gawthrop for re-election to the Superior Court, passed over Stadtfeld, a man eminently qualified for the Appellate Court, and fixed upon former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James for the second place. Though Judge Stadtfeld was appointed to the Superior Court by Gov. Pinchot, it was among organization men, and the conservative element most opposed to Pinchot, that displeasure at Philadelphia over the ignoring of Stadtfeld was most prevalent.

* * *

Davis Only Westerner Backed by Conference

When, in addition to shutting out Stadtfeld, the Philadelphia conference also picked an Auditor General candidate from a northern tier county, the disgust in political circles here was intensified. Senator James J. Coyne was one of the first to say that Allegheny County was entitled to the Auditor General.

As the slate stands now, Senator James J. Davis is the only Western Pennsylvanian supported by the conference in which Vare and Martin were participants, though it is assumed Vare was the dominant voice. This has been far from sufficient to placate this section, it being generally held that Davis was not picked on the score of residence.

Yesterday's development again illustrates the unsettled state of political affairs in Pennsylvania. The position of Mansfield and McGovern, one the organization head here and the other the independent leader, offers an opportunity for opponents to the Vare organization to rally to an alternative slate unless some drastic revisions are undertaken.

The upshot, perhaps, will be some further parleys on the subject, with a revamped slate almost certain, a slate which can be supported here as well as in the East. In this revamping it is probable that if Allegheny County is finally allotted but one position it will be Auditor General, as Vare is firm for James, and the precedent is all against jettisoning a Judge already on the bench through election, as is Gawthrop.

GARLAND URGES UTILITIES YIELD

ARTISTS UNITE AS EXHIBITION OPENS HERE

170 Forget Routine Work At Associated Display At Carnegie Institute

By PENELOPE REDD

For a few hours last night 170 individuals out of the 1,370,410 persons in Allegheny County were united as artists. Forgotten was the day's routine to business men, social registrite matrons, cooks, postmen, truck drivers, contractors doctors, architects, teachers, or those who do yeoman service for art in engraver's shop and newspaper office.

The private view at Carnegie Institute, preceding today's opening to the public of the twenty-second annual exhibition of the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh, is the one occasion when local artists appear as a united group in the presence of their works.

Miss Redd

Over 400 titles are catalogued, including paintings in oil and water color, prints and sculpture. Every one represents time salvaged from the business of life in week-ends, summer holidays or a chance spare hour.

The prizes are inevitably the news of the exhibition. Eight were selected by this year's jurors, Ernest Lawson, Charles Burchfield and Henry Keller, nationally distinguished painters.

TECH MAN LEADS

The Carnegie prize, with a money award of $250, was conferred upon the group contributed by Roy Hilton, a member of the faculty of Fine Arts at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Mr. Hilton's four paintings, "A Gentleman of Leisure," "Luncheon Is Served," "Bathers" and "Girl in White," represent the most consistent achievement of any in the entire exhibition.

Obviously interested in the contemporary approach to painting, Mr. Hilton renders the modern desire for animation of form logical by choosing living beings. He does not use the stage-property still-life objects ritualized by the pioneers of contemporary art.

Mr. Hilton has shown in his groups at the annual exhibition, a progress remarkable in the development of his technical resources to facilitate the visual expression of his keen comments.

TALENT FOR MURALS

His has that seldom found attribute, style. We hope he has a chance to do a mural painting, for that is the direction his talent points.

Richard Crist's "Mexican Market at Night, Chiquita," which was awarded first prize and $150, has already been discussed, last month at the time of his small special exhibition in the Wunderly Gallery.

W. F. Vogel's "The Last Snowfall" which the jury selected as second prize, $100, appears to be a painting admitted to contemporary recognition because it is naive.

Louise Pershing was given the third prize and $50 for "Age Dreams." Miss Pershing has a group of four paintings, all interesting, although uneven in quality. She has a gift, more often found in the work of French than American painters, of projecting the full value of the beauty inherent in the pigment. Note "The Blue Costume."

Milan Petrovits, who has ever an affinity with the warmth and quickness of life, wins the Ida Smith Memorial prize of $100 for a figure subject, "Models of the Artist." A group of handsome people are well disposed in a shadowed interior. An ambitious canvas that clicks.

ROMANTIC PITTSBURGH

Rachel McClelland Sutton wins the Art Society of Pittsburgh prize of $100 with "Hills of Pittsburgh." Gazzam's Hill rears itself above the viaduct of the boulevard along the Monongahela River. Mrs. Sutton paints Pittsburgh with candor, but unlike the visiting sociologists does not point to scorn. To her, it is as romantic as any Italian hill town.

Alice Judson's "A Fair Mansion," so named by George Washington after enjoying its hospitality, wins the Alumnae School of Design prize of $25 for the best painting by a woman. She does American subjects with an incisive quality that neutralizes the sentimental appeal.

Otto Nebel was given the Camilla Robb Russell Memorial prize of $25 for "Winter Shadows," adjudged the best water color.

The exhibition, which continues for a month, will be discussed in subsequent articles.

Secrecy Balks Probe in Kline Juror Inquiry

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 12.—District Attorney Edgar H. Negley's search for the mysterious woman, said to be active here in an attempt to sound sentiment among prospective jurors for Pittsburgh's Mayor, Charles H. Kline, and his deposed director of supplies, Bertram L. Succop, was hampered today by Sheriff Lawrence Thompson's refusal to make the list public.

There is no law making publication of the list mandatory, but it has been the custom in Butler County for many years to post the list in the Sheriff's and the Clerk of Court's office the day after the panel has been drawn.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park's office is co-operating with District Attorney Edgar H. Negley in trying to locate a mysterious woman being sought by Butler County authorities.

It was learned today Negley was advised to be on the lookout for the activities of a woman, who hails from Allegheny County. The woman, whose identity is suspected, is alleged to have interviewed persons drawn for the trial of Mayor Kline and Succop.

JUDGE'S SISTER KILLED BY AUTO

Miss Dora Stadtfeld, 67, of 703 Ivy street, a sister of Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, was dead today, having been struck by an automobile driven by Theodore Chledoski, 22, of 416 Viola street, Duquesne, at Bigelow boulevard and Fifth avenue, according to a morgue report.

Traffic was tied up for more than an hour when four automobiles collided at the Forbes street end of the Twenty-second street Bridge. The accident occurred, police said, when A. L. Davidson, of 820 Highview street, stopped his machine to pick up a passenger.

The machine of R. Lath of 810 Millbridge street, struck Davidson's and one driven by Martin Wilkins, 284 Wicks street, struck Lath's car. The fourth machine involved was driven by Joseph Ricci, of 637 Reed street. No one was hurt.

Emil Steinbach, 5511 Margaretta street, suffered burns and other injuries last night after crashing into a pole in California avenue, near Superior avenue. Steinbach was removed to Allegheny General Hospital where his condition was reported serious.

Anna Cahill, 29, of 524 Glenn avenue, Wilmerding, received a probable fracture of the left leg and body bruises when she was struck by a machine driven by J. H. Newlon, of 206 Cedar boulevard, Mt. Lebanon, at Cedar boulevard and Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, last night, police reported.

Two Youths Held In Store Theft

Alex Savenko, 17, of 2114 Tustin street, and Peter Moyer, 16, 2126 Tustin street, were held for court on charges of breaking and entry and robbery in Morals Court today. They were charged with entering the Sterling drug store, 1734 Fifth avenue. A paper bag containing $21.45 was reported found in their possession.

AIRPORT LEASE BIDS SOUGHT BY COUNTY

Ten Aviation Firms Urged To Negotiate for Control Of New $5,000,000 Field

Ten aviation firms have been invited to open negotiations with a view of leasing and operating Allegheny County's $5,000,000 airport, it was revealed today, County Airport Director Halsey R. Bazley, acting on behalf of the County Commissioners, has written the operators, three of which are Pittsburgh concerns, inviting further correspondence relative to rates, terms of lease and available facilities.

Bazley also plans a tour of inspection of municipally-owned airports at Cleveland, Akron, Columbus, Harrisburg, Newark and Washington, D. C. He planned to leave the city tonight. He said he intended compiling a report of operating conditions which would be turned over to the commissioners. He said:

"I am endeavoring to sound out the opinion of those operators who might be interested in making use of the facilities of the county airport. The invitation is open to anyone. We will welcome fair competition."

The local companies invited to participate in the airport negotiations are Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, Main Aeronautics, Inc., and Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc. Other concerns to whom letters were written by Bazley include American Airways, Inc., Cincinnati; Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, New York; Century Airlines, Inc., Chicago; Parks Air College, St. Louis; United Aircraft and Transportation, Inc., Chicago; Thompson Aeronautical Corporation, Cleveland, and Ludington Airlines, Inc., Cleveland.

The operators have been asked whether they are interested in leasing the airport in whole or in part. Concessions listed for lease are flying school, hangar and shops, gas and oil, passenger carrying, charter service and restaurant.

Woman Driver Hurt In Auto Accident

Mrs. Mary Yurkin, 58, of New Kensington R. D. No. 2, was in the Citizens' General Hospital, suffering a possible fracture of the hip, received when an automobile which she was driving collided with a Leechburg-New Kensington bus at Victoria and Catalpa streets, New Kensington, late yesterday, according to police.

Munhall Man Victim Of Hit-Run Auto

Robert Calender, 45, of Bowden lane, Munhall, suffered head injuries and body contusions when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver while walking in West Run road, according to police.

Check Bad!

MISS MARY WILLIAMS

NAMES WOMAN IN SWINDLE

Wilkinsburg police are holding a warrant for Mary Williams, alias Ethel Simonson, of Miami, who is alleged to have "buncoed" a Wilkinsburg bank cashier out of $100.

Posing as a wealthy woman with money to invest, the woman, police say, procured the confidence of E. R. Rudolph, cashier of the Wilkinsburg bank. Later Rudolph cashed a $100 check for her, Rudolph's information alleges.

The woman at present is in Augusta, Me., where she is being held on similar charges, Chief James Harris, of Wilkinsburg, said.

VOLUNTARY CUT IN RATES HELD BEST MOVE

Saving of Test Case Expense Object; War Against High Service Costs Gains Force

Suggestion that public utility companies here volunteer electric light and gas rate reductions instead of necessitating possible inauguration of a rate test case before the Public Service Commission, was made by Councilman Robert Garland today.

Garland, Independent leader in Council and foe of the Kline administration, advocated reduction in utility rates comparable with those in effect in other cities throughout the United States.

WOULD SAVE MONEY

In an exclusive statement to the Sun-Telegraph, Garland said:

"It seems to me that the utility companies should volunteer proper and adequate reductions in light and gas rates comparable with other cities.

"If these are satisfactory to the city, considerable money in expensive litigation will be saved both by the city and the companies."

Other Councilmen on record as favoring reduction of rates include President John S. Herron, W. Y. English, Clifford B. Connelley, William J. Soost, Harry A. Little, Charles Anderson and P. J. McArdle.

State-wide interest in the proposed attack through legislation on excessive public utility rates has been given impetus here by trade boards and civic groups joining the fight and city and county government action promised. Domestic consumers will be given their first opportunity to give their support at two mass meetings next week at West End and North Braddock.

Cambria County municipalities were to be asked to join the movement at a public rally tonight in the Nemo Theater, Johnstown. Mayor Eddie McCloskey, opposed by the city Council in efforts to have Johnstown officially assume a part in the attack, will lead the rally in behalf of the state association. President A. B. Davidson, of Tarentum, and other officers will be among speakers that will include C. V. Shoup, secretary of the Allied Boards of Trade.

CONSUMERS INTERESTED

Declaring domestic consumers have a monetary interest in the movement, Chairman O. W. Heselbarth, of the Forty-fifth Congressional District committee of the association, today urged all consumers of the West End-Elliott district to attend the rally Monday night at the Thaddeus Stevens School, South Main street. Appointment of ward committees will be made at the session.

The Duquesne Heights Civic Association, at a meeting in the Snodgrass School last night, voted to join the association and support it in every way. Shoup spoke on objects of the rate fight. Judge William H. McNaughen gave a Lincoln anniversary address.

East Boroughs consumers will stage a rally Tuesday night at Scott High School, North Braddock. The association's officers and Attorney Henry Ellenboggen will be among the speakers.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Safeguarded and protected by the Secretary of War, just been in and had a long chat with Mr. Hoover to report on Manchuria, Shanghai, Hollywood, Claremore, and ask for small dole for international bankers. President was in fine humor and he told the jokes. Said Pennsylvania, the second richest state, was the only one that had passed the tin cup for relief from the federal government. He laughed and got a kick out of this:

Will Rogers

"They pay 12 per cent of the taxes. Under the relief program they would receive only three per cent. So all they would lose by government relief instead of relieving themselves would be nine per cent. Now there is one that would do justice to you, Will."

He is worried about this money hoarding and asked me:

"Write a joke against these hoarders. Humor might show 'em how foolish they are. Now go do that."

So after all my kidding about [illegible] commissions I am finally on one: "The Hoover Anti-Hoarding Joke Commission." So anybody knowing any anti-hoarding jokes send 'em to me. I want to be one commission to make good.

Yours, WILL.

FISHER LAUDS HOOVER FIGHT ON SLUMP

Credits President With 'Only Real Solution' in Talk To Lumber Association

Former Gov. John S. Fisher defended President Hoover as the only man in Washington "with the intellectual power and imagination to offer a real solution to the depression," in his address at the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Retail Lumber Dealers' Association of Western Pennsylvania yesterday in the William Penn Hotel. The final session of the convention will be held today.

BLAMES GAMBLERS

Placing original blame for the depression upon the gamblers on the stock exchange the former executive said:

"I have a great deal of sympathy for those who have brought charges against our great international bankers. There must be some great mind behind the activities which have resulted in the present situation. These bankers disposed of the foreign bonds in their tills they have the millions collected as their rake-off on the transactions. You men here are holding the bonds."

Declaring that something must be done, Fisher proceeded to make a plea for President Hoover adding:

"Hoover should be praised for his attempt to effect farm relief and for his Reconstruction Finance Corporation. We have but one man in Washington who has stood up against the attempts to break down our economic system. Herbert Hoover has been made the victim of Congress."

OFFICERS ELECTED

A. W. Holt, Chicago, director of service, Merchandising Council of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, told the convention:

"House building will be revived just as soon as the public learns it can have beautiful homes for less money."

C. A. Derby, of Monessen, is the newly elected president of the association. Other officers are George N. Glass, Pittsburgh and A. M. F. Stieler, Beaver Falls, vice presidents; G. P. Textor, Wilkinsburg, treasurer; R. F. McCrea, Pittsburgh, secretary; Carl van der Voort, Pittsburgh, general counsel, and C. W. Iams, Pittsburgh, counsel to Chamber of Commerce.

FATHER COX SPEAKING AT CREIGHTON

THE REV. JAMES R. COX AT CREIGHTON . . . . HE CRITICIZED HOOVER'S VERBAL CHEER

SLOT MACHINE RECEIVER FINED

No further evidence of certain stolen slot machines having originally belonged to Sam Rost was brought out in Criminal Court when James Murdo, 29, 148 Carver street, pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods, in the form of two of the machines in question. Murdo was fined $50 and paroled for two years by Judge Elder W. Marshall with an alternative of six months in jail if he violates the parole.

It was alleged by the state that Murdo on February 16, 1931, bought the machines from a gang which was raiding places which had machines in them, stealing them, and reselling them, counting on the owners not to report the thefts to the police. The gang, including Lawrence Vetterly, Marion Bowers, Clyde Pierce, John Preston and Robert Calkins, was eventually arrested and all pleaded guilty in Criminal Court recently.

Sentence was postponed to permit District Attorney Andrew T. Park to make further investigation, after Vetterly had stated in his testimony that the machines they stole were Sam Rost's machines. Vetterly said he went to Rost and told him he knew where his stolen machines were, and said Rost told him not to bother him.

Lack of Funds for Relief Need to Be Faced at Welfare Meeting

A tale of insufficient relief funds and overburdened facilities for relief will be told at the annual meeting of the Welfare Fund Council in William Penn Hotel Monday, it was learned today.

Constructive plans for the future will be announced, while annual reports will illustrate the deficiency of resources now at the command of the group.

The meeting will be open to the public. Use of the hall has been donated by the hotel, the fund announced.

Seven members will be elected to the board of directors of the fund, picked from nominations of 14.

Reports will be presented by Frank R. Phillips, chairman of the operating committee of the Emergency Association; Joseph Dilworth, 1931 campaign chairman; J. C. Chaplin, chairman of the finance committee; R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the publicity committee; W. F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the fund.

Highlight of the meeting will probably be Maxwell's outline of the present financial condition of the fund.

First community council to function was to be opened in the Manchester Community House today, with a paid secretary in charge of other volunteer workers. Other councils should go into action in the near future, if Miss Isabel Kennedy's plans are followed.

Boy, 12, Missing, Police Begin Hunt

County detectives today were asked to seek Frank Bell, Jr., 12, of 126 Marigold street, Munhall, missing from his home since yesterday morning. The boy failed to appear at school. He is 4 feet 10 inches, weighs 94 pounds, and was wearing a leather helmet, blue sweater, blue pants and golf stockings.

TOKIO, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—The Privy Council, at an emergency meeting tonight, approved a bond issue to cover the expenses of the Japanese expeditionary force in Manchuria.

HOOVER 'CHEER' TALKS SCORED BY COX

Priest Denounces President For Giving Words, Instead Of Work, to Hungry Men

An attack on President Hoover was made by the Rev. James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church, in an address delivered before more than 4,000 persons in Creighton last night. The Pittsburgh priest, who about a month ago led more than 20,000 men on a jobless march to Washington, declared that instead of taking action to obtain bread for the many starving people in this country President Hoover contented himself with foolish speeches in the interests of bringing back prosperity.

SCORES 'SOFT-SOAPING'

Father Cox assailed the President because of his adopted policy of urging the people to quit hoarding as a means of restoring prosperity. Father Cox charged President Hoover was aligned with financial interests in "soft-soaping" the public.

In his address last night Father Cox declared:

"The policy of the financial and political leaders since the stock crash in 1929 has been to hand out a lot of 'sop' to the people with such expressions as 'Prosperity is just around the corner,' 'We must have confidence' and 'We must not hoard.' High-sounding messages coming from the White House have supplemented all these statements of the capitalists, but the situation steadily becomes worse.

LAUDS HEARST STAND

"William Randolph Hearst in an editorial Monday, February 8, has given one of the best pictures of the feeble and futile messages that have emanated from the White House. The Chief Executive still talks about confidence instead of bread. He pretends the same ignorance of the distress in the nation as he does about our national defense.

"How can a man without a job, with little children and a wife starving before his very eyes have confidence in anything or anybody?

"The first duty of any government, as Mr. Hearst says, is to give work to the people, but the people today appeal to the masters of work in vain. If there are any favors to be granted they are given to the privileged class—the rich grow richer and the poor grow poorer."

Two-Ton Scale Shows Weight Of Atom

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Completion of a two-ton scale which weighs single atoms at the Bartol Foundation, Swarthmore, Pa., was announced today by the American Institute of Physics.

An atom weighs about one sextillionth of an ounce. Yet this invisible bit of matter swings the pointer of the new scientific instrument about half an inch—as much as flopping a pound or more of meat upon a butcher's scale.

The pointer is a stream of electrified atoms, called ions, shot out of a vacuum tube into a magnetic field between two immense magnets, whose size accounts for the great weight of the scale.

ARREST ALLUM IN HOLDUP

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 12.—Glenn Allum, a figure in the John Donohoe murder mystery in Fayette County, is under arrest today in connection with an alleged $50,000 payroll attempted holdup in Buffalo. A man said to be Tony Bell, former Fayette County detective, who stood trial for the Donohoe murder and was acquitted, was arrested late in January for complicity in the same attempted holdup.

Allum, according to police, escaped. Last night he parked his car in front of the home of Constable C. J. McBride, due to battery trouble, and when he appeared today, state police arrested him. Allum never was brought to trial in the Donohoe murder.

QUIZ BAKER IN CHILD KILLING

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Michael Mantycka, 38, unemployed baker, underwent another questioning today as police continued their investigation of the killing of seven-year-old Dorothy Lutz.

He was the last of 60 suspects who remained in custody. Subjected to numerous questionings since his arrest Wednesday night, three days after the child's body was found in an untenanted house near her home, police said he had told several conflicting stories.

A shirt found by investigators in his home has been turned over to a chemist to determine if stains on it were made by blood. Chemists are also examining seven strands of hair found in the child's hand.

PAIN STOPS IN 7 to 10 MINUTES

MUSCLETONE DOES IT !

Don't take chances . . . you work too hard for your money to throw it away on worthless remedies . . . when you buy something to relieve pain caused by rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, or any other muscular pain, be absolutely sure that it will do the work . . . that it's safe. Get MUSCLETONE. It is the actual prescription of Dr. Chapin, who specialized in the treatment of muscular pain. He discovered MUSCLETONE. In it, he found a remedy that would actually relieve pain in from 7 to 10 minutes . . . it is entirely free from any burning or blistering substances. And, remember this: it satisfies or it doesn't cost a penny. . . our money-back guarantee takes care of that.

Get Rid of Stiff Joints, Lame Muscles, Tired Feet

No internal drugs are taken . . . you merely rub MUSCLETONE on the place that hurts . . . it penetrates way down deep into the muscular tissues . . . energizes them . . . stimulates blood circulation . . . soothes . . . heals, and, by inunction, neutralizes the accumulated toxins. For "aching" feet, there's nothing in the world like it, nor is there a more pleasant treatment. Its quick-drying action enables you to put on your shoes and stockings right after you rub it on . . . isn't sticky . . . never soils or stains.

Pain saps vitality . . . you can't work . . . can't play . . . can't sleep. Relieve the pain . . . do it quickly . . . instantly. Use MUSCLETONE. Over two million bottles have been used. U. S. TO APPEAL CANNON RULING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The indictment of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and Miss Ada Burroughs on charges of conspiracy to violate the corrupt practices act was thrown out of court today, but plans were made for an immediate appeal by the government.

Associate Justice James M. Proctor, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, sustained a demurrer of the Southern Methodist churchman to the indictment of himself and his former secretary, ruling that the charges did not allege as fact that Miss Burroughs had knowledge of campaign contributions she was indicted for alleged failure to report.

John J. Wilson, assistant United States attorney, prepared for an immediate appeal which he will file Monday. If the demurrer is sustained by the Appellate Court the District Attorney's office is expected to drop the case. A new indictment would be impossible because of the three years' statute of limitation.

The offenses charged by the indictment grew out of the bishop's campaign against Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

School Vandalism Puzzles Sleuths

County Detectives Harry Barker and John Carmichaels were puzzled today as they began an investigation of the ransacking of the Ruselton public school. Attendance records and a typewriter were missing and pupils' belongings were scattered over the rooms. Teachers' desks were broken open. W. F. Johns, principal, reported.

CASHIER DIES AT CARNEGIE

Arthur W. Schreiber, 51, cashier and director of the Carnegie National Bank, died suddenly last night at his home, 214 Sixth avenue, Carnegie from hemorrhage of the brain.

Mr. Schreiber

He was an active figure in the business and civic life of Carnegie, a director of the Carnegie Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Carnegie Rotary Club. He was also past president of the American Banking Institute.

He was a member of Lafayette Lodge No. 652, F. & A. M.; of Pittsburgh Consistory, Syria Temple and past exalted ruler of Lodge No. 831, B. P. O. Elks.

Funeral services will be held Monday at St. John's Lutheran Church, Carnegie, of which he was a member.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Anna Schreiber; a daughter, Miss Anna Louise Schreiber; two sons, Raymond and Pershing Schreiber, and a brother, Harry C. Schreiber, of Waynesburg.

Lion's Club Diner Hit by Sugar, Gets $10,000

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12—(AP.)—For the loss of an eye, allegedly because it was struck by a sugar cube at a Lion's Club luncheon in 1929, William J. McWhinnie has been awarded $10,000.

Protestations of attorneys that, at the height of the fun, McWhinnie poured a glass of water into the coat pocket of Eloi Amar, and that sugar cubes so filled the air that no one could be certain just who hit McWhinnie, did not shake the Superior Court jury's belief that McWinnie was enitled to damages from Amar.

Two Girls, 32 Men Cowed in Holdup

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Terrorizing two girls and 32 men employes, four masked bandits, brandishing shotguns, today took $2,500 in a raid on an office of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

GROUP TO SCAN BANK AFFAIRS

Depositors of the closed Bloomfield Trust Company will form an organization to facilitate its liquidation at a meeting in St. Luke's School, Edmund street, at 8 p. m. Monday.

A committee of 10 Bloomfield business men announced the meeting today, the result of two previous conferences. William Piedeman was spokesman for the group.

A depositors' protective committee, to be formed at the meeting Monday will co-operate with the Second District Realization Corporation and with Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon in liquidating affairs of the bank, Piedeman said. An independent audit of the bank probably will be urged, it is reported.

The Bloomfield Trust Company was revealed as holding an unsecured note of former City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley for $7,500 and an unsecured city deposit exceeding $32,500.

Included in the group working to organize the protective committee are William Piedeman, William Larkin, Albert Jorta, Ralph Spaniel, Joseph Rainaldi, R. L. Belknap, Charles Stromosji, O. G. Piedeman, Roy Neckerman and Louis Eversman.

She has lived all her life in Ross Township.

DOCTOR SCORED IN RUM CHARGE

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—The Journal of the American Medical Association in its current issue to be distributed tomorrow will criticize Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan, former president of the association, for his recent testimony on prohibition before a Senate subcommittee.

The editorial will say that Dr. Bevan showed "an extraordinary lack of confidence in his professional brethren" when he testified that 90 per cent of liquor prescriptions written by physicians were for bootleg purposes. It will add:

"If Dr. Bevan has actual evidence that any physician is selling his prescriptions en masse in order to permit druggists and bootleggers to dispose of whisky in case lots, he and all of those who possess the information are equally guilty with those who are violating the law in permitting the violation."

Contractor Fined In Tax Evasion

W. A. Miller, building contractor, of Swissvale, pleaded guilty in Federal Court today to evading $10,830 income tax for 1926 and 1927. He was fined $500 and costs by Judge R. M. Gibson. The court was informed Miller had filed with the internal revenue collector a compromise offer for settlement of the tax penalty and interest.

Strike Halts Taxis, Papers in Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—There were no taxicabs or newspapers today because of the general strike which began at midnight as a protest against the government's anti-Communist campaign.

Troops were in the streets but there was no disorder. Trolleys were running and business houses were open.

202 KIN SURVIVE WOMAN, 100

Funeral services for Mrs. Libby Goldston, former Pittsburgh resident, who died yesterday in Cambridge Springs at the age of 100 and who is survived by 202 descendants, will be held today from the chapel of Ralph Schugar, 1801 Fifth avenue.

The survivors include five children, 61 grandchildren, 118 great-grandchildren and 18 great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Dora Goldstein, of Pittsburgh, is the oldest of her children. Others are A. L. Goldston, of Cambridge Springs, with whom she made her home; Mrs. Samuel Mervis, of Homestead; Mrs. Reve Harris, of Cambridge Springs, and Mrs. Hannah Leah Rubenstein, of Birmingham, England.

Mrs. Goldston was the widow of Raphael Goldston, who died in 1913 in Pittsburgh, at the age of 86.

She was a member of the Beth Hamedrish Hagodol congregation and will be buried in the cemetery of the congregation in McKees Rocks.

Mills Satisfied With First Look At the Big Till

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Ogden Mills' first job as Secretary of the Treasury was to look in the vault and see what was left.

He was agreeably surprised to discover that Andy Mellon hadn't taken all his credentials to London.

The boys have released government credits to the bankers, but Borah and Fess can't agree on the little fellows. The whole question is whether the pulmotor is any good after the vacuum cleaner got there first.

Government pressure is bearing down on the hoarder. That's a man who was fortunate enough to get some money back from his broker in 1929.

Helping the big bankers is okay. But our first lesson in farming was to water the plant at the roots.

They say it is for the general good. We're all in the same boat. True enough. But we ain't all at the captain's table.

Ann Harding's Resentments Don't Keep Her From New Film Role

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, [illegible] King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12

Though I believe she still is unreconciled to her contract, to the enforced spotlight of stardom and to the ways of Hollywood in general, Ann Harding is preparing to start her new picture, "Westward Passage."

Radio via David Selznick is doing everything to placate her while naturally standing on its rights. It has assigned John Halliday to play one of her leading men in the Margaret Ayer Barnes story. The other, you recall, is Laurence Olivier, the young English actor who, through no effort of his own, was tabbed as a second Ronald Colman.

Ann Harding

Production will start in about two weeks.

The case of Ann Harding is a curious one. Successful as a star, handsomely remunerated, she professes a desire to be quit of pictures. And she appears to be sincere. Ann is a strong-minded woman. She held out a long time for the veto power over her stories. Failing in this, she seems to have adopted a course of passive resistance.

Through it all, her passion for privacy is growing more and more pronounced. She hates, perhaps more than any star I know, the publicity that goes with her position. Eventually, I believe, these resentments will drive her back to the stage—and a long time before her welcome with film audiences is worn out.

THEY CALLED HIM TONY

Here's a bit of lowdown on how Hollywood's most famous horse got his name. Some years ago, just how many don't matter, Tom Mix paid an Italian $12 for a horse. The Italian's name was Tony. Tom dubbed the animal the same, and so he is known to this day.

BOULEVARD CHATTER

Bramwell Fletcher is going around of late with Gwen McCormack, daughter of the Irish tenor . . . Gene Markey's mother gets in Monday, presumably for his wedding to Joan Bennett . . . Al Hill, who once served time, but who has been acting in the films recently, has written a novel called "The Banished Man" . . . Hal Horne writes me from New York that the three bands of Abe Lyman, Claude Hopkins and Harold Stern will furnish music for New York's motion picture club ball on the twentieth.

Joan Bennett

Wesley Ruggles and Howard Estabrook are writing "The Roar of the Dragons" in Wesley's hospital room . . . Next Monday Buster Collier and Buster Keaton embark on a sailboat to hunt wild goats on Guadalupe Island. Keaton, by the way, is looking for a yacht to purchase. But he used to be a marine engineer, boys, so don't play him for a sucker.

CASTING NEWS

An actress who has advanced steadily of late is Karen Morley. She'll play her second lead in M-G-M's "Night Court." Recently she made her debut as a leading woman opposite John Barrymore in "Arsene Lupin." Not so long before that she got her first critical notice in a small part in Greta Garbo's "Inspiration."

W. S. Van Dyke directs "Night Court," which means that Bayard Veiller once more is deprived of his ambition. He did the adaptation of the Mark Hellinger-Charles Beban story and was scheduled to direct. But when the time came Woody Van Dyke was available, so the studio asked Veiller to be patient a while longer.

Minneapolis Orchestra In Two Concerts

The Minneapolis Orchestra will give a concert in Carnegie Music Hall at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon and another this evening in Syria Mosque. Eugene Ormandy, new conductor, will direct both. Eunice Norton, young American pianist, will appear as soloist at each concert. The programs follow:

Afternoon in Carnegie Hall

Symphony No. 8, "The Unfinished"	Schubert
Concerto for Piano and Orchestra No. 1	Liszt
Waltzes from "Der Rosenkavalier"	Strauss
Symphonic Poem, "Les Preludes"	Liszt

Evening in Syria Mosque

Symphony No. 5 in C Minor	Beethoven
Concerto for Piano and Orchestra in A Minor	Schumann
Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks	Strauss
Polka and Fugue from "Schwanda"	Weinberger

La Gaynor Again Cast With Farrell

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Wonder what the late Vincent Coll's brother-in-law kept thinking about as he paced up and down the pavement in front of the 10th Precinct the other 3 o'clock in the dawning? . . . And when they brought the horizontal "phone" booth into the station house . . . and when they brought it out again . . . He paled so . . . And the adroit photographers whammed away, booming their explosives.

It was among the exciting events for me . . . I mean rubbing shoulders and ears with the better reporters of the town—and witnessing them in action on a Big-Time Tale . . . How accurate their observations were! . . . And with what speed, too! . . . The District Reporters were the top-notchers again, flashing their first mind-photographs via the telewires—and feeding the late antemeridian editions with spellbinding accounts . . . So that the rags could arouse the sleeping town with the long-anticipated news that its wildest ganguy was laid low and cold.

I wish Who's Who would make up its mind . . . About Andrew Mellon's age . . . In 1919-20 it listed his birth in 1852 . . . The 1921-22 edition said he was born in '54, and later editions made it 1855 . . . It's so confusing, particularly to me—because when I fumble, my inaccuracy is pointed out with a 10,000-watt spotlight.

When another of Coll's colleagues is finally felled—it probably will be by the gat of a guardian, for it is among the common talk that it must be a one-sided duel . . . The marked murderer having killed one of the more popular policemen in plain wardrobe.

And among other unwritten statutes wherever the badge-wearers gather—That Is the Way It Must Be . . . For one that is who stifles a cop . . . Of course when the accounts are jotted down he'll be clipped after "a fierce fight."

The Man-A-Block-Plan that is sweeping the country is the most constructive idea I have encountered to combat Difficult Times.

And, at last, I discovered the one man who first suggested it . . . David Pasternack he is—a Buffalo citizen, and his credentials have been forwarded to me and they are signed by two of the town's officials . . . It appears that in November, 1930, Mr. Pasternack first summoned the attention of the townsmen to it . . . He pointed out that too many willing-to-work fellows were forced into the breadlines and the panhandle parade . . . And so he outlined his plan and system of having storekeepers and home-owners on each block contribute 50 cents weekly to one chap . . . The weekly wage averaging about $15 . . . And for that wage he would shovel the snow from the pavements, and when it didn't snow, then he would cleanse the walks of dust and debris . . . Dozens of other cities here and there have fallen in line, and it is something to get hoarse about bravoing . . . So consider yourself saluted, Mr. Pasternack, and may you be blessed with good health, which is so much better than a blue-ribbon or a monument in the Park.

That Walda of mine hands me the heartiest chuckles . . . June jots down in a letter almost daily exactly what Walda dictates . . . Of course, it doesn't interest anyone but us—but until a more interesting subject than my baby comes up, I'll keep discussing her.

She seems so sad in that photo on the wall . . . Wonder what the name is of the gent who invented photography, anyhow? . . . When I learn it, the next time I have a whoopee-water tumbler in my paw I will toast him . . . For without the likenesses on the office walls of Gloria and Walda—the ache of missing them would be too tough to take . . . Their pretty faces and their affection for me offsets all the other trivia that comes up in a week . . . Walda, f'rinstance, who is a noodle-soup fiend, tells her mother to tell me that she wishes she were a plate of noodle soup "so I could eat me!" . . . Not enough of my fellows know enough to settle down and find out the joy of living . . . The living that comes from fondling a child and embracing it with that passion that only a parent knows . . . "Where children are—there is the golden age," said a wiser man so long ago, but Victor Hugo's classic rings in my ears, and I wish that I had fathered the proverb so that after the brigands have blown me down my babies would think I could write.

Such a descriptive and lovely line as: "Paradise is a place where parents are always young and children always little."

I suppose I will have to continue the "Things I Never Knew Till Now" drivel . . . It goes well, it appears, among the groups who Like That Sort of Stuff . . . I wearied of it and omitted it one day and I mustn't any more, they would have me believe . . . But that is one day of the week that brings me my stiffest wallops . . . And I rarely write it! . . . I mean it's the gathering of items forwarded by thousands of readers—and while those notes are most interesting to me at times—because I had little schooling and never knew them before—now and then a misinformed contributor catches me sleeping . . . And the commentators, who enjoy catching me taking a nap, pounce on those inaccuracies . . . And twit me—and declare: "See! He doesn't know what he's writing about!" . . . Of course, as a rule, I do know what I'm writing about . . . But when I put my signature over a pillar that contains such a bit of misinformation as: "The Amos 'n' Andy" theme song is an electrical transcription" (when it isn't) then I realize I am permitting others more stupid than I am to toy with my rep . . . Such as it is . . . But it took too many years to perspire for it—and it is not to be trifled with—except in Broadway plays . . . I mean good ones, such as the forthcoming event which libels me in the last act . . . By making me appear to be a human being . . . Oh, these make-believers! . . . If only when my epitaph is being readied they will say: "Here is Walter Winchell—with His Ear to the Ground—as usual."

'Member Hope Emerson? The Spartan amazon who had plenty of background for her six-foot-two stature in "Lysistrata"? Well, Miss Emerson, all the 230 pounds of her, is in "Smiling Faces," so you see that Fred Stone will have some heavy support when he appears in that musical comedy in the Alvin next week. Miss Emerson is one of the laugh-builders of the show, which will play the usual mats as well as the nite puffawmances.

The revelation that Buddy Rogers, long indentified as a screen hero, is a musician has come to us but recently. Yet it was in that cap that Bud first came before the public as a member of a boys' band in the old home town, Olathe, Kan. In his second year in collij he played trombone on Chautauqua dates. In "Hot-Cha," the Ziegfeld show, coming Feb. 22, to the Nixon, Buddy will be seen as the handsome young juvenile, without which no musical play is complete. Tickies for "Hot-Cha" will be receivable Munduh at the b. o.

The Jungles Nearly Get Their Man

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

After seeing "Prestige," new picture in the Fulton, you can better understand the news stories that come from Hollywood, telling of Ann Harding's discontent with the movies. Here again she is in a drama that measures meagerly with her talent.

Her film is another of those tropical melodramas. Its plot, as well as characters, suffer from sun-stroke and too much "jungle." Its romance develops the other-man complex. Adolphe Menjou and Melvyn Douglas are in the supporting cast.

HEADS UP

There is the young French army officer, who loses his grip on himself and takes a firm grip on the whisky bottle. There is the heathen black servant, loyal until death. There is the fair heroine, who follows her man to tropical outposts and tells him: "Keep your head up." And there is the suave gentleman, a sort of well-groomed snake in the jungle grass.

Haven't you met all of them somewhere before? Of course, you have—countless times.

SO THIS IS PRESTIGE

Miss Harding's heroine strives to be a help, but she's only a hindrance. She hangs curtains—and this keeps out the air. She brings a box of candy from Paris—and this lures the ants. She plays the piano—Hollywood only knows how the piano ever got there—and this gets on her man's nerves.

A native prison gives the affair a gruesome touch. A looming guillotine shows this jungle has its own idea of "necking" parties.

The climax is the sight of our unarmed hero beating his way, with a whip, through a mob of bayonet-sticking natives. This, ladies and gentlemen, demonstrates the supremacy of the white man. This, ladies and gentlemen, is that thing called "prestige."

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

A preview that is all Pittsburgh's own is that held annually before the public exhibit of the Associated Artists. Many from the social, university and professional sets attended the preview of the 1932 exhibit, held last night in the Carnegie Institute galleries.

Louise Evans, who had three pictures in the exhibit, arrived with a group of friends. She wore her favorite color, gypsy red. Her dress had a cape and many rows of ruffles on the skirt, arranged in the back to suggest a bustle.

Gowned In Lace

Another of the younger set, Rosamound Fitch, was interested in the exhibit. She wore a black lace gown with the upper part of the bodice of apricot lace.

The Homer Saint-Gaudenses were strolling through the galleries. Mrs. Saint-Gaudens wore black chiffon and a brief orange velvet jacket.

Mrs. George Pomeroy Bassett, always a patron of the arts, I saw studying the pictures. Others I noted were Mrs. E. Paul Tunnell in a black satin gown and a cape of garnet red velvet, and Mrs. John L. McK. Yardley, in black velvet with ermine at the neckline. The Caleb Hornbostels I had a glimpse of, too, and Mrs. John E. Nelson.

Valentine Party

Added to the Valentine gaieties is the Valentine party to be given for members of the faculty of the Thurston Preparatory School, Shady avenue, by members of the senior class and their faculty advisor, Miss Gertrude Smith, this afternoon at the school.

The school will begin a series of choral singing classes today, one for the upper school and one for the lower, with Harvey Gaul as instructor.

Visiting Bermuda

Mrs. Roberdeau Green Annan, her sister, Helen Leovy and their father and mother, the Frank Adair Leovys, are in Bermuda, and will not return until early March.

The Edward P. Mellons, the II, left yesterday for Florida, to join Mr. Mellon's parents, the Thomas A. Mellons, at Summer Haven.

The William G. Costins have left for Florida, and later will go to Cuba.

Leaving today for a late winter visit to Atlantic City are Mrs. Paul B. Dickey and her sister, Mrs. Malcolm W. Leech and Mrs. J. Knowles Woodworth.

Church Prejudices Up at Conference

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.) An attempt to eradicate prejudices created by religious differences will be made at a conference here on March 7 to be attended by hundreds of prominent Catholics, Protestants and Jews. President Hoover has been invited to open the meeting. Those who will speak include Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland; Roger W. Straus, of New York; Prof. Carlton J. H. Hayes, of New York, and Bishop James E. Freeman, of Washington.

Crippled Student To 'Dance' by 'Phone

Although injuries in an automobile accident New Year's have robbed Robert Darragh, University of Pittsburgh freshman, of the honor of leading the grand march at the freshman formal dance in Webster Hall tonight, he will do the next best thing. He will listen to the music and fun through a special telephone transmission arrangement hooked up from Webster Hall to his bedside.

Two hundred and fifty couples will attend the dance.

Penrose's Brother Left 3 Million Cash

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—An inventory of the estate of Dr. Richard Fullerton Penrose, Jr., made public yesterday, shows that $3,362,936 of his $10,040,142 estate was in cash.

Dr. Penrose, brother of the late Senator Boies Penrose, died last August. He left all but $200,000 of his estate to the American Philosophical Society and the Geological Society of America in equal parts.

Slumber Disturbed, Man Sues County

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Charles M. Brooks has sued the county for $1,000 because he can't sleep. A highway recently was realigned along his farm west of the city and he contends "automobile headlights make it impossible for me to enjoy the front porch or sleep."

The damage action was filed against the Erie County Commissioners.

Children Get Candy As Train Wrecks

Children of Rosslyn Station enjoyed a candy treat today. Chocolates being shipped from Pittsburgh to Columbus, O., were scattered along the tracks when one of the cars of a long freight train was damaged after the locomotive struck an empty gondola on the Pan Handle division, Pennsylvania Railroad.

Tri-Borough Woman's Club Takes New Name

No longer is there a Triborough Woman's Club. It's the New Kensington Woman's Club now, made so by vote of the members at yesterday's meeting. With an appropriate program, some lovely colonial costumes, a period setting and early American music, the club had its bicentennial meeting yesterday in the Aluminum Club. Four scenes from the life of Washington were depicted under the direction of Mrs. George Russell by the drama committee, the music committee assisting. There was a minuet by the women, with little Clyde Armstrong and Jean Weaver as Jack and Polly Custis, children of Martha Washington.

Part of the setting was a spinet piano, one of only two in the United States, which was imported in 1779 by John Jacob Astor.

Mrs Genevieve H. Walter Weds Richard H. Fried

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Genevieve Hill Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hill, of Wilkinsburg, to Richard Harry Fried, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Fried, of Pittsburgh, which was solemnized Wednesday morning. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. Carl August Voss, pastor of the German Evangelical Protestant Church of Pittsburgh. After March 1, Mr. and Mrs. Fried will be at home in Parkway drive, Mission Hills.

Federation Motion Picture Head To Visit Here for Luncheon of American Pen Women

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl is to pay one of her flying visits to her Pittsburgh home next week and on Thursday will be guest of honor at the luncheon which the League of American Pen Women will give in the Woman's City Club. As this will be the first league meeting attended by Mrs. Diehl since she went abroad last fall, she has been asked to tell the members of her experiences at the international meeting in Rome where she went as a delegate from the General Federation and the National Council of Women, both of which she serves as chairman of motion pictures.

Prize Plays

The three prize plays chosen by the drama committee of the Twentieth Century Club are "Running Water," by Mrs. Carroll Miller; "The Crest," by Miss Sophie Keenan, and "A Quiet Evening at Home," by Mrs. Kirkland W. Todd. Miss Keenan and Mrs. Todd were winners in last year's contest, too; indeed Miss Keenan has captured one of the awards each year since the contests were inaugurated. The three little plays will be produced at the drama committee's afternoon in March.

Honorable mention was given Miss Eleanor T. Grier for her play, "Night Club," Mrs. Miller for "Everybody's Doing It" and Mrs. Albert Pettit for "The Heritage."

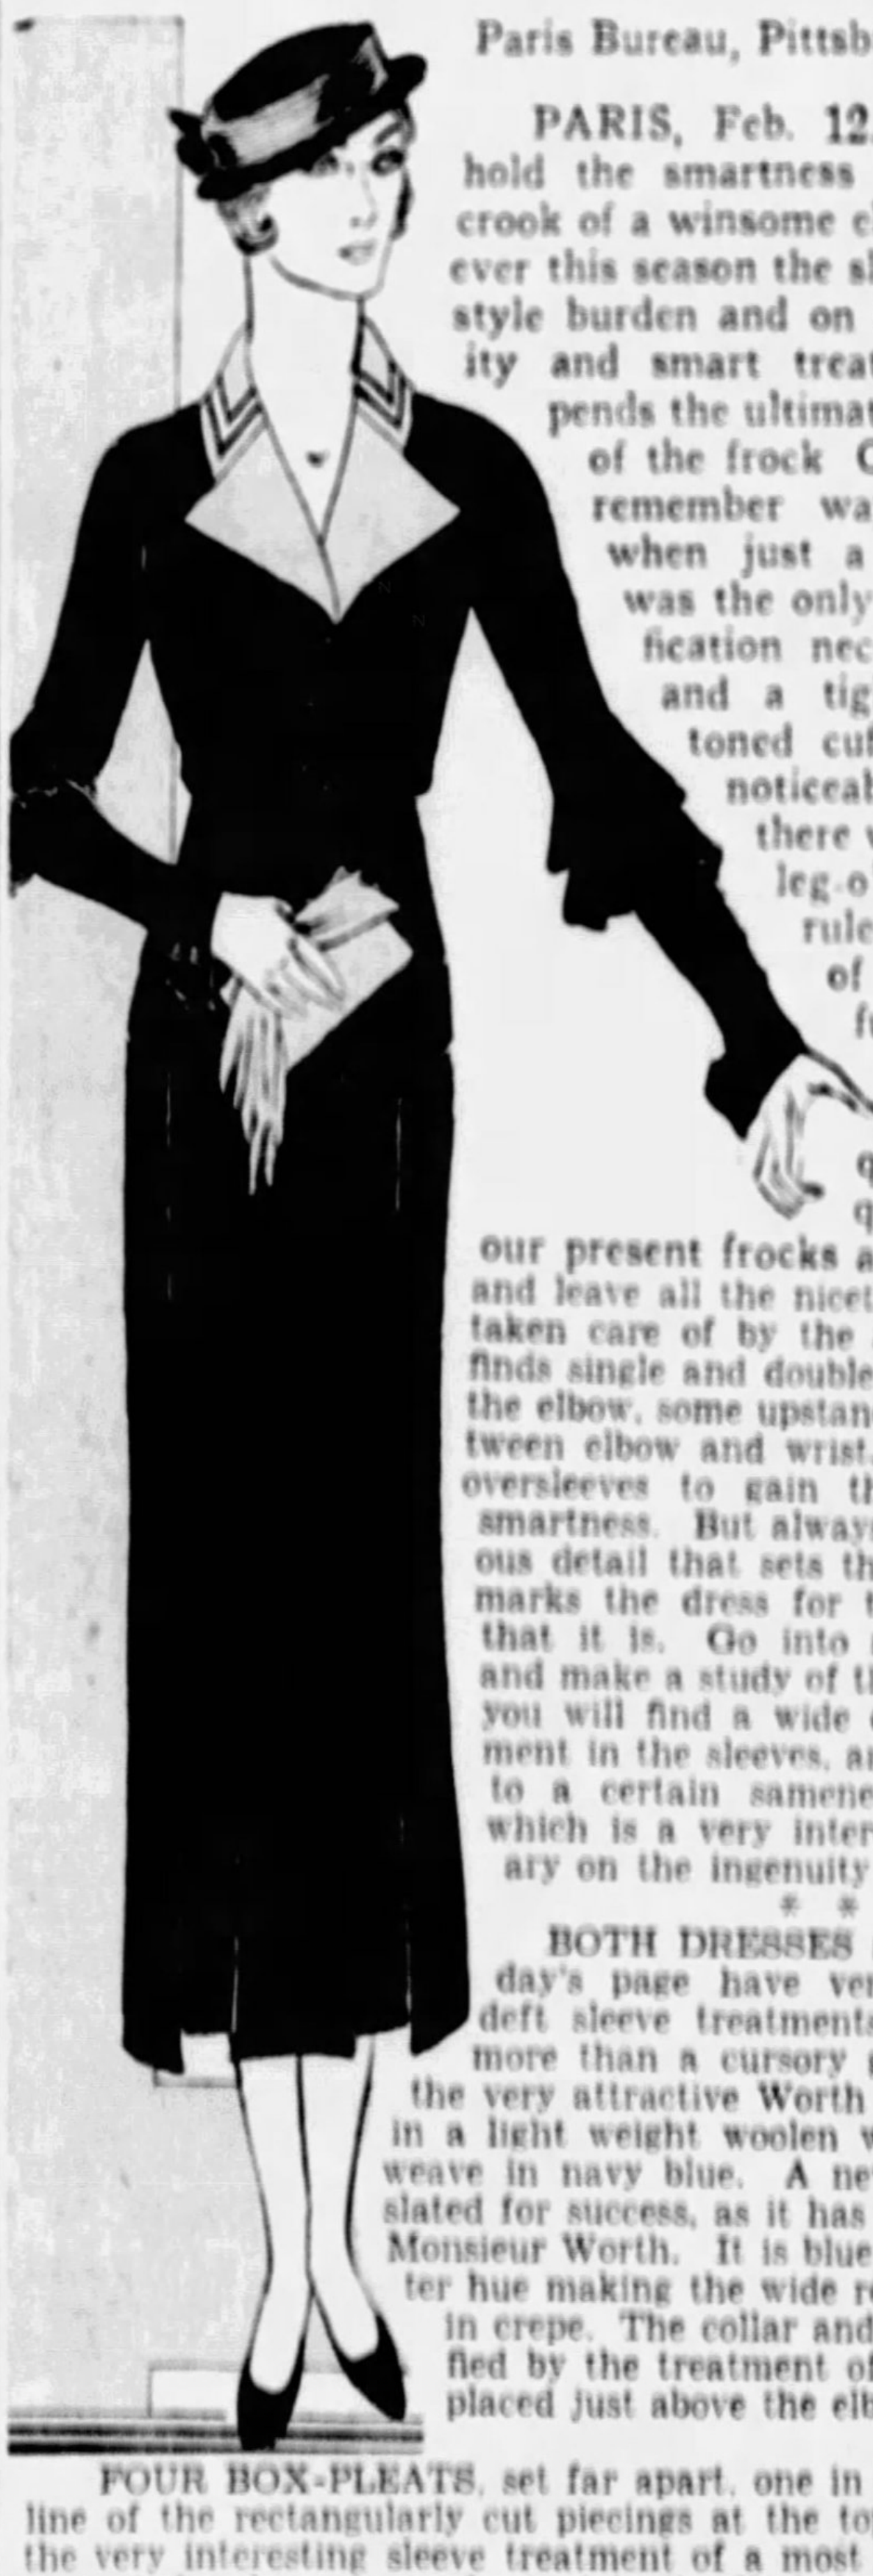
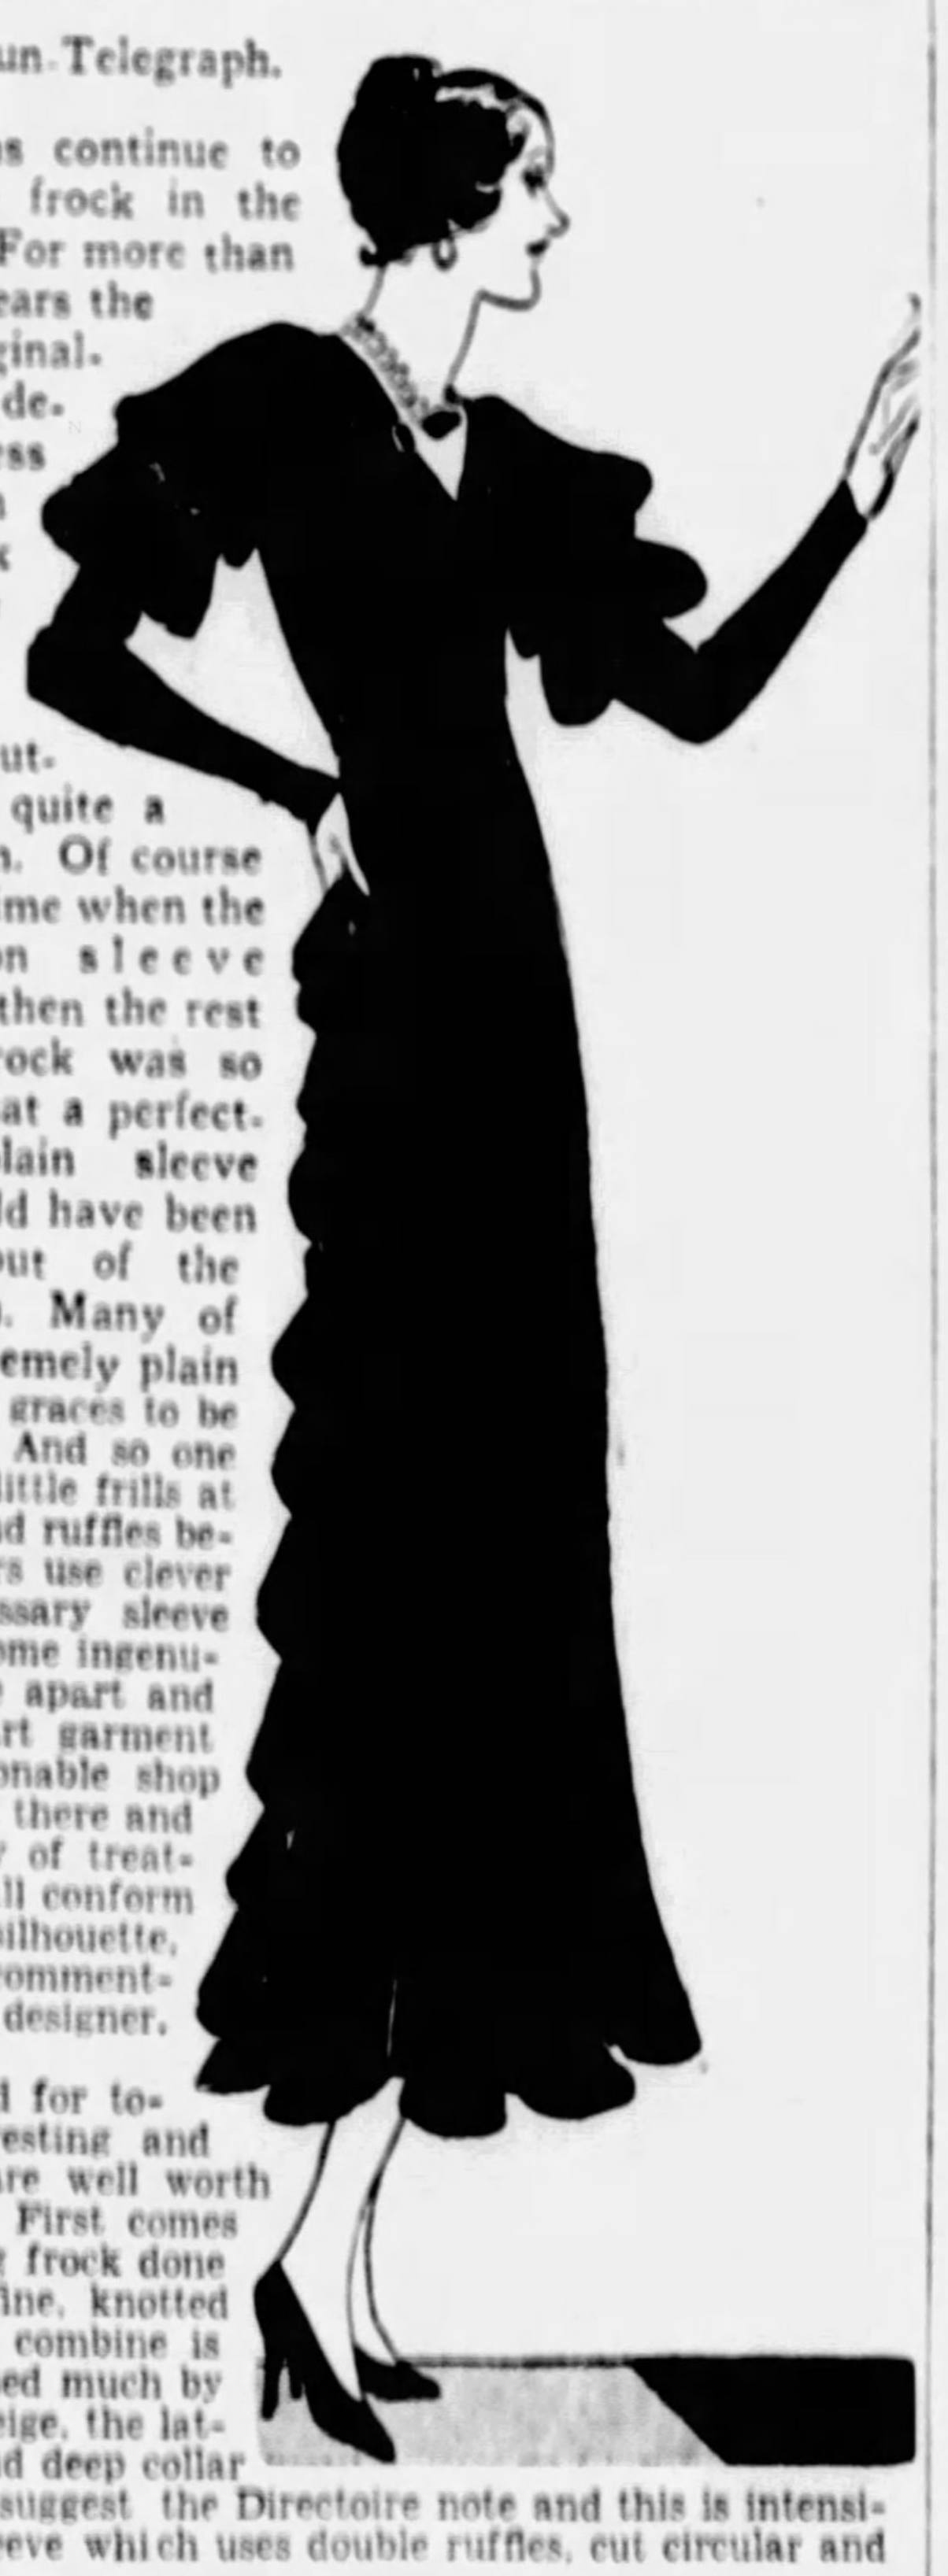
The Roslyn Farms Woman's Club forsook its publication activities yesterday and instead of the usual issue of "Congeries," a program in tribute to Lincoln and Washington was given in the school auditorium. Mrs. S. S. Haudenshield, as a Colonial soldier, carried the flag while the women repeated the American's Creed and sang America. This was followed by a dialogue between Mrs. H. F. Buchner and Mrs. E. P. Schemp dressed to represent Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln. "When George and Martha Returned," a playlet in which the Washingtons step out of their picture frame, experiment with modern electrical appliances and see their descendants come in from a late party, was enacted by Mrs. R. W. Cathcart, Mrs. E. C. Hammond, Miss Judith Hammond and George Flint. A Dresden gavotte beautifully done by Mrs. G. E. Dignan and Mrs. G. A. Price completed the program. Tea followed.

SMARTNESS OF FROCK SEEN IN ATTRACTIVE SLEEVES

—Sketched in Paris—





Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Arms continue to hold the smartness of the frock in the crook of a winsome elbow. For more than ever this season the sleeve bears the style burden and on its originality and smart treatment depends the ultimate success of the frock One can remember way back when just a sleeve was the only specification necessary and a tightly buttoned cuff was quite a noticeable item. Of course there was a time when the leg-o'-mutton sleeve ruled, but then the rest of the frock was so fussy that a perfectly plain sleeve would have been quite out of the question. Many of our present frocks are extremely plain and leave all the niceties and graces to be taken care of by the sleeve. And so one finds single and double puffs, little frills at the elbow, some upstanding, and ruffles between elbow and wrist. Others use clever oversleeves to gain the necessary sleeve smartness. But always it is some ingenuous detail that sets the sleeve apart and marks the dress for the smart garment that it is. Go into a fashionable shop and make a study of the stock there and you will find a wide diversity of treatment in the sleeves, and yet all conform to a certain sameness of silhouette, which is a very interesting commentary on the ingenuity of the designer.

* * *

BOTH DRESSES sketched for today's page have very interesting and deft sleeve treatments and are well worth more than a cursory glance. First comes the very attractive Worth walking frock done in a light weight woolen with a fine, knotted weave in navy blue. A new color combine is slated for success, as it has been used much by Monsieur Worth. It is blue with beige, the latter hue making the wide revers and deep collar in crepe. The collar and revers suggest the Directoire note and this is intensified by the treatment of the sleeve which uses double ruffles, cut circular and placed just above the elbow.

* * *

FOUR BOX-PLEATS, set far apart, one in front, one in back and one at each side, continue the line of the rectangularly cut piecings at the top of the skirt. Buttoned tabs at each wrist complete the very interesting sleeve treatment of a most interesting model. Another very attractive manipulation of the sleeve is emphasized in the Yteb frock, which is made of vivid blue crepe de chine. In this case there is double puffing on the sleeves, a most youthful and becoming note, but meant only for she who is slim of arm and shoulder. The intricate cut of the sleeve is carried out in the bodice and skirt with its double flouncing at back. Mme. Yteb is having much success with frocks of this genre.

Motion Picture of 'Arrowsmith' Praised by Club Leaders Who Attend Preview

Leading Pittsburgh clubwomen, after attending a preview yesterday, praised the motion picture, "Arrowsmith," which opens today in the Loew's Penn Theater.

The fidelity of the picture to Sinclair Lewis' novel was especially emphasized, according to several women who attended the showing.

Among those present were Mrs. James G. Chalfant, president of the southwestern district of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women; Mrs. H. J. Fox, president of the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Helen Rauh, district chairman of motion pictures, State Federation; Mrs. H. C. McEldowney, regent, Pittsburgh Chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. Fred Grover, chairman of motion pictures, Dormont New Century Club, and Mrs. John S. Sloan, president of the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club.

Mrs. Chalfant said:

"Those interested in better films are urged to encourage their production by patronizing this picture, which is a better film in every sense."

Mrs. Fox commented:

"The picture is commendable for its fidelity to the novel and to Mr. Lewis' intentions."

OATMEAL COOKIES — Two-third cup of butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, ¼ cup milk, 2 cups rolled oats, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 cup chopped seeded raisins.

Cream butter. Add sugar gradually. Add eggs well beaten. Then milk and rolled oats. Add flour, salt, baking powder, cinnamon and nutmeg which have been sifted together. Add raisins. Drop by spoonsful on a greased baking sheet and bake in a hot oven. (Nuts may be added if desired.)

* * *

ORANGE JUICE COOKIES—Half cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs beaten light, grated rind of 1 orange, 2 tablespoons orange juice, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 3 cups flour.

Cream the butter and sugar. Add eggs, orange juice and grated rind. Then add the sifted dry ingredients. Pat and roll into a sheet ⅛ inch thick. Cut into fancy shapes with a cookie cutter. Place on buttered cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 10-15 minutes. A pecan or blanched almond may be placed on top of each cookie before baking.

* * *

FRUITS DELIGHTS—2 cups flour, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ pound butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ pound preserved ginger, ¼ pound blanched almonds, ¼ pound citron, ⅓ cup maple syrup.

Cream butter and sugar, add the egg and vanilla, then add the flour and knead well. Take half the dough and spread it in eight-inch square tin, ungreased. Grind together the ginger, almonds, citron and mix thoroughly. Moisten with the maple syrup and spread the filling over the dough in the pan. Flour hands and spread other half of dough over the filling and brush with milk. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees fahrenheit) 20-25 minutes. While still warm, cut in squares.

Spinach Has Elements Beneficial to Health

Few Vegetables Contain the Many Healthful Qualities Offered in This Dish.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,

Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator From New York.

Mothers often say, "Johnnie will not eat spinach; neither will the rest of the family, and so I never cook it."

Spinach should be included in the diet at least once a week. I am sure it would be used more frequently if its value were more thoroughly understood.

It is one of our most valuable vegetables containing four important vitamins. In addition, it carries a rich supply of iron, lime and other minerals.

Vitamin A, not present in many green vegetables, is found abundantly in spinach. This vitamin is very important for normal growth and development. It protects the body, particularly the eyes, against infection and disease.

Scurvy is a disease which occurs when there is a lack of vitamin C. This vitamin is found in spinach and other green vegetables. Tomatoes and oranges have liberal supplies of it.

Another vitamin found in spinach is important because it is a protection against rickets. This is the so-called "sunshine vitamin," vitamin D, particularly abundant in cod liver oil.

Besides the iron and lime which I have mentioned, in spinach are found copper, iodine and manganese. The lime, iron and iodine content is of great value because those substances help form red blood cells. They build up and purify the blood of the body.

Interesting observations were reported recently regarding the treatment of infants suffering from anemia. These babies were underweight, undernourished and in a very weak condition. They were fed spinach that had been thoroughly cleaned and reduced to a fine powder. Milk was added to the powder so that it could be drawn through the nipple of the feeding bottle.

Small quantities were given daily and the results in all cases were reported as gratifying. The blood content was enriched and the babies improved in appearance and in general health. Needless to say such an experiment should be carried out under the advice and direction of the family doctor.

Spinach is an all-year round vegetable. It is inexpensive and requires little time to prepare. Canned spinach can be used when you cannot obtain fresh spinach. This differs slightly from fresh spinach in that it contains a smaller amount of vitamin C.

The true worth of spinach has only recently been realized. But within the last five years its consumption has increased tremendously.

As a rule, spinach is disliked because it is not properly cooked. It should be thoroughly cleaned, of course. It can be cooked whole or cut into small pieces. It requires very little water and only about 10 to 15 minutes of boiling.

When properly prepared it is a delicious and wholesome dish. Its nutritive value cannot be denied and it should form a part of your weekly menu.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

½ tablespoon confectioners' sugar, 1-3 cup cream, whipped.

Crisp carrots and cabbage by allowing them to stand in ice water. Drain cabbage, add vinegar, and chill 15 minutes. Drain and dry vegetables thoroughly. Combine carrots and cabbage and toss lightly together with dressing made by folding mayonnaise and sugar into whipped cream. Arrange in salad bowl lined with crisp lettuce. Garnish with additional mayonnaise and parsley. Serves 6.

* * *

EGG AND FISH MOLD—Mix 1¼ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon mustard, a few grains cayenne, 2 egg yolks and 1½ tablespoons butter in the top of a double boiler, add 1 cup milk and 3 tablespoons vinegar slowly and cook until thick.

Dissolve it in 4 tablespoons gelatin softened in 2 tablespoons cold water. Cool and when beginning to thicken add 2½ cups flaked salmon or other fish, ½ cup peas and ½ cup chopped walnuts and mold in a fish shaped mold decorated with slices of hard cooked eggs. Serves 8.

* * *

BOILED CUSTARD—Five egg yolks, scant ½ cup granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 quart milk, ¾ teaspoon vanilla.

Beat egg yolks slightly, add sugar and salt, then the milk that has been heated to the scalding point, stirring continuously until the mixture thickens sufficiently to coat a metal spoon. Remove from fire, beat until smooth and add vanilla. If custard cooks too long it may curdle. To remove curdle appearance, place pan in cold water and whip custard with a rotary egg beater until smooth. Yield: Scant 1 quart. About six servings.

* * *

PORK CHOPS EN CASSEROLE—Six rib chops, 2 cups boiled rice, ½ cup chopped celery, ½ cup chopped onions, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 cup canned tomato soup, 1½ cups water.

Heat frying pan, add and brown the chops. Add the onions and celery and brown. Add rest of ingredients and boil 2 minutes. Cover and bake 1½ hours in moderately slow oven.

* * *

BRAND BREAD—Two cups flour, 1 cup graham flour, 1 cup bran, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped raisins, 1 egg, 2 cups sour milk.

Mix ingredients and pour into large greased loaf pan. Let rise 15 minutes. Bake 1 hour in slow oven.

* * *

ORANGE CREAM CAKE—One-third cup fat, 1 cup sugar, 2-3 cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 cups pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs.

Cream fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Pour into 2 small layer cake pans fitted with waxed papers. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Add filling.

* * *

FILLING—One-half cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 egg, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons orange

Can Mate Trust a Petter After Marriage?

Remember that old song—"I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?"

Ned's singing that song these days. For Ned married a Big Time Petter. When he did it, he felt that as soon as he'd slipped the platinum shackle on her finger, all would be well, and he'd never think of her bygone Boy Friends.

But now he's all in a stew for some of them have been calling on the Little Woman to pay her their respects and her "army of petters" has risen in his mind like ghosts out of the past, to haunt him.

Tune in on his wave length and tell us what you think.

Has he something to worry about? Or hasn't he?

IS SUSPICIOUS

"Dear Sally:

"Someone asked in your column—Would you marry a girl who had petted dozens before she got to you?

"Well, I did just that. I thought it was okey at the time but now I am worried. Two years ago I was left a widower at 33, with a daughter of 10. I floundered around for a while living with friends, but things weren't so pleasant as they were during my 13 years of very happy married life.

"Then I met a girl 11 years my junior. And finally I got up my courage and asked for a date—and got it. After a few months I found myself in love with her. I learned from her that she had been going with several fellows, and I knew that she had permitted considerable petting. However, I thought that would not bother me after we were married.

"But now, after being married a year and a half, and having a new son a few weeks old, I've developed a case of worry and suspicion because I gradually learned from her that the list of petters was a long one, rather than the three or four I heard of before we were married. She had no dates with anyone else after I gave her her ring.

JEALOUSY AROUSED

"But when we had been married a month, she suggested that she have dinner and spend the evening dancing with an old sweetheart who was returning here from another city. She didn't want me present, but I diplomatically arranged that he call at our house and we both spent an evening trying to entertain a very nervous young man. Since then, just lately, another old sweetheart called to see her one morning, having had business in the neighborhood. This aroused some jealousy and renewed my thoughts of that 'army of petters.'

"As for myself, I never went with more than one girl at a time before I was first married, and if I succeeded in getting my arm around the back of the sofa to touch her shoulder and then kissed her 'good-night' I thought I was a devil.

"I love my wife dearly, and so does my daughter. And she appears to be very devoted to me and both children. But my business compels me to be out of town several days every few weeks, and at times I am almost frantic with fear that one of her former Boy Friends will show up at my home and with this modern so-called 'broad-mindedness' attempt to renew old frivolities.

"I want to be happy with her. Do you think she can be trusted? I can't get these fellows out of my mind. NED."

Do I think she can be trusted? I don't know, Ned—for you've told me nothing of the girl herself. But it is becoming painfully obvious that you can't be trusted!

Do I mean that you're cheating?

Yes, I do.

But not "with another woman!"

WRONGING WIFE

There is more than one form of cheating, Ned—more than one way of spoiling love and wrecking marriage, and your form of cheating is more of a menace than a dozen trivial flirtations. For you are cheating yourself and your wife by your suspicion and jealousy. You're wronging her, and your home, just as surely by imagining unfaithfulness as she could possibly wrong you by being unfaithful. And unless you stop it, you will bring about the very deceit and estrangement which you dread.

After all, why shouldn't a few of the old boy friends drop in to see the girl they once admired? Marriage should not shut her off from old friendships—and there will be no harm in such contacts unless you, yourself, make her regret her choice by your peeves.

Snap out of it, Ned. Make her glad rather than sorry that she chose you out of that "army of petters." Give her all your love and all your loyalty, and here's betting she will be worthy of them. And one more last tip. Stop hanging medals on yourself because you never petted. Maybe that was because you were so pure, but the chances are it was just because you had cold feet. Then, why all the cheering?

Fay King Warns Rich Widows Against Men Who Seek Marriages for Money

THIS WILL TAKE CARE OF MY WIFE AS LONG AS SHE LIVES!
WILL FAY-KING
A WIDOW WITH MEANS ALWAYS ATTRACTS SUITORS!
MY FIRST HUSBAND LEFT ME WELL PROVIDED FOR, BUT MY SECOND HUSBAND WENT THROUGH MY LITTLE FORTUNE!
AN OLD, FAMILIAR STORY

By FAY KING

The elderly widow who is left in comfortable circumstances should be cautious in considering another marriage.

She has had her romance in youth, and her years of happy married life, and is now provided for independence in her old age.

But many widows, finding themselves free, again begin to seek new social contacts and to cultivate admirers.

They insist that they miss the companionship of a husband.

But certainly it is much better to be a little lonely at times than to find herself married for her money.

The world is well aware of the fact that a widow with means never finds it difficult to marry again, so that she need not do so just to convince her friends that she can.

Veritzen Admits His Preference of Avis Arlen

Had I jeopardized my play, my whole literary future, by daring to question Philip Veritzen concerning his patent effort to substitute Avis Arlen for Mary in the affections of his son Noel? I had heard many harrowing stories of the caprices of the great producer. I knew that many a playwright had been as near success as I apparently was, according to his own voiced opinion of the three acts of my play, which he already had read and then had had their hopes dashed to the ground by inadvertently offending the great man.

He looked at me keenly, a grim little smile playing about his lips.

"Your—courage—deserves a frank answer"—I had the unpleasant feeling that "effrontery" was the real word he had in his mind—"so I will tell you plainly that I should infinitely prefer Avis Arlen as a daughter-in-law to Mary Harrison."

With an effort I kept my lips closed tightly. If he were speaking the truth, a bat when compared to him had the keenest eyes in the world. I thought of Mary's intense loyalty, her brilliance of mind, her generosity of spirit, her energy and resourcefulness, and then of the inefficiency, the insincerity and the clinging, smothering helplessness which I was sure were Avis Arlen's and wondered that any father could be so fatuous as to wish such certain marital disaster upon his only son.

"Is it permitted to ask why?" I asked, trying to smile, but making a woeful failure at the attempt.

"Surely," he said. "I have many reasons and I will give you the most important of them, but first let me relieve your mind about one point. I am keeping to my part of the bargain, whatever my personal preference. I am using no coercion whatever upon my son and Mary. Manipulation, subtle or otherwise, of circumstances which fall into my hands—yes. I am losing no chance to influence him—I frankly admit it, but that is the extent of my breach of faith with you."

"That is the only assurance I wish," I said placatingly, "and I ought not to have doubted you. Please forgive me and do not trouble to tell me your reasons for preferring Miss Arlen to Mary. I am content with your pledge of non-interference."

"Does that mean," he asked, "that you do not care to hear my reasons for preferring one girl to the other? How do you know but I might be able to persuade you of the correctness of my views?"

I shook my head.

"I admit my prejudice in the matter," I said. "I am afraid I should be impervious to argument, but I am not blindly obstinate. I shall be very glad to hear any reasons that you have for preferring Miss Arlen to Mary."

"I should like to tell you of them," he said, soberly, "but they may hurt you."

"I am not afraid," I said, as seriously.

"In the first place, then," he said, "Noel should not marry a woman of his own profession. Two stars in the same firmament would be certain to get into trouble over the number of kilowatts of light they are sending out. If Noel were the more aggressive of the two, Mary the yielding one, the difficulty might work itself out, but with Mary the dominant figure of the team, as she always will be, my son would soon become a negligible quantity."

"Never!" I said warmly. "Noel never could be that, and Mary loves and respects him too much to try to dominate him."

"I knew you'd take it that way," Mr. Veritzen said. "I wonder what you will say to my second reason."

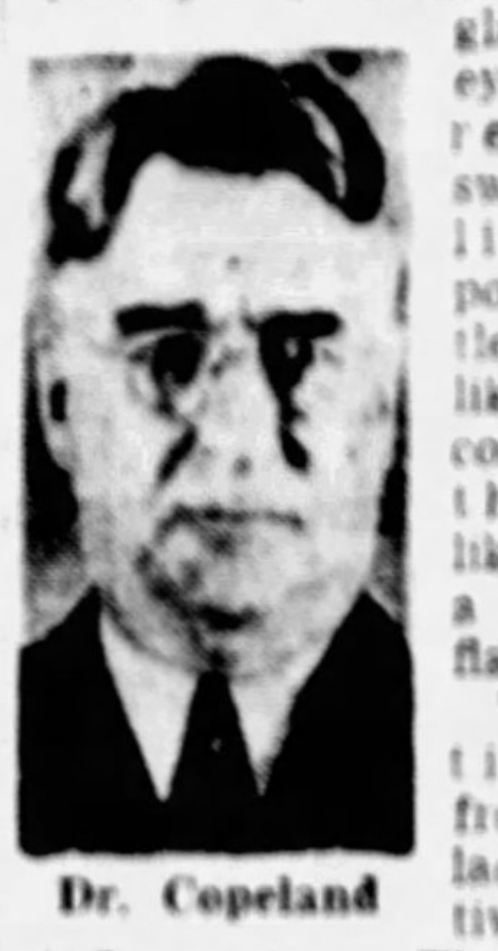
How to Keep Well :-:

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Condition of Eye Similar to Sties

Chalazion is a swelling of the eyelid frequently confused with a sty. It is caused by an obstruction to the opening of the passageway from one of the glands in the eyelid. This results in a swelling of the lid at that point. This little tumor is likely to become infected; then we are likely to have a chronic inflammation.



Dr. Copeland

This condition differs from a sty. It lacks the active signs of inflammation. There is no redness, and no pain. No pus formation is visible. Because of this the condition is often overlooked for a considerable time. Its presence is only realized when it grows in size.

This tumor gradually enlarges. After a period of months, it may reach the size of a pea or be even larger. It causes a definite disfigurement of the lid.

The word "chalazion" comes from the Greek word meaning "hailstone." This swelling closely resembles a hailstone. It is round, firm and when removed in its entirety has a glistening appearance.

Occasionally the chalazion may break down and from it a thick, sticky fluid escapes. If this happens the condition does not disappear as it does when a sty breaks and discharges.

Chalazion may be caused by rubbing the eyes, exposure to wind and dirt and lack of hygiene of the eyes. The germs are aided in their efforts to find lodgment.

The only cure for this condition is a simple operation. There is no medicine, salve or ointment that will cause the swelling to disappear. As the tumor grows it definitely interferes in the movements of the lid. If neglected, it may break down, become infected, and is then more serious.

When people are told that an operation is necessary, they usually become alarmed. In this case there is no need for alarm. The operation is simple and is done in the doctor's office. It is done under local anaesthesia, thus removing all pain. No ill effects follow this operation.

In the operation a small incision is made in the skin of the lid and the tumor is removed. Healing is rapid and there is rarely any scar or sign of the operation.

Chalazion should not be neglected. Remember that in addition to its interference with the motion of the eyelid, it may break down and become infected.

Household Hints

Figs and dates should always be thoroughly cleansed before using. Placing them in a colander and pouring boiling water over them will remove the germs and dirt and do no harm to the fruit.

If your cellar stairs are badly lighted, as most of them are, it is a wise precaution to paint the top and bottom steps white. The white steps will show up in the dark and go far toward reducing the possibility of a fall.

Freak Hands Prohibit No-Trumps

Unless your voice gives out, there are hands that must be bid and rebid over partner's attempts to play no-trumps until he lapses into silence. The hand shown below cannot allow partner to play no-trumps.

Z
♥ A Q 3
♣ K 3 2
♦ Q 8

Many players would have made an opening bid of 2-Spades, but Z did not like the idea of playing the hand at no-trumps in case his partner bid 3-Diamonds, nor could he well afford to overcall such a response with 3-Spades. After due deliberation Z decided to make an opening bid of 1-Spade. As his hunch had warned, Y took out with a jump of 3-Diamonds. So that after all Z had either to rebid his spades or make a game bid of 3-No-Trumps, and he chose the latter make, which Y refused by bidding 5-Diamonds. Fortunately Z passed this game bid, which was the limit in safety.

With the freak support held by his partner, Z would have come out poorly at either spades or no-trumps. Diamonds, and diamonds only, could go game. Y had to lose one trump trick and another trick in clubs, barely fulfilling his game contract.

The hands below were bid as follow: Z, 1-No Trump; A, Double; Y remained passive throughout. To show game probabilities at hearts, provided his partner held a strong doubling hand, B bid 3-Hearts. Z passed, but A shifted to 3-Spades. Liking his partner's spades about as well as A liked B's hearts, B ventured a shift of 4-Diamonds. Z passed. The bidding made A believe that a small slam might be made, even against a no-trump declaration, and he jumped into 6-Diamonds.

Before the answer appears Monday, think whether or not a small slam contract can be fulfilled at diamonds, and if so, how it can be done with a maximum of safety.

The opening lead was Z's A of clubs.

To improve Any child's

APPETITE

If you want your child to eat more to gain and grow strong, begin this very night with the famous "California treatment!"

A sluggish appetite means a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

California fig syrup is doing wonderful things for ailing, sickly children all over the United States.

The one way to conquer constipation

If your baby, boy, or girl is bilious—pale-faced and dull-eyed from constipation—breath bad mornings, tongue coated all the time—don't give cathartics that weaken twenty feet of bowels! Instead, a little fig syrup that doesn't disturb either stomach or bowels, but does act on the lower colon—where the trouble lies.

Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California fig syrup. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. Your child will soon be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the fig syrup a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

Children who get fig syrup, now and then, keep well and avoid colds.

NOTICE: The bottlers of California Fig Syrup respectfully warn mothers that the promises made here apply only to the genuine product in bottles plainly marked CALIFORNIA.

Replying to a Toast

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the proper thing for the groom to say at a home reception when the guests all drink a toast to the bride and groom? Should he rise or remain seated and what should he say? CHARLES.

The groom rises to acknowledge this toast. He may make the simplest of acknowledgments . . . "Mary and I thank you, with the deepest of appreciation, for your good wishes and for your friendship" . . . to a longer toast worded appropriately to the group of guests. That is, if there are only a few relatives and friends, he may, if he wishes, make quite a "speech," but usually he only says a sentence or two.

Alumnae Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our Alumnae is giving a dance soon. Of course, I am going to ask a friend of mine to be my escort on that night. Here is my difficulty. Should I pay for the tickets, or should I let him know how much they are, therefore letting him pay for them. I think that I should pay for them, since I am asking him, but I was told that I am in the wrong in this judgment. Will you tell me please? M.

You are right . . . since you are to be the hostess, you should pay for the tickets.

FINE RECIPES :-: Delicacies Suggested By Prudence Penny

juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup water, 1 tablespoon butter.

Blend sugar and flour. Add egg, salt, fruit juices and water. Cook slowly and stir constantly until filling thickens. Add butter. Cool and use as filling between 2 baked cake layers.

* * *

VEGETABLE SALAD—One cup cooked string beans, cut in short pieces, ½ cup cooked lima beans, ¼ cup vinegar, ½ cup cooked carrots, diced, ½ cup cooked peas, 1 cup cooked asparagus stalks, cut in short pieces; ¼ cup mayonnaise, ¾ cup cooked beets, diced.

Combine string beans and lima beans with vinegar, and chill 15 minutes. Season carrots, peas and asparagus with salt, white pepper and Cayenne. Add to first mixture and toss lightly together with mayonnaise. Arrange crisp lettuce on large salad plate, place beets in small mounds around edge, and pile salad lightly in center. Garnish with asparagus tips. Serves six.

* * *

RICE PUDDING SURPRISE—One-half cup rice (uncooked), 2 cups milk, 1 cup dark brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons butter.

Mix rice and milk. Cook in double boiler 30 minutes. Cover during cooking, stir frequently. Add sugar and salt, cook until the mixture thickens a little. Add rest of ingredients. Cook five minutes. Pour into glass dish. Cool and chill.

* * *

MEDIUM SAUCE—Two tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, ⅛ teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper.

Bring milk to boiling point in double boiler. Cream fat and flour together and add to hot milk. Cover and let stand without stirring. The heat should be continued under the double boiler. At the end of 15 minutes, beat briskly with egg beater until smooth.

A thin white sauce is made with 1 tablespoon of flour, and a thick white sauce with 3 tablespoons to each cup of milk.

* * *

BLACK WALNUT FRUIT SLICES—Two-thirds cup fat, 1½ cups sugar, 2 eggs, 4 tablespoons cream, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 cup raisins, ½ cup black walnuts, 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda.

Cream the fat and sugar. Add eggs and cream. Beat two minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Break off bits of dough and flatten down, three inches apart on greased baking sheets. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven. Makes three dozen.

* * *

CREAM OF GREEN PEA SOUP—In a double boiler, cook for 20 minutes 1 stalk of celery and ½ an onion in 1½ cups of milk. In a saucepan, melt 4 tablespoonfuls of butter; in it cook 4 tablespoonfuls of flour, ½ a teaspoonful of salt and ¼ teaspoonful of pepper; add 1 cup of cold milk, stirring constantly until the mixture boils, then gradually add the hot milk from which the onion and celery have been removed.

Press enough cooked green peas through a sieve to make 2 cups of puree. When ready to serve, combine the two mixtures. To each service, add 3 or 4 firm sections of hot, cooked tomatoes.

* * *

CHICKEN L'ORIENT—Three tablespoons butter, ½ cup tomatoes, 1 cup diced chicken, 1 very small onion, chopped, 2 cups cooked rice, ½-¾ cup diced celery, ½ cup gravy, broth or milk.

Brown the celery and onion in the butter, add the tomaoes, gravy and chicken. If milk is used instead of left-over gravy, thicken the tomatoes with 3 tablespoons flour and simmer for 10 minutes. Add the hot milk, blend throughly and serve over rice.

Women said:
YOU CAN'T USE ONE HOUSEHOLD SOAP FOR EVERYTHING

BUT they changed their minds when they used the New Oxydol

WHAT a pitiful story kitchen shelves tell of women's efforts to lighten the burden of housework—shelves crowded with soaps and powders supposed to make their work easier.

But there is one soap to do that now—the amazing New Oxydol does everything for you!

It's easy on hands, easy on clothes and wonderful for dishes. It does more work because it makes 50% more suds—richer, quicker, more lasting suds. Clean smelling suds that float dirt out of clothes and keep it out so clothes are snowy white—suds that cut grease on dishes so they rinse sparkling clean—suds that lighten all your housework.

Try this new soap. Use enough to make rich suds—it never balls up or leaves a scum—just thick foamy suds in hard water or soft water turned hard by dirty clothes or dishes. Ask your grocer today for a package of Oxydol.

RELEASED VETS REFUSE TO GIVE UP

Waite Hoyt

SOME OF BASEBALL'S old-timers whose playing days in the major leagues were thought to have come to an end when they were given unconditional releases this winter are refusing to give up. They decline to bow to Father Time or to admit that they're done, and are seeking chances with different clubs to prove that they're still able to hold up their ends in the big show. Eddie Roush appears to be about the only vet turned loose who is willing to hang up his glove and concede that he has reached the end of the trail.

And perhaps Roush is only waiting until spring training grind is over before trying to find a new job for himself. He never was in love with it. All the rest are bent on coming back. Dolf Luque has sold the idea to John McGraw and has hooked up with the Giants; Rube Bressler is trying to talk the Reds into giving him a trial, and now Waite Hoyt announces that if he can't induce Connie Mack to reconsider his release he'll endeavor to make connections with another club.

HOYT FEELS SO sure of himself that he is going to start South, as usual, as if nothing had happened. Instead of getting busy at once in an attempt to peddle his services, he plans to drop into Fort Myers for a conference with Mack, who on Monday gave him his unconditional release.

Waite says it was all due to a matter of salary. The A's paid him more last season than they thought they could afford, he explains, but they had to carry out his contract with Detroit, from which club they had obtained him in mid-season. He wanted the same money this year, and Mack decided to release him rather than have a dissatisfied player on his club.

THE VETERAN HURLER expresses the belief that when he has had a talk with Mack and shown the latter how greatly he has improved in condition, Connie will change his mind and sign him again. "If not," he adds, "I know where any enterprising club can get a good pitcher."

It is reported that the Brooklyn club is manifesting an interest in Hoyt and may make him an offer if he doesn't rejoin the A's. Hoyt says he has taken off 20 pounds since the end of last season. He attributes his slump in recent years to laziness, and declares his release has taught him a lesson that will cause him to stick strictly to business in the future.

COINCIDENT WITH THE announcement that Charley Berry has signed for another year at Grove City and that Pop Warner is to stay at Stanford under a new five-year agreement, comes a different kind of football coaching news from a point nearer to home, Bill Amos having resigned as head mentor at Washington and Jefferson College. Due to several handicaps, including the lack of a home field, Amos did not make a brilliant record with the presidents, but at that his career there ought to be helpful to the college for the future as showing that it is a mistake to try to run a football team successfully under divided coaching authority. Bill himself may be able to get better results on a new job. Incidentally, it is rumored that there may be a change in athletic leadership before long at another school not a million miles away.

Jack Zivic

FROM JACK ZIVIC, most famous member of the fighting Zivic family, comes some interesting inside information on the effect that the drying-out process has on a boxer when he is forced to resort to it in order to make a certain weight. Zivic writes from Pelham Manor, N. Y.:

"I noticed your article in the Sun-Tele about Max Baer and his ideas on drying out. I think I ought to be a good critic on that subject. I used to dry out until I made the weight. There were times when I had to walk up a few flights of stairs to be weighed in, and would you believe that, because of my drying out, I could barely make a single flight, and when I reached the top I had to sit down and rest to save myself from falling from weakness?

"THE FIRST THING I'd do after weighing in was to drink my fill of water, and oh, how good it tasted. I drank plenty, too, and five minutes or less afterward I could have run up five miles of steps. That's how much strength I'd gain after drinking the water.

"When I made 135 pounds at 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon, I'd weigh from 143 to 145 at the time of entering the ring at 10 o'clock, believe it or not. I know, because I'd weigh myself just before the fight.

"THAT'S WHY I could handle the lightweights with ease, as they were natural 135-pounders while I was a 145-pounder in reality. But when I joined the 147-pounders I was a natural 147-pounder at ring time. The result was that I fought quite a few men who were middleweights at that hour, as they had taken on enough weight to give them the same advantage over me that I held when I was a 145-pounder at ringtime fighting 135-pounders. That's what water will do for a boxer after he has dried out. Believe me, there's only one thing better than water when you're very thirsty, and that's good beer."

NAT HOLMAN was considered the best Jewish basketball player of all time, and next to him many of the critics rate the speedy Davey Banks, now with the Rosenblum Celtics, who will be seen in action against the Brooklyn Americans in the big professional game at Motor Square Garden tonight.

Oddly enough, Lou Spindell, who follows on the Jewish ranking list, is with Brooklyn and will oppose Banks tonight. Davey may have a few years experience on his younger rival, but easterners say Spindell is otherwise as good as the best. Lou is a graduate of Nat Holman's basketball school at College of the City of New York. As a college player eastern critics pronounced him as comparable to Charley Hyatt.

NEGRO ATHLETES WILL contribute some of the outstanding features of West Virginia University's fourth annual indoor track and field games in Morgantown tomorrow, a topline number being the scheduled attempt of Howard Spencer, Geneva's high-jump star, to equal or break the world indoor record at his specialty.

Howard Spencer

Spencer already holds the Mountaineer field house record of 6 feet 5 inches, made last year. That was a fraction better than the best listed collegiate mark up to this year, but for some unknown reason no claim was put in for a record. In New York last month the best world indoor figures were boosted by George Spitz to 6 feet 7⅞ inches, which Spencer will be shooting at tomorrow.

SPENCER'S WINNING JUMP in 1931 was made with the bar set at six-five, but he cleared it by two or three inches, so that he really did six-seven at least. The Geneva crack has a style of his own. After the bar gets to 6 feet he takes off one shoe, jumping with one foot bare and the other shod. He leaves the shoe on the foot from which he takes off. Another Negro, Peacock, of Temple, reputed to be an exceptionally good broadjumper, will be out to break the West Virginia field house record, which is 22 feet 1¾ inches, set by Everett Utterback, of Pitt, who also won the I. C. A. A. A. A. indoor championship in 1930. Peacock's class is attested by the fact that he is the only athlete Temple is sending to the meet. Negro stars have been prominent annually in West Virginia's indoor games. Last year, Eddie Tolan, of Michigan, and Spencer were among the contestants, and in 1930 Utterback and Harris, of Pitt, took part.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS
Canadiens 4—Chicago 1
Maroons 7—Bruins 4

By CARL W. SHATTO

In wagering that the Yellow Jackets won't gain the International Hockey League title playoff series, don't be too liberal with your odds.

True, the local skaters are in last place in the league standings with only 17 games remaining to be played and three strong rivals to be passed before they gain the money circle.

Big handicaps? For the team playing in an ordinary stride yes, but for a team that can coast home to a 7-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians these handicaps may prove only insignificant obstacles to be lightly brushed aside.

DECISIVE VICTORY

In humbling Cleveland by a 7-2 count before a wildly-cheering capacity throng at Duquesne Garden last night the Pittsburgh skaters really scored 11 goals, and they did this after electing to play a purely defensive game in the third period. Four of the Jacket tallies were not allowed because Referee Puss Traub figured that seven goals was enough, and nullified additional mesh-denters with whistling for off-side penalties.

And even a 11-2 score hardly would be a correct indication of the decisive manner in which the Reidmen outplayed the visitors. They rushed to the attack so fiercely that they had bowled over the Cleveland defense for a three-goal lead in less than 10 minutes of action in the initial period. They muzzled the Cleveland attack so completely that they were sporting a 7-1 lead before the Tribe was permitted to cash in on an advantage in man power and register its second goal. The Jackets' display of power was the most impressive that any team has flashed here this season. No International League team would have been able to survive the locals' searing attack of last night. A continuation of this work cannot but bring the Reidmen a record string of successes.

TEAM SHINES

In the Jackets' greatest scoring harvest of the season there was no individual star. Whitey Fields was the only local warrior to score more than one goal.

Gordy Fraser was credited with the first goal at 2:57 in the first period when Ken Doraty accidentally pushed the disc into the Cleveland cage in attempting to clear the local guard's rebound. Ty Arbour, after receiving a pass from Stu Dunning, backhanded the puck past Goalie Woods to boost the Pittsburgh lead to two goals at 8:20 in the same stanza. Dunning rubbed salt in the wounds of his former mates by converting an assist from Fraser into Pittsburgh goal No. 3 at 9:12, and at 13:20 Milt Halliday, former Jacket, batted home Daley's rebound to make the score 3-1 at the period's close.

JACKETS BOLSTER LEAD

Joe Matte skated the Cleveland defense into the ice to coast in on Woods with another Jacket tally at 15:23 in the middle period, and Fields converted on a pass from Fraser at 16:55 to make the score 5-1 when the second-stanza gong sounded.

The locals elected to play a defensive game and protect their big edge in the third period, but at 13:50 and 17:43, respectively, Cam Proudlock and Fields could not resist the temptation to score on solo efforts. The Cleveland goalie by this time was a nervous wreck.

MARINO WINNER OVER YOUNG

Tony Marino, of McKeesport, received the unanimous decision over Franklin Young, Detroit Negro, in the main bout of 10 rounds at the Palisades Club, McKeesport, last night. Marino came from behind after Young got away to a fine lead.

Matty Oldach, of Erie, knocked out Tony Kasner, Grand Rapids, in the second round of the scheduled six-round semi-final.

In the second bout of six rounds, Angelo Vergione, Braddock, received the unanimous decision over Charles Blozovich. Patsy Hennigan, Clairton, knocked out Sammy Burns, Pittsburgh, in the second round of the scheduled six-round opener.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE PERFECT HUSBAND—The classical feat of A. B. Green, the perfect Irish husband, is one of the most bizarre bits of heroism ever featured in the "Believe It or Not" series. The Paris Fair of 1900 attracted an unusual number of visitors who vied with each other in the adoption of the most curious means of travel to the metropolis of France. Among them was A. B. Green, who at first trundled the baby carriage containing his baby all the way from Dublin to Paris, including the passage over the channel. After the great reception he received at the hands of the delighted Parisians, he decided to extend his curious trip to embrace the rest of the world. It is figured that he covered in excess of 16,000 miles, pushing in front of him the identical baby carriage which so delighted the visitors of the fair. A RECORD IN SCHOLARSHIP—Miss Margaret Jeanne Myers, New York City, was graduated from high school last June and was awarded a special gold medal for general excellence during her entire school career. For 12 years she regularly led her class in scholarship and was graduated at the head of it. The school Miss Myers attended is the Academy of Our Lady of Lourdes.

TOMORROW: TOMBSTONE WELCOMES YOU.

ST. VINCENT'S CARD SET

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 12—Davis and Elkins College eleven will be the Thanksgiving Day attraction at Latrobe High School field next fall, the St. Vincent schedule for the 1932 football season shows.

St. Vincent played D. & E. in its initial games last season and held its much heavier and more experienced opponents to a 14-0 score.

The Bearcats have arranged seven football games, four of them at home. The Crowemen open their schedule October 1 with Westinghouse Tech at home. Only one new team appears on the card, Grove City College, which will be met Armistice Day at St. Vincent Field.

The Davis-Elkins game marks the first time in history that St. Vincent has ever played on Thanksgiving Day. The complete schedule follows:

October 1—Westinghouse Tech at home.
October 8—Mt. St. Mary's at Emmitsburg, Md.
October 14—Geneva, at Beaver Falls (night game).
October 21—St. Francis College at Johnstown (night game.)
October 29—Thiel, at home.
November 5—Pending.
November 11 (Armistice Day)—Grove City, at home.
November 19—Open.
November 24 (Thanksgiving)—Davis-Elkins, at Latrobe.

Peterson, Ribas To Resume Match

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—(AP.)—Charles Peterson, of St. Louis, and Isidro Ribas, of Spain, will resume their world fancy shot billiards title match here Monday.

Peterson gained a 13-point edge in the opening blocks played at St. Louis early this week. The third stand will be played at Washington, D. C., February 19-20; the fourth in New York, February 22-24, and the final at Havana, Cuba, March 2-4.

Campbell May Delay Auto Speed Trials

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Ruffled beach conditions last night appeared likely to delay Sir Malcolm Campbell's assault upon his own world automobile speed of 245 miles per hour, planned for Monday.

The hard-packed sandy beach has been slightly rough for several days and unless it improves by Monday the English sportsman will be compelled to delay his trials until conditions become favorable.

Campbell was expected here late last night.

SCHOOL SWIM LEAGUE OPENS

Competition gets under way in the local high school swimming league today. In Section I, Gladstone appears at Schenley, Westinghouse at Peabody and Baxter at Allderdice. In Section II, Knox swims at South Carrick at Langley and Fifth Avenue at South Hills. The Section III meets are: Latimer at Oliver, Perry at Connelley and Herron Hill at Allegheny.

RICE, BEACH FINALISTS

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Grantland Rice, defending champion, and Rex Beach, the novelist, will battle it out today over a 36-hole route to decide the Artists' and Writers' Golf Association title. Rice beat D. Roberts, 7 and 6, in the semi-final round, with an 83 yesterday, while Beach triumphed over L. B. Myers, 1 up, with a card of 81.

REDS SIGN SHELVIN

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 12.—(INS.)—James Shelvin, star third baseman with Albany last year, signed a contract yesterday with the Cincinnati Reds, in the National League. Shelvin hit .335 last year and is the son of Jim Shelvin, Cincinnati boxing promoter and political leader.

GELBERT SEEKS MORE MONEY

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—A local newspaper says Charley Gelbert, shortstop of the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals, is holding out for more money this year. His two-year contract expired at the end of last season and Gelbert is reported to be dissatisfied with a slight increase provided in a new one.

At his home in Fayetteville, Pa., Gelbert did not deny he was a "holdout," but declined to comment on the situation. He said that any information would have to come from the Cardinals' office.

JOHNSON ILL

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Word came to the New York Yankees office yesterday that Henry Johnson, star pitcher, had suffered an attack of appendicitis at Hot Springs, Ark., where he had been indulging in some preliminary training and had been forced to return to his home at Bradenton, Fla.

The Yankee headquarters has received signed contracts from George Pipgras, Gordon Rhodes and another pitcher, Hormidas Aube, who was with Albany most of last season.

FERRELL DISSATISFIED

GREENSBORO, N. C., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Rick Ferrell, catcher of the St. Louis Browns, has revealed he has returned his contract to the Browns unsigned.

Ferrell called the contract "very unsatisfactory," but the terms were not disclosed. He has been catching for the Browns for three years.

DAVIES ON AIR

Charles B. (Chick) Davies, coach of Duquesne University basketball coach, will be a guest speaker on the Sun-Tele Boys' Club tomorrow morning in the studios of WCAE. On February 20, Eddie Baker, who starred for the Panther eleven and who is a senior in the dental school, will be the speaker at the radio ceremonies.

Harrison, Okeson To Confer on Grid Arbiters

W. D. Harrison, director of athletics at Pitt, will meet with Walter Okeson, eastern commissioner for the selection of football officials, at Lehigh University Wednesday of next week, to confer upon officials for next year. With them on the committee are George B. Thurston, director of athletics at Syracuse University, and Maj. Phil Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at West Point.

Next Thursday Okeson will accompany Harrison, who is commissioner of officials for this district, to Pittsburgh, where the two will confer with the athletic heads of Grove City, Allegheny, Thiel, Waynesburg, Bethany and Westminster. At this latter meeting a list of officials for the football season will be drawn up.

MRS. L. RILEY ELIMINATED

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Bea Gottlieb, of New York, played sparkling golf yesterday to eliminate Mrs. L. G. Riley, Pittsburgh, 6 and 5, in their semi-final match of the Miami women's golf championship.

Mrs. Joseph Bydolek, Buffalo, likewise a'vanced to the final by defeating Mrs. Lillian Zech, Chicago, favored contender, 2 and 1, in a match marked by the latter's inability to control her long and short game.

The cards of the Riley match:

DUKES PRIMED FOR ADRIAN TOMORROW

GAMES TONIGHT

Pitt at Georgetown.
W. Va. Wesleyan at Wash-Jeff.
Thiel at Grove City.
D. & E. at Clarksburg Clothiers.
John Carroll at Westminster.
California T. at Edinboro T.
Rio Grande at Morris-Harvey.
Adrian at West Liberty.

Doc Carlson and his Pitt Golden Cats are in Washington, D. C., today, and tonight they invade the home court of Georgetown University in what is anticipated as a great game. The Panthers are favored to cop, but not without earning their victory, for Georgetown has one of the finest basketball teams in its history. Tomorrow afternoon the Panthers play Navy at Annapolis.

Washington and Jefferson is host to West Virginia Wesleyan tonight, while Davis and Elkins travels to Clarksburg for a contest with an Independent club of that city.

Thiel and Grove City College engage in what may turn out to be a torrid affair at Bob Thorn's gym, while John Carroll, of Cleveland, is expected to take it on the chin at the hands of the Towering Titans of Westminster.

California's tutors meet Edinboro Teachers, and Rio Grande plays at Morris-Harvey in other contests tonight.

DUKES PLAY ADRIAN

This afternoon Chick Davies' Duquesne University basketeers will get their only workout prior to their clash with Adrian College tomorrow night in the Duke Gymnasium.

Coach Davies says his Dukes are just in the right spot to be knocked off by the speedy Michigan team if they are not careful. And that is one of the reasons why the Red and Blue cagers had their practice sessions cut—they needed the rest. With a layoff both Wednesday and yesterday afternoon, following the Geneva game, the Duquesne coach figures his men will be back in shape again.

Marty Reiter is still to be kept on the spectator list so far as present indications are concerned. The spirited little guard is doing well, however.

Adrian College is playing all of its 21 games on the road this season, a fact which will bring them up against the Dukes well inured to their routine. Last season they won 16 and lost only four games, taking the Michigan-Ontario Conference championship.

PITT, DELAWARE MEET

The Pitt swimming team, undefeated in its last eight starts, will be out for its ninth straight win tonight when it meets the University of Delaware team in the Keystone Athletic Club pool.

The Delaware swimmers meet Carnegie Tech in a dual meet in the Tech pool tomorrow afternoon, with the Tech Plebes opposing the Langley High School team in conjunction with this affair, slated for 3 o'clock.

The Tech boxers go to New Haven to oppose the Yale team tomorrow afternoon, while the Pitt boxers will meet the Temple University team in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion tomorrow evening.

The Pitt and Tech track teams will compete in the fourth annual West Virginia University carnival at Morgantown, W. Va., tomorrow afternoon.

DAY WALLOPS FABER, 5-4

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Winfield Day, Chicago schoolboy golfer, administered a 5-and-4 trouncing to H. W. Faber, Miami, yesterday, to win his first match in the Miami Biltmore Valentine's Day invitational golf tournament. Day, medalist in the tourney, carded a 39-34—73, two over par.

Howard Tryon, Detroit amateur, advanced to the quarter finals as he won, 2 and 1, from Fred Gennette, Rochester, N. Y.

Lee Chase, Buffalo, N. Y., veteran, defeated H. F. Bowbeer, Chicago, 6 and 5. Gus Novotny, LaGrange, Ill., won 6 and 5, from H. B. Money, Wilmington, Del.

Dan Soccoli, New Britain, Conn., won, 5 and 3, from Jack Vilas, Sr., Chicago.

John Brown, Portland, Me., defeated E. G. Livesay, Chicago, 4 and 2.

Slugging Catcher To Join Pirates

Catcher Floyd L. McEwan, who has been signed by Tulsa, a club owned and operated by the Pittsburgh Pirates, will be taken to the Paso Robles training camp by the Corsairs, it was announced today.

McEwan, who boasts a batting average of .412 with the sandlotters in Selmer, Tenn., is somewhat of a home run slugger, clouting 30 in 1931. He hit three in an exhibition game against Nashville last season. He is 22 years of age, stands 6 feet 1 inch and weighs 185. He is a left-handed batter.

He was recommended by Ervin Brame, pitcher of the Pirates. McEwan's home is in Mississippi.

CITY LEAGUE LEADERS FAVORED TO COP

CORAOPOLIS, LEETSDALE IN BIG BATTLE

By JULIUS LEVIN

The leaders in the two sections of the City League favored to win their contests today, interest in scholastic basketball will be centered on the outcome of several important battles in the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League.

Schenley is not expected to have much trouble defeating Peabody on the latter's floor, while Connelley Trade should keep apace the Bellefielders by taking over Westinghouse. Fifth goes to South in the other Section I fray.

LEADERS AT LANGLEY

In Section II Allegheny will be striving for its ninth successive league victory at the expense of Langley at Langley. Perry plays at Oliver and Carrick at South Hills in the other Section II games.

The headline attraction in the W. P. I. A. L. tonight is scheduled at Leetsdale where the Section II leaders will defend their hold on first place by engaging the Coraopolis passers. Leetsdale scored a 21-19 victory over Coraopolis earlier in the season and if the last-named quintet can turn the tables today it will move into a deadlock for the top position.

A victory for Leetsdale will clinch the Section II crown for that team.

Braddock will be given an opportunity to break a tie for first place in Section VIII by engaging Turtle Creek Union tonight. Deadlocked with Scott High with three victories and one defeat, Ham Hudson's team can take the lead with a victory over Turtle Creek, as Scott is not scheduled for league competition.

BOX FIVE IN TEST

McKees Rocks' entire hopes for the Section IX title rest on the outcome of its battle with Carnegie. The Rocks passers must win this game to remain at the heels of the Mt. Lebanon quintet, which is leading the section with nine victories out of 10 games. Mt. Lebanon plays Stowe.

Uniontown invades Latrobe for the express purpose of clinching the championship of Section X. Boasting seven successive victories, Coach Everhart's passers can sew up the championship by defeating the second-placers, who have dropped two out of seven games.

Bellevernon has an opportunity to tie Sewickley Township for the lead in Section XII. Sewickley Township is not scheduled for action tonight, and if Bellevernon takes the measure of Dunbar it will tie the leaders.

N. Y. U. Captures Metro Track Title

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Winning three first places, two seconds and almost innumerable thirds and fourths, New York University's well-balanced track squad won its third straight Metropolitan A. A. U. track and field championship last night after a thrilling battle with New York Athletic Club.

By winning the concluding event on the night's program, the 3,000-meter medley relay, the Violets barely managed to nose out a victory with 43½ points to N. Y. A. C.'s 40½. The Millrose A. A. took third place with 24 points, and Manhattan College was fourth with 10.

BERRY SIGNS AGAIN

GROVE CITY, Pa., Feb. 12.—Charley Berry, former all-America end at Lafayette College and head football coach at Grove City College for the past four years, has signed a contract to return as end mentor here. Berry has been spending a few days here prior to leaving for the spring training camp of the Boston Red Sox at Savannah, Ga.

CRICKET TEST OPENS

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—South Africa and Australia started their fifth and final test cricket match today in sensational fashion with the Springboks going out in their first innings for only 36 runs and Australia's wickets falling for only 153.

VANDERPOOL COPS

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—With a switch in riders from Tommy Malley to Sonny Workman, Vanderpool hit its winning stride again yesterday and won the Thomas A. Edison Handicap of six furlongs at Hialeah Park.

Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, who has been all but matched for bouts here time after time, but just failed to come in, makes his Pittsburgh debut tonight against Joey Thomas, of the North Side and formerly of Chicago, in the 10-round main bout in Eddie Kapphan's Arena in Addison street off Center avenue.

Joey Thomas

Paul is one of the ranking featherweights of the land. His opponent is well known to the local fans for his work against Johnny Datto, Charley Baxter and others. A veteran, Thomas is a cagy performer who is apt to beat the best of them. He returned several months ago from a trip to Australia during which he scored victories over the island champions in 15-round battles.

Jackie Wilson, of the East End, boxes Johnny Warner, of Clairton, in the semi-final, and Mickey Solomen, of New Castle, engages Jimmy Moore, local middleweight, and Jimmy Gilligan boxes Petey Jahn in the preliminaries. The first bout is set for 8:30 o'clock.

Joey Spiegel will take the place of Davy Grove, who is ill, against Roger Brooks, of Cleveland, in the semi-final to the Guy Salerno-Dick Evans bout at the Moose Temple next Wednesday night. Bobby Stewart will meet U. S. Carpentier and Ray Winbush opposes a substitute for Jimmy Vaughn in the prelims.

Tony Marino, McKeesport flyweight, who defeated Franklin Young in McKeesport last night, will box Mickey Farr, of Cleveland, brother of Johnny Farr, in the eight-round semi-final to the Tiger Joe West-Paul Pirrone third meeting in Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, and Bobby Stewart, local Negro lightweight, are in the opener.

DAY MAY GET AMOS' BERTH AT W. & J.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 12.—Speculation is rife here as to the probable successor to William E. Amos, who resigned yesterday as varsity football coach at Washington and Jefferson College and also as to the future gridiron policy of the school.

Prominent alumni are known to be insisting that Leroy P. (Hank) Day, of Washington High School, a protege of Bob Fowell, who has had brilliant success at Washington High School, is the logical man for the place.

The question, however, is whether or not W. & J. can make an offer sufficiently attractive to entice Hank from his berth at Washington High School. It is known that the wily mentor is very well satisfied with his position there.

Dr. Hutchison, president of W. & J., insisted again today that sessions of the athletic council and the board of trustees brought no developments which could be reported at this time, that the coaching situation and athletic matters were discussed by both groups is certain. He insists, however, they were only discussions.

W. & J. MATMEN ARE BLANKED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 12.—Washington & Jefferson College grapplers showed unexpected strength in several classes, but otherwise proved easy prey to Oklahoma A. & M. College wrestlers as the national intercollegiate champions of the past four years defeated the Presidents, 38 to 0, here last night.

The match inaugurated wrestling as an intercollegiate sport at W. & J.

The Cowboys won seven of the eight matches by a fall, Demas, W. & J. grid star, forcing McGuirk, Oklahoma ace, to triumph via time advantage in 9 minutes 23 seconds. The summary:

118-pound class—[illegible], Oklahoma, won over [illegible], W. & J., by fall, [illegible].
126-pound class—Capt. Pearce, Oklahoma, won over [illegible], W. & J., by fall, 5:37.

165-pound class—Neil, Temple, defeated Wilson, West Virginia, by a decision in three rounds.
175-pound class—Capt. Hawkins, West Virginia, defeated [illegible], Temple, by a decision in three rounds.

TOOMER TOPS SPEER, 1 UP

ORMOND, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Favorites continued their advance toward the Ormond Beach golf championship yesterday with comparatively easy victories over the opponents in the quarter-final round.

Jack Toomer, Jacksonville, the medalist, was the only player to have a difficult battle. He was pressed to win a 1-up decision over T. Talbo Speer, Baltimore.

S. R. Stuart, Glen Falls, N. Y., eliminated Jack Dunn, Buffalo, 4 and 3, and J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., beat R. C. Garretson, Ashland, O., 3 and 2. E. W. Van Houten, Suffern, N. J., defeated S. L. McKay, Sarnia, Ontario, 7 and 6.

Toomer meets Stuart in the semi-finals today, and Ryerson will be pitted against Van Houten.

MISS HADFIELD FINALIST

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Frances Hadfield, women's golf champion of Wisconsin, yesterday defeated Mrs. Harold A. Hyde, of Clearwater, the defending champion, 6 and 5, in the semi-finals of the annual women's invitation tournament.

Miss Hadfield and Mrs. Al Nelson, of Philadelphia, will meet this morning for the championship. Mrs. Nelson won her semi-finals match from Mrs. George Pulver, of Tarpon Springs, 7 and 6.

Fight Results

At McKeesport—Tony Marino defeated Franklin Young, 10 rounds; Matty [illegible] knocked out Tony Kasser, 2 rounds; Angelo Vergione defeated Charles [illegible], 6 rounds; Patsy Hennigan knocked out Sammy Burns, [illegible] rounds.

At Kansas City—Tony Herrera defeated Denver Mickey Cohen, 12 rounds; Tommy [illegible] defeated Pee Wee Wilson, 10 rounds; Steve Ketchel knocked out Jackie Townsend, 1 round.

DEMPSEY STOPS CHRISTNER

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey added another knockout to his barnstorming string here last night over the old Akron rubber puddler, Meyer (K. O.) Christner, who took the count in the closing minutes of the third round of a scheduled four-round bout.

A pair of left hooks to the chin tumbled Christner to the canvas for the fourth time, and he was attempting to get his wobbling legs under him again when the count cut him down for good.

There was a hearty sprinkling of "boos" from the crowd of nearly 10,000 persons during the first round, when the warriors resorted to clinching. At the end, however, the Manassa Mauler was given a great ovation.

DEMPSEY'S EYE CUT

A left to the chin knocked Christner down for nine in the first, and a pair of right crosses to the jaw sent him to the canvas for two more nine counts early in the third. But the Akron fighter won the second, shaking Dempsey twice with hefty rights.

Dempsey looked tired and old at the end of the second, but he was back with plenty of life in the third to wind up the bout with old-time eclat.

Jack's bad left eye, cut in a fight at Milwaukee Monday night, gave him considerable trouble as Christner worked on it. Blood trickled from the wound shortly after the action started, but apparently did not greatly hamper Dempsey.

The receipts were $27,973, of which Dempsey received 50 per cent after a 6 per cent reduction by the boxing commission. Dempsey weighed 195 pounds and Christner 204.

KNOCKOUTS IN PRELIMS

Pitted against a taller opponent, Adolph Heuser, of Germany, resorted to his speed and short, but powerful, punches to carry him to victory in five rounds over George Manley, of Denver, in a light-heavyweight match, carded as the semi-final. Manley was badly battered for four rounds, and after going down for a count of nine in the fifth his manager tossed in the towel.

Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, flattened Eddie (Kid) Wolf, of Memphis, with four punches in 54 seconds of the opening round of another scheduled eight-rounder.

Warner to Sign Five-Year Contract

PALO ALTO, Cal., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—An ambition to develop in the next five years "the strongest team that Stanford has ever had" was revealed by Glenn S. (Pop) Warner today, following the announcement he will accept a five-year renewal appointment as football coach at Stanford University.

Warner also announced he plans a new double-spinner attack for the Stanford football offense next fall. Warner said it provides for two spinning fullbacks instead of one, the quarterback acting with the regular fullback.

Richard W. Barrett, chairman of the Stanford board of athletic control, indicated that Warner's annual salary will be approximately $15,000.

OLYMPIC SLED RACES TO BE RUN SUNDAY

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Another postponement of the scheduled four-man Olympic bobsled races until Sunday was necessitated today by the continuation of unseasonable warm weather at this resort.

All four heats of the bobsled races, feature of the third winter Olympics, will be run Sunday, within the 24-hour period of grace allowed under Olympic rules. Nevertheless, the final ceremony and awarding of prizes will take place tomorrow as scheduled, and the bobsled and possibly other awards will be made privately later.

Snow was hauled today to the 60-meter ski run outside the village in preparation for the ski jumping contest this afternoon. This will be the second day jumpers have competed on a slushy slide.

The 50-kilometer ski race scheduled for tomorrow morning also was postponed, and may be taken from the program altogether.

Yesterday 62 skiers went down the slushy 60-meter slide and the Olympic hill below and one of them, the lithe Hans Vinjarengen, of Norway, made a hill record of 204 feet on his second try. The largest of all the Olympic events, more than 15,000, sat on wet pine benches or stood watching the jumpers, the cold rain pelting down on the spectators' upturned faces.

Fifteen of those who competed under yesterday's moist and dripping conditions are scheduled to try for the jumping honors today. Yesterday's was a combined event, in which both the 18-kilometer race of Tuesday and the form and distance of jumping counted.

The only other event on today's program is the pairs figure skating event, in the Arena tonight. Seven pairs, representing four nations, are entered.

Yesterday's results:

Combined ski run and ski jump—Won by [illegible], Norway; second, Ole Stenen, Norway; third, Hans Vinjarengen, Norway; fourth, Sverre Kolterud, Norway; fifth, Sven Eriksson, Sweden; sixth, Anton [illegible], Czechoslovakia.

Team score—(Unofficial compilation on 10-5-4-3-2-1 basis) United States, 76; Norway, 48; Canada, 36; Sweden, 24; Austria, 15; Finland, 10; Switzerland, 5; Germany, 4; Rumania, 3; Italy, 1; Belgium, 1; Czechoslovakia, 1.

Wisconsin Sports Stars Ineligible

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Ward Stout, Milwaukee, regular tackle of the University of Wisconsin football team, will be ineligible for competition next fall because of scholastic difficulties.

Virtually the entire veteran backfield was placed in a precarious position as the result of semester examinations. Clair Strain, of Lamar, Col., a fullback, has been placed on probation for the present semester, as have Dick Hayworth, Star, Idaho, regular end; Joe Linfor, Des Moines, Ia., halfback, and Mickey McGuire, Honolulu, halfback.

Linfor and McGuire were lost to the 1932 baseball team, as were Milto Bocek and Carl Vaicek. McGuire and Linfor were pitchers and Bocek was a prospective center fielder.

BELLEFONTE VICTOR

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 12.—The Bellefonte Academy five added another to its long string of victories by defeating a Juniata independent team in the Armory last night, 56-16.

The St. Wendelin quintet, of the Catholic Lyceum League, is open for games with light first class teams. Call Hemlock 1665, or write Jerry Barthelemy, 1407 Carson street.

DREYFUSSIANS

Stories They Tell of the Late Barney Dreyfuss

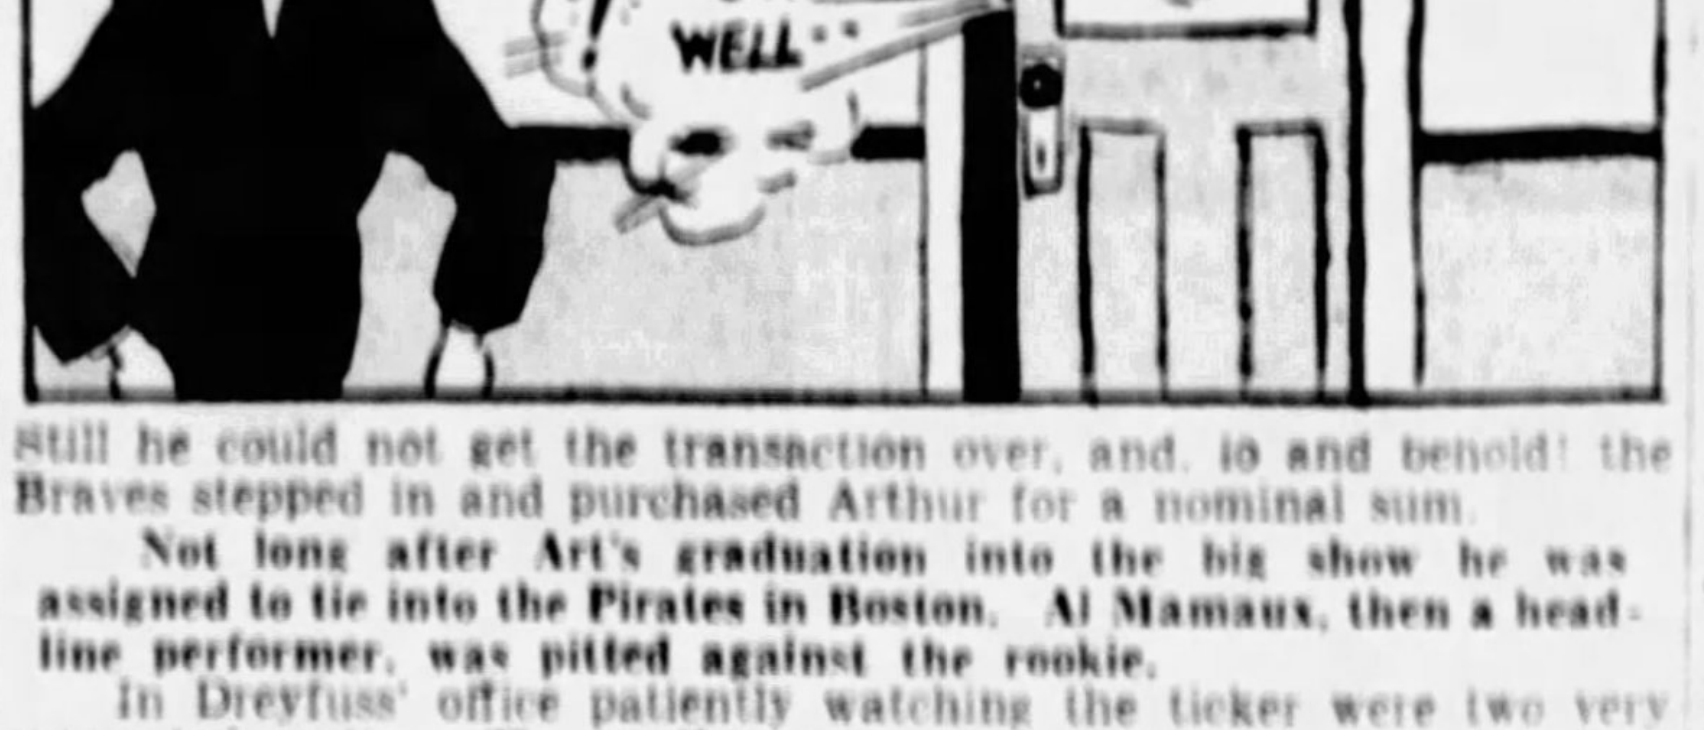
By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Charles (Chick) Fraser, prominent National League pitcher many years ago, who later toured the country in quest of young Pirates, owns a rare selection of tales concerning the late Barney Dreyfuss. To reminisce with Fraser on baseball is a treat, for Chick possesses a keen wit and a subtle strain that tends to emphasize his humor. Coincidental to this yarn, it is noted that Fraser has just signed to scout for Baltimore.

Chick was one of the first of the baseball sleuths to put the stamp of approval on Artie Nehf, a lefthand pitcher who was destined to become a big star. Nehf turned out to be a real nemesis to the Buccos and each time he would trim the Pittsburgh club, Owner Dreyfuss and Fraser felt a queer sensation.

Something like 16 years ago, Chick was exploring waste lands of baseball when his attention was called to the lefthander mentioned. Not yet in his manhood years, Art was starring for Terre Haute as Fraser feasted his eyes on the lad. Chick at once made inquiries about him and at the same time notified the home office to put in a bid for the pitcher. Something failed to click at headquarters and Chick repeated the admonition.

The Pittsburgh scout grew persistent in his demand that the Pirates grab Nehf before some other club beat them to the punch.



Still he could not get the transaction over, and, lo and behold! the Braves stepped in and purchased Arthur for a nominal sum.

Not long after Art's graduation into the big show he was assigned to tie into the Pirates in Boston. Al Mamaux, then a headline performer, was pitted against the rookie.

In Dreyfuss' office patiently watching the ticker were two very interested parties. The gentlemen were none other than B. Dreyfuss and C. Fraser. When the batteries were announced, the two perked up in their eagerness. Inning after inning the fight rolled on in a scoreless manner. Eventually the Braves scored two runs, and Nehf carried on to a shutout success.

As the fellow said, the silence was terrific in the Pirate office as the last cipher was added to the Pirate string. But Barney broke it forcibly. Suddenly turning on Chick he shouted:

"Why didn't you buy that fellow?"

"Why didn't I?" roared the furious Fraser. "I guess I didn't try to!"

"Oh, well," mused Barney as he cooled down. "We can't get them all."

(Follow this interesting series of reminiscences of the late Barney Dreyfuss daily in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

DAVE BANKS . . . IN GAME AGAINST BROOKLYN TONIGHT

PRO PASSERS CLASH HERE

Tonight's the night for the basketball fans of the Pittsburgh district, with the long-awaited clash of the two all-star professional teams, the Cleveland Rosenblum-Celtics and the Brooklyn Americans, carded for Motor Square Garden.

A large crowd is indicated by the interest evinced and the reservations made for seats. J. J. Freund, Jr., veteran local basketball man, is sponsoring the contest.

The lineup of the Cleveland team, former world champions, includes such notables as Davy Banks, Barry, Dehnert, Lapchick, Hickey and Cunningham, while the Brooklyn team is built around Benny Bergman, Honey Russell, Lou Spindell and Kennedy.

A preliminary between two 10-year-old midget teams, the Trinity Cardinals and the Trinity Hawks, will get under way at 8 o'clock.

The professional game will be broadcast through Station WWSW.

Tomorrow afternoon, the Rosies will appear in an exhibition for high and college players in the Duquesne University gymnasium, and in the evening they will take on an all-star team in a benefit game in the Scott High School gymnasium, North Braddock.

Tonight's probable lineup:

Rosies		Brooklyn
Barry	F	Spindell
Banks	F	Bergman
Lapchick	C	[illegible]
Hickey	G	Russell
Dehnert	G	Kennedy

ROSIES TOP UNIONTOWN

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 12.—With the basketball squads and coaches of more than 20 district high schools watching every play, the Cleveland Rosenblum Celtics defeated the Uniontown quint, 44 to 32, in a torrid battle here last night. Although the Celtics had things their own way for the greater part of the game, an enthusiastic throng greeted their every effort. It was the first time this season a capacity audience filled the local hall.

MUSHBALLERS TO MEET

The regular business meeting of the Mystery Mushball team, of Lawrenceville, will be held Sunday at 1 p. m. at 4121 Foster street. All players are requested to attend.

HERRERA WINS OVER COHEN

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Tony Herrera, Chicago junior-welterweight, piled up an early lead by means of a long left jab to win the decision over Mickey Cohen, of Denver, in a 12-round fight here last night, although Mickey rallied to outslug the rangy Mexican in the last four rounds. Herrera weighed 137½, Cohen 138.

It was the Denver boxer's first defeat in more than half a dozen fights in Kansas City. Herrera's left hand played a tattoo on Cohen's face for eight rounds.

Cohen finally solved his opponent's style and early in the eighth round slowed the Chicago Mexican down with a two-fisted rally that brought yells from the crowd.

The Cohen rally, however, came too late. There were no knockdowns.

FANS TO DECIDE ON SCOTTIES

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Feb. 12.—Baseball fans of this town will hold a meeting here tonight to decide what Scottdale will do with its Middle Atlantic League franchise.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who have supported the Scottdale club as one of their baseball farms, have turned the franchise back to the local sponsors. The Cardinals reserve the right to dispose of all players on the active list.

Failure of the league authorities to arrange an equal number of games at home and abroad as well as flat guarantees led to the withdrawal of the St. Louis support.

Pittsburgh Dogs Win in New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—R. F. Maloney, Pittsburgh dog fancier, carried off six awards with his pointers in the annual Westminster Kennel Club show yesterday. The show continues today and tomorrow. Maloney's winners follow:

Novice dogs—First, Herewithem [illegible]. American bred dogs—First, Herewithem [illegible]. Novice bitches—Herewithem [illegible]. American bred bitches—Herewithem [illegible]. [illegible] second, Herewithem [illegible]. Open and winners bitches, reserve, Herewithem [illegible].

NAVY NINE BOOKED

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Marking a further resumption of athletic relations between the two schools, Columbia University will play the Naval Academy at baseball Friday, May 6. It is the first game between them in [illegible] years. Navy also appears on Columbia's 1932 football schedule for the first time in many years.

JOE FLORES SOLD

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Joe Flores, the Best 3-year-old colt whose performances so far have marked him as one of the early favorites in the $100,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, was sold yesterday by Jack Atkins' Pasadena Stable to F. H. Lee at an unannounced price.

BASEBALL MEETING

The Greater Pittsburgh Baseball League will hold its first organization meeting Sunday at the Roosevelt Hotel. The session is called for 2:30 p. m. and all teams in this class are invited to attend.

FREEMAN COPS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—(AP.)—A body slam administered by Herb Freeman, 214, New York, finished George Hagen, 212, Marine champ, in 42 minutes of their wrestling match here last night.

THREE SOCCER GAMES CARDED TOMORROW

By TOM BIRKS

Three soccer games will be served for local fans tomorrow afternoon. One Central League battle, featuring Clan Douglas and the Switch eleven, at Westinghouse High School Field; Gladden at Houston in the Panhandle loop, and an exhibition game, with Glenn A. C. and Ambridge at the Bridge Works grounds, are scheduled.

Only one game is expected to attract the crowds, and that is the Douglas-Switch affair, which carries with it the championship of the Central loop, provided Switch does not lose. A win or a tie verdict will give the Swissvalers their first championship after many years of competition.

Of course, Douglas will shoot the works in this game to prove the contention in clan circles that the black-and-white-clad aggregation is the best team in the Central loop.

Referee Pete McArdle will have to keep a tight rein on the activities of the players tomorrow afternoon. There is much feeling on tap, and the players are apt to forget they are in a soccer game.

On past form, Switch should win, but Douglas may upset the dope.

Sunday finds the big Morry-Morgan game set for disposal. This is a replay, and the winner meets Union Switch in the final game for the West Penn Cup. The game will be played at South Park and starts at 2:30 p. m.

JACKETS TRIP INDIANS, 7-2

When Joe Matte was sent to the penalty box, just before the close of the one-sided battle, Doraty converted a pass from Williams into a rather meaningless and futile Cleveland goal.

Sonny Boy Baxter, by giving another brilliant display of goal guarding, robbed the Indians of apparently certain goals just as often as Referee Traub took tallies away from the locals. Sonny Boy, incidentally, is Cleveland's reserve goalie, loaned to the Reidmen until Abbie Cox recovers from an injury.

Returning to the lineup after spending some three weeks on the bench, Eddie Rodden gave such a great display of skill at center that local fans completely forgot the departure of Earl Miller. Judging from last night's play, Eddie, when he wishes, can be as good as any center in the circuit. Romnes and Barton, to whom Rodden fed passes, were the boys who suffered most from Traub's offside whistling.

Norman Locking, ill for the last two days with a heavy cold, quit a sick bed to give a courageous exhibition at left wing.

Fog shrouded the ice in the late stages of the battle, and the game was held up repeatedly while banks of mist were fanned from the playing surface. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—7.		Cleveland—2.
Baxter	G	Woods
Fraser	D	Brophy
Heise	D	Daley
Fields	C	Gray
Gregg	W	Doraty
Proudfoot	W	Williams

Pittsburgh spares—Romnes, Barton, Rodden, Dunning, Locking, Matte and Arbour.

Cleveland spares—Bellemer, Spring, Ralston, Halliday, Briden and Saunders.

ENGINEERING NETS $2.13 IN 1931

Share Earnings Fall Short Of $3 Dividend Disbursed; Less Preferred Stock Out

Net earnings of United Engineering and Foundry Company for the year ended December 31, 1931, after all expenses, royalties, depreciation and federal taxes, amounted to $953,708, equal after preferred dividends, to $2.13 per share on 416,118 shares of common stock. This compared with net of $2,114,359, or $4.86 a common share after preferred dividends in 1930.

Despite the fact that net earnings did not equal dividends paid during the year—$3 per share was paid on the common—United Engineering ended 1931 in a stronger cash position than it did in 1930. Cash and marketable securities (the latter at cost but consisting principally of government securities) amounted to $3,085,300 on December 31, 1931, compared with $2,707,893 on December 31, 1930.

RATIO 20 TO 1

The cash and security account at the end of last year was slightly less than half the total current assets of $6,437,903, which compared with the company's report of $320,687 current liabilities, or a ratio of 20 to 1. Total current assets of $8,793,949 compared with current liabilities of $409,148 at the end of 1930. The inventories of $1,380,591 represent the lower of cost or market, and compared with $2,130,712 a year earlier.

A new asset item is treasury stock shown at a cost of $272,862. This is understood to indicate that, in addition to retiring a further portion of its preferred stock, an investment was made in some of the company's own common stock. Preferred stock of $100 par value retired during 1931 amounted to 3,064 shares, leaving 9,754 shares outstanding at the end of the year.

SURPLUS ADJUSTMENT

Adjustments in connection with the account for 1931 brought about an additional increase of $704,040, or $1.69 a common share, in the surplus item before dividends, and after payment of dividends there was an increase in total surplus from $4,083,449 to $4,410,153. These adjustments reflect to some extent in the property account so that plants and property, less depreciation, increased from $3,548,698 at the end of 1930 to $4,834,811 at the end of 1931.

The company sets up reserves for allowances and contingencies and this account at the end of 1931 was $379,258. Total reserves were $546,547. The common stock has a stated value of $5,409,534 and total assets in the balance sheet amounted to $12,041,763.

Lincoln Knew Defeat; So Did Edgar Wallace

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

YOU ARE NOT the only person beset with difficulties. Lincoln, coming to be recognized with the passing of the years as the greatest of all Americans, knew not only difficulties, but defeat after defeat—a greater succession of defeats than afflicts most humans.

At 23 he was defeated as a candidate for the Illinois Legislature. Before he was 30 he was a candidate for speaker of the House in Illinois and was defeated. Two years later he was defeated a second time. At 34 he was a candidate for Congress and was defeated. At 35 he was defeated as a presidential elector. At 40 he failed to become Commissioner of the General Land Office. At 43 he was again defeated as a candidate for presidential elector.

At 46 he ran for the United States Senate and was defeated. At 47 he was candidate for nomination for the vice presidency and was defeated. At 49 he was defeated a second time as candidate for the Senate. At 50 he had known little but defeat.

Also he had more than an average share of domestic troubles.

Most of us need today something of Lincoln's determination, something of Lincoln's dogged perseverance, something of Lincoln's faith in the ultimate triumph of sincere, sustained, honorable effort.

Let's ponder Lincoln's disheartening defeats during the greater part of his life, ponder his final triumph—and inconquerably resolve to wrestle with and overthrow our troubles.

EDGAR WALLACE, then my lovable chief, walked up to my desk one evening, the indispensable cigaret holder tilted at a rakish angle, his Kaiser Wilhelm mustache groomed to a hair, his raiment a credit to Beau Brummel, and confided:

"I have a little poker game on tonight. Do you think you could write my article for tomorrow morning's editorial page?"

Wallace vowed up to the last that he was lazy, notwithstanding that he wrote more than a dozen ordinary men. He assuredly was lazy in those days, 30 years ago, in Johannesburg, South Africa.

He was a sport. His brilliancy was matched only by his indifference to debts. A barber attended him every day in his private office, but whenever he presented a bill, Wallace with lordly air brushed it aside, telling the barber to keep it until it was worth paying.

Finally, he disappeared from the city and the country, unannounced.

HE DROPPED ENTIRELY out of sight. The next time I saw him—purely by chance—was in London. He was down at the heels. His appearance was painful. He quickly slunk away.

The world knows what fame and fortune Edgar Wallace ultimately attained. Defeated, subjected to hardship, he did not stay defeated. He got a new grip on himself, a new grip on life. From the depths of failure he rose to the heights of achievement and affluence.

How many of us today are tempted to regard ourselves as failures, tempted to submit to defeat, tempted to lose faith in our ability to stage a comeback? Why not take heart from this experience of Edgar Wallace?

RESPONSIBLE FINANCIAL circles are greatly encouraged over the prospect of prompt passage of "liberalization" of Federal Reserve rediscounting facilities and other immediate desired changes. This was what the stock market so vigorously reflected yesterday.

MARKET PRICES NOT ACCURATE BAROMETER

Stock Fluctuations Show Public Pessimism Rather Than Future of Business

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Feb. 12.—The first of the year stock market rally was much more short lived this year than the recoveries in 1930 and 1931.

Present day fluctuations are more an index of the degree of public pessimism rather than an accurate barometer of what is coming in the business world.

Incidentally it means that the hard-boiled fellows who express their opinions through purchases and sales at the market place have turned thumbs down on the administration reconstruction and tax program.

Mr. Rukeyser

The reconstruction program was perhaps not so much a product of President Hoover's own thinking as it was an outgrowth of recommendations made by numerous financiers. In this difficult situation, many bankers are well meaning, but their own record of performance hardly warrants full confidence in their capacity to analyze and master existing subnormal economic conditions.

With the practical men stumped, leaders may in time turn for advice to the business pathologists—the scientific economists, who attempt to view the situation as a whole rather than from mere piecemeal perspective.

Like other physicians, the money doctors are never unanimous in their prescriptions. However, most reputable economists think that the basis of our current troubles center around a collapse of the price level. They feel that if anything like the prevailing structure of capitalization, wages, dividends and taxes are to be maintained, there must be a price recovery.

1929 NEARER NORMAL

So conservative a scholar as E. W. Kemmerer, Princeton monetary specialist, who has been consultant to a dozen governments, thinks that the 1929 commodity price level was nearer normal than existing quotations.

Economists think that the fundamental need is to arrest the deflationary contraction of credit, and to initiate a controlled credit expansion. One school of economists would accomplish this solely through manipulation of the banking system, whereas another, including 46 eminent leaders of the profession, think that the most practicable technique would be through a vast prosperity loan for public works, which would provide jobs for the idle, while expanding the credit superstructure.

Chart Traces Relations Of Principal Utility Investment Companies.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE INTRICATE MAZE of holding company relationships within the public utility industry for years has been a source of confusion to investors as well as to the general public. During the bull market, the dominant factions in the power field were scrambling for operating properties to round out their systems. To keep control while tremendous expansion in capital was being undertaken, holding company was pyramided on holding company.

This has made it almost impossible for the investor to know just what is back of the securities he holds. The average individual finds that he must engage in extensive research in order to learn the affiliations of the properties in which he is interested and, what is more important, to find whether he holds the securities of an actual operating utility or a holding company. Then he must carry his study even further to determine just how far his securities actually are from the real source of earnings. Holding companies owning stocks of other holding companies are the order of the day in many utility organizations.

This problem has been solved by Robert A. Burrows of A. E. Masten & Co., who has developed the most complete chart showing the interrelation of utility holding companies ever published. The chart traces the holdings of the great utility investment organizations through the long maze of subsidiaries and finally down to the actual operating properties. In every case it also indicates the percentage of outstanding stock held in each organization. The chart represents about four months' work.

Traces Local Utility Capital Structure

AS AN EXAMPLE OF the completeness of the chart, it traces the capital structure of the principal Pittsburgh utilities through all their ramifications. It shows Duquesne Light controlled by Standard Gas and Electric, which is controlled by Standard Power and Light. The trail does not end here, however. Standard Power and Light is jointly controlled by H. M. Byllesby & Co. and the United States Electric Power Corporation. An interest in this organization is held by Hydro-Electric Securities, but practical control rests with United Founders Corporation through its own holdings and those of its subsidiary, American Founders.

We could follow the chart even further and trace the interest of United Founders in more than a score of other utility organizations. This is only one of the major groups in the gas and electric field. The chart traces the relationships of 400 companies, all of which have some connection with the dominant investment and holding companies in the industry.

Insull Figures Are Given for First Time

ONE OF THE INTERESTING features of the chart is the fact that the holdings of the Insull interests in Corporation Securities of Chicago and Insull Utilities Investment are published for the first time.

Information given on each of the principal holding and investment companies includes the number of shares outstanding, the price range for 1931, and earnings per share for the past five years.

SHIP TONNAGE DECLINES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—There was a decrease of 1,272,357 gross tons in the volume of seagoing vessels of 100 gross tons or over launched throughout the world in 1931 as compared with the previous year.

Statistics announced by the Commerce Department placed the total launchings during the year at 596 involving 1,617,115 gross tonnage, compared with 1,084 vessels aggregating 2,889,472 tons in the previous year. With the exception of 1915, the total is the lowest since 1909.

Of the launchings in 1931, 24 were between 4,000 and 6,000 tons, 89 between 6,000 and 10,000 tons, 12 between 10,000 and 15,000 tons and 14 over 15,000 tons each.

FURTHER DROP IN LOANS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City, decreased $19,000,000 during the week ended February 10, to $486,000,000. This is a new record low, comparing with $50,000,000 in the preceding week, and the record high of $6,804,000,000 in October 2, 1929.

New Bond Offerings Total $17,122,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—New bond offerings this week totaled $17,122,000 compared with $55,151,000 in the same period a year ago. There were no new issues last week.

American Water Works to Make Good Report For 1931

The annual report of American Water Works and Electric Company, Inc., for 1931, to be made public about March 1, will show substantially better earnings for common stock than the $2.67 a share on the 1,750,880 shares reported for 12 months ended November 30. H. H. Porter, president, stated that the system is in strong financial condition with current position normal for the present time of year and its bank loans very small. The system has no early maturities, except for approximately $500,000 of a water works subsidiary. With that satisfactory background, Mr. Porter holds there is no reason at present to anticipate any change in the current dividend payment of 75 cents quarterly on common. The next dividend meeting will be held March 2.

Bankers generally expressed outright satisfaction with the news from Washington on the proposed broadening of collateral eligible for rediscount at the Federal Reserve. This expression of enthusiasm, however, came before the receipt of advices from Washington, which quoting Senator Glass, served to take some of the steam out of the early jubiliation. One banker declared that call it what you will, inflation or otherwise, it is really a conservative move. Another asserted there was simply that of relieving the banking situation and stopping credit contraction. It was generally agreed that the measure as set forth overnight would not be favorably received in Europe, and probably would lead to further credit withdrawals. But it was declared quite as forcefully that the repatriation of such balances here would remove a threat of the future.

It could not be said that the financial community as a whole was quite as enthusiastic over the proposals as originally set forth as were the bankers. On the contrary, there was plain discontent in various quarters where the threat of unsound currency issuance was under discussion. In such quarters, it was argued that only the most dangerous kind of inflation could result from the adoption of such changes as proposed. The last word on what would be acceptable as eligible collateral under the new ruling rests with the Federal Reserve banks and the board, but this group wanted more light on the particular angle, recalling the move as far back as 1929 to have common stocks made eligible.

One of the most encouraging pieces of news coming to hand in many months, seemingly has failed to receive the measure of circulation warranted. Tuesday of this week passed without one bank insolvency being recorded in the United States, the first time in nearly two years that a full 24 hours has elapsed without several institutions closing their doors. Quite as interesting is the fact that Wednesday there were but two closings. The real significance of this turn of events is perhaps not apparent unless one considers the remarkable degree of stability ruling in the bond market over the last month or so. With forced year-end liquidation having subsided, bonds listed on the stock exchange showed an appreciation of $523,431,813 in open market value during January. That this improvement, together with improved marketability which it implies, was a factor cannot be denied.

That the market is likely to become oversold again is a statement which can be heard at the moment in many quarters. On several occasions during the declining trend of the past 27 months this condition has been created in the general list. The recoveries which have developed from time to time have been rather abrupt. One of the characteristics which has been seen in such rallies in the past has been that shorts had but few opportunities to cover once the upturn started, except through advanced bids for individual stocks.

Estimates in Wall street are that American Can earnings for 1931, which should be published in about two weeks, will be in the neighborhood of $5.50. This compares with predictions in the latter part of last year of around $6 a share. While speculative interests have been talking pessimistically regarding the company's outlook for this year, interests close to American Can are decidedly hopeful.

Blue Ridge Holders Approve Changes

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Change of preference stock from $50 par to no par value and reduction in preference stated capital to $25 from $50 a share was approved by a large majority of each class of stocks of Blue Ridge Corporation.

LONDON, PARIS MARKETS UP

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Prices on the stock exchange improved as a result of the American currency proposals and was further strengthened by reports of an Anglo-French agreement on reparations. These factors helped a general advance and industrials were later assisted by satisfactory dividend announcements and tin shares advanced by the rise in metal prices. Business did not expand materially, but gains generally were maintained and the market closed near the best.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Trading on the bourse continued yesterday's advance following the firmness in Wall street. The effect of the American credit plan caused activity in all compartments and profit taking had little effect on the general advance. The closing was firm.

N. Y. Reserve Bank Rate Unchanged

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank have made no announcement regarding the rediscount rate, which is 3½ per cent.

In the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County, State of Pennsylvania. In the matter of the Estate of WILLIAM T. SHAFFER, deceased. No. 260 February Term, 1932. To all parties interested: Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of Court in the above entitled matter the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, Executor, will offer and expose at

PUBLIC SALE

In the Rotunda of the City-County Building, Grant street, Pittsburgh, Pa., on February 29, 1932, at 3 O'Clock P. M. the following described real estate, to-wit:

An undivided one-half interest in the following:

All that certain lot of ground situate in the Twenty-second Ward, Pittsburgh, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, being Lots numbered 28, 29, 30, the easterly 2 feet of Lot numbered 27, and part of Lot numbered 31 in the John McDonald Subdivision Plan of Lots recorded in the Recorder's Office of said County in Plan Book Vol. 1, page 9, formerly Plan Book Vol. 1, page 12, said lots fronting 66 feet 1½ inches, more or less, on the easterly side of East Lacock street and extending northwardly along the face of a brick wall a distance of 100 feet to the southerly side of Flush street, on which it has a frontage of 66 feet 1½ inch, more or less, and thence extending southwardly parallel with the easterly side of Range way 100 feet to East Lacock street aforesaid.

Having erected thereon three four-story brick buildings known as Numbers 18, 20, 22 East Lacock street.

Together with the right so long as the present building is erected upon the lot herein described shall remain standing to maintain that portion thereof which may now overhang the land adjoining the premises herein described on the east as the said right was granted to Frank McCann by deed of William Francis Williams and Delia B. Williams, his wife, dated June 3, 1921, and recorded in the Recorder's Office of said Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, in Deed Book Vol. 2076, page 29.

Said land is subject to the lien of a first mortgage in the sum of $45,000.00 recorded in Mortgage Book Vol. 2234, page 302, and is subject also to a second mortgage in the sum of $20,000.00, recorded in Mortgage Book Vol. 2245, page 623, and said sale will be made subject to the lien of said mortgages.

2. All that certain lot of ground situate in Avalon Borough, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, being Lot numbered 93 in the Plan of Lots laid out by North Side Land Association, recorded in Plan Book Vol. 9, page 36, and having a frontage of 35 feet on the westerly side of Cleveland avenue and extending back therefrom and maintaining said width of 35 feet throughout a distance of 100 feet to an alley.

Having erected thereon a two-story frame dwelling house known as Number 211 Cleveland avenue.

Said land is subject to the lien of a mortgage in the sum of $3,000.00 recorded in Mortgage Book Vol. 2207, page 183, and said sale will be made subject to the lien of said mortgage.

TERMS OF SALE

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Lily Lou Realizes Marriage To Ken Will Spoil Music Career

CHAPTER VIII

Of course there was no one to meet her. May and Raymond were working. So was Ken, and Ken didn't even know she was coming.

Lily Lou took a taxi, and drove home.

The house was chilled and gloomy, after the riotous sun of the lake. A cold, wet fog had drifted in from the bay.

She went into the front room and unpacked her things. Telephoned May's office to say that she would do the ordering, and get dinner, so that May needn't shop on the way home.

Synopsis

Young and beautiful Lily Lou Lansing aspires to an operatic career, but her moderate circumstances necessitates that she go to business and study music evenings. Wealthy Ken Sargent, whom Lily Lou loves, becomes angry when she insists upon practicing instead of seeing him and discontinues calling. Lily Lou grows listless and overworks trying to forget him. She goes to her parents home in Woodlake for a rest. Ken arrives and once again she is happy. She assumes an air of indifference towards Ken, however, and one night, feeling she is no longer interested, he kisses her good-bye and leaves for town. Lily Lou rushes down the path to stop him and stumbles. Ken runs back to assist her and she confesses her love for him. A week later, she returns to the city. Ken is out of town.

Now Go On

That done, she wondered if she dared call Ken's office. A girl with a clear, sharp voice told her that Mr. Sargent, Junior, was out of town. Back Monday. Any message?

"No," Lily Lou said.

She wandered around the house. Dusted the piano, rearranged her music. Moved furniture a little, picked some nasturtians, and tried to give the house a lived in air. It looked just what it was, a place where people had little time for beauty, even for comfort. It was just a place to sleep, to rest, after a hard day's work.

"Bess is right. May ought to stay home," she thought. But if May stayed home there wouldn't be the few decent bits of furniture there were . . . the two overstuffed armchairs, the davenport, the rugs, the drapes . . . May had bought them all with money she earned. And if May had children, her house would be like Bess'—toys, clothes drying, and special food and milk being prepared in the kitchen. Well, you ought to have money . . . lots of money . . . like the Sargents.

Lily Lou thought about the Sargents. Wondered what sort of times they had and if there'd be a row when they found out that she and Ken were engaged . . .

Yes, but were they engaged? He said he loved her, but did that mean . . . You'd think it did, and still . . .

CAREER PERILED

And if they were, what would May say? And Bess? But perhaps she could go on with her music, even after she and Ken were married . . . No, she couldn't do that, not really. Going on as she had intended would mean study in New York, study in Europe, then travel, travel, and Ken somewhere else . . .

It would be wicked to give up and make her voice into a parlor voice, a sort of social asset, to make up for her being a nobody . . .

Vividly she thought again of the tall woman with the big hats and the insolent laugh . . . Mrs. Sargent, who would be her mother-in-law. And arrogant, portly Mr. Sargent. And she thought, "Oh, I'd be miserable with them. I wouldn't ever fit in. I don't like them. And Ken . . . he's different, he'll want to get away, perhaps . . ."

Maybe there'd be a family quarrel, and they'd throw Ken out without a cent, and Ken would stick to her, and they'd have a house, and they'd both work—not like Raymond and May, but different—a sort of studio house, with a lovely grand piano, and dark, gleaming floors, and . . .

DINNER SCORCHED

The odor of scorching peas came from the kitchen . . . The peas she had gone to all the trouble of shelling, and which were to be a treat for May, who never had time to fix fresh vegetables . . . Lily Lou flew to the kitchen. They weren't entirely spoilt. Just a few on the bottom. She transferred the salvaged peas to a clean pan. She'd pay attention now. She'd always despised people who day dreamed, and let things burn, and time go by . . . Well, you can't be normal when you're in love!

May was delighted to have her back. Delighted with the dinner she had cooked. Delighted that she looked so well. There was never a great demonstration of affection amongst the Lansings. They looked upon that sort of thing as "soft"—but they loved each other, and sometimes, like tonight, they had a hard time not to show it.

Dinner was fun, because it was served in the dining room where Lily Lou had set the table with the best silver, and May's hand-embroidered table cloth.

"This is something like!" Raymond said, helping himself to another slice of the roast. "Say, how about making a good old stew, with onions, out of what's left for tomorrow night, Lily Lou?"

"I'll be at the office tomorrow."

"I'll make it for you, dear. I'll cook it tonight."

"Gee, it would be a lot of bother for you, Maysie. We'll have it cold instead."

Lily Lou felt sorry for them both . . . sorry for herself, too . . . Some day would she and Ken . . .? No, with her music she'd earn enough, even if Ken's people . . .

"You're awfully preoccupied tonight," May said.

"I haven't got used to being back yet. Still thinking about Woodlake." That wasn't exactly true, but it served.

After dinner Irene and Raymond's father came over. Irene was planning her wedding. Lily Lou had to listen to it all. And with her own heart so troubled, her own affairs so unsettled, it hurt.

Ken came back Monday. They met on the boat. Lily Lou remembered the commuters, managed to keep from looking too happy, but she couldn't mask the starry wonder in her eyes, the soft redness of her lips . . . Oh, what a life! To have to meet the boy you love, whom you've given your heart to, whom you're going to marry, on a ferry boat!

And how it sped this morning. They were landing almost before they were aboard. They were parting at Sansome and Sutter almost before they'd had time for a dozen words . . .

Just before he left her he leaned over and whispered in her ear, "Love me?"

He was laughing, his nice, faintly freckled face happy and sure of what she was going to say. When she nodded, smiling and blushing a little, the look of triumph that she had seen on his face before came back, frightening her. She wished he'd say whether they were engaged or not . . .

The ankle hurt all day. She shouldn't have walked to work. But she forgot it, seeing Ken made her forget everything. Shouldn't Ken have thought of it? Wouldn't it have been sweet of Ken to think of her?

The day dragged. Lily Lou sat at her switchboard, plugged in and out, answered. "Fox, Johansen and Durney . . . Who is calling, please? I'll see . . ."

She was desperately tired when she got home. May was putting the cold meat on the table. She hadn't made Raymond's stew after all.

After dinner Lily Lou whisked the plates away almost before Raymond had finished his second piece of bakery pie. She washed, with lightning rapidity. May, more leisurely, dried.

"What's the hurry, for heaven's sakes?" May drawled.

"Oh, nothing—want to finish." Lily Lou hung her apron on the hook on the kitchen door, stopped at the bathroom to scrub her hands with violet soap—darn that dishwater smell!—and then on to her tiny dressing room, to cold cream her face, powder carefully, comb her hair . . . Almost eight . . . He ought to telephone any minute now. She began to polish her nails, frowning at the clock . . .

"Aren't you going to practice tonight? You'll be getting rusty!" May called from her couch in the dining room.

"I suppose so — " Lily Lou turned away from her dressing table, looked helplessly at the piano.

It was almost half past eight.

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

"IN THE advertising ballyhoo for Metro's latest special, 'Hell Divers,' " writes R. P. McEachin, of Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan, "I notice a line that reads: 'The U. S. Government loaned its Navy to help create an American epic.' That reminded me of a story, Mark, and if it's of any use to you, you are most certainly welcome to it.

"Several years ago, I was a member of Uncle Sam's crack outfit, the 6th Engineers of the well-known 3rd Division, then stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash. Well, sir, it was spring—and the camp was all astir with excitement because we had learned from the papers that Richard Barthelmess was coming to our town to make his comeback picture, 'The Patent Leather Kid.'

"This naturally meant a lot to the gang. We heard that he was going to live among us and that we were actually going to act in the picture with him. We were going to step into a new world, and you can readily understand what a thrill we anticipated.

"In due time the company arrived and the picture went into the making. We all had a swell time tramping down to the artillery area to watch the setting up of the various paraphernalia and to gaze goggle-eyed at cameras, wind machines, chairs with the stars' names on the backs, and so on.

"More, it gave us plenty of kick to see oodles of girls from all over the state of Washington standing around with the giggles and acting just as goggle-eyed as we were. Pretty girls meant a lot to us, Mark, because such rarities are 'hands off' to any private in the army out in that neck of the woods. Such privileges are left to the officers. But that's another story . . .

"At any rate, the picture making was on and the motion picture company had hired all the bums from the skidways of Seattle to play the German army. They, of course, represented the enemy. And we were the impregnable Tank Corps of the A. E. F.

"Dirty and unwholesome as they were, these bums were our guests, nevertheless, during the filming of 'The Patent Leather Kid.' They were housed by us and fed at our mess tables—receiving, incidentally, first chow. What was left we got. They swarmed all over our areas, our recreation rooms and our grounds. Ugh!

"Day after day, we hiked out to the battle grounds, which were all the way from one to three miles from camp. Our woolen clothing was soggy from perspiration and we carried heavy, full field equipment on our backs.

"Sometimes we went through the actions of a real war, and sometimes we did nothing but sit and wait to see what the bird with the black glasses before his eyes said about the sun. A couple of times we put in a double shift, staying up day and night. And all this for the sake of military practice as it went down on the books.

"After two months of exhaustive work, Mr. Barthelmess and the picture company packed up bag and baggage and cleared out. The bums had been paid off at the rate of $5 for each day's work. And we soldiers were given $1.50 each for our entire performance—and that was to have our uniforms cleaned.

"It was a little tough to take, Mark, but we accepted the situation with a smile. After all, we had been trained to take what was thrown at us and keep our mouths shut. That's why we were in the army in the first place.

"But you can imagine our embarrassment a short time later, 'The Patent Leather Kid' was thrown on the screen at the local theater in Greene Park and we were charged 25 cents apiece to see ourselves act in the movies!" . . .

* * *

A MOST unusual story was unfolded to me the other night by one of New York's officials.

Some time ago a man in the employ of the city approached his superior and asked the latter's advice relative to taking the Civil Service examination for keeper in an insane asylum. He had been informed that such an examination would shortly be held, and he was anxious for that type of position.

Being interested in the man, his superior went to the trouble of investigating the matter and gathering all the data that would help the employee to qualify for the examination. He passed the information along. And in due time, the young man took the examination, passed with a high mark and was placed on the eligible list.

Meanwhile, while waiting for his appointment, the man met with a serious accident. While driving home with some friends, the car in which he was riding collided with another machine. He was yanked out and hurried to a local hospital, where he remained for 72 hours.

The diagnosis of his case was highly interesting. There had been a severe fracture of the skull, and several examinations indicated that—due to the accident—he was suffering from a form of insanity. After a short period he was released from the hospital and returned to his former place of employment.

That there was a change in him was noticeable immediately. He walked around the place in something of a daze. He gazed constantly at the ceiling and kept mumbling to himself.

"Funny thing about that ceiling," he would mutter. "A very funny thing. Just can't figure it out. But it's a funny thing about that ceiling. A very funny thing."

Exactly two days later he received the notice for which he had been waiting since the Civil Service examination. He had been appointed a keeper in an insane asylum in a Northeastern State.

The man took the job and is still holding it—in spite of the fact that he is just as insane as the men he is guarding . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS -:- Junior Komic Club

Election of officers is a general topic of conversation wherever a group of Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Junior Komic Club members get together. Some of the chapters elected officers at the last meeting, some will hold elections at the meeting Saturday and others on February 20.

A keen friendly rivalry exists between two boys of State Chapter, Washington. They seem to be equally popular, and last month it was difficult to decide which one received the larger popular vote. Manager Wear finally gave the decision to Roger Doyle, who conducts the State Chapter Orchestra.

At the election held last Saturday, the same two boys were favored, and again the decision rested with Manager Wear. So close was the volume of applause for each boy, that the decision was made on the toss of a coin, in favor of Billy Brownlee. Billy is quite an entertainer and will do doubt be a worthy successor to Roger Doyle.

NEW BOARD ELECTED

The new board of governors include: Roger Doyle (past Grand Jester); Stanley Wolfe, Arman Trasoline, Marguerite Birmingham, Thelma McVheil, Margaret Rosita.

A novel feature of the meeting was a contest for vocal soloists. Competing in the contest were Margaret Ellen Ware, Frank Rungo, Anna Hartzell, Viola Brown, Anthony Beaumont, Sandro Clayton, Wilma Ehuret, Margaret Gajarsky, John Gajarsky, Lawson Stahl, Ethel Stahl, Peggy Ann Howell, Myrtle Sholtine, Mabel Varner and Betty Jane Anderson.

Taking part in the acrobatic program were Donna Fay Walker, Mary Walters, Margaret Rosita, Betty Jane Wood and Billie Brownlee.

Forty-five minutes of the program stages at State Washington Chapter was broadcast over WNBO, with Miss Irene Fisher at the organ. The theme song of this radio period, which is a regular Saturday feature on WNBO, is "Happy Days are Here Again."

A: I DON'T REMEMBER OF EVER MAKING THAT STATEMENT.
Q: IF YOU MADE IT, YOU WOULD REMEMBER IT?
A: I THINK I WOULD.
Q: IS IT TRUE THAT YOU MARRIED HIM FOR HIS MONEY?
A: IT IS NOT TRUE.
ATTORNEY SABATH CROSS-EXAMINING:
Q: YOU'RE NOT PREPARED HERE AND NOW TO STATE POSITIVELY THAT YOU DIDN'T MAKE THAT REMARK?
A: NO- BUT IF I DID SAY IT, IT WAS JUST IN FUN.
Q: DO YOU THINK A REMARK LIKE THAT IS FUNNY?
A: IT IS WHEN YOU THINK WHAT A CHANCE YOU'VE GOT TO GET HIS MONEY.
Q: SINCE YOU WERE MARRIED YOU GOT A BEAUTIFUL FUR COAT AND NUMEROUS DRESSES - YOUR HUSBAND HAS BEEN PRETTY LIBERAL WITH YOU, HASN'T HE?

Abraham Lincoln Hewed To the Line of Duty

The nation salutes the great name of Abraham Lincoln—on this day which it has set apart for the commemoration of his life and his illustrious public services.

Each year the renown of Lincoln expands throughout the world. The veneration and affection in which his memory is held by all Americans, deepen and grow stronger in their hearts.

It was always wisely that he spoke—in simple words, with a loyalty to his country that knew no turning, and with exhaustless human sympathy.

All that he said is treasured, but there is general agreement that two of his utterances stand out imperishably—the Gettysburg address and the second inaugural address. They will never die.

On a metal tablet upon the walls of the great library of Oxford University in England, the Gettysburg speech is set forth in full, with the statement that it is preserved in permanent mould, AS A MONUMENT TO THE POWER AND RESOURCES OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

The address delivered upon his second inauguration as President, graven in bronze, fills one entire side of the spacious chamber of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington. Here it greets the eye of every visitor and is read and re-read, day after day, by countless throngs.

"With malice toward none;" it reads, "with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in."

Words for today, words for all days, particularly days of difficulty and confusion such as now confront our people.

In a single sentence we catch the secret of Lincoln's power. Passion he doubtless felt, but he did not succumb to it. Criticism was heaped upon him, but he did not bend under it. Of defeat and reverse he had more than his share, but he kept steadily onward. His mission was to defend his country, to solve its problems, to re-unite his people. This he kept always before him and never swerved.

He had to cope with treason, with incompetence, with fanatical extremists, with the entrenched forces of wealth and property, which could see only their interests and cared little for the country's fate.

By firmness and patience he brought disloyalty and resistance into submission to the nation's will and subordination to the public interest, and was able to carry through, to a victorious conclusion, his work as the saviour of the Union.

In quietness and confidence, he found his strength. With malice toward none and with a charity that human weakness could not embitter, he hewed to the line of duty, finally achieving the rescue of his country from destruction and the appeasement of the controversies that had almost overthrown it.

The Blue Law an Issue

Candidates for the Legislature Should Tell the Voters Plainly If They Are For or Against Repeal.

It was noted with satisfaction that in announcing his candidacy for another term in the Legislature Representative Max J. Spann let the voters in his district know how he feels about the Blue Law with its ban on innocent Sunday amusements.

Spann is against the Blue Law and has rendered more than lip service to the liberal cause. He fought for repeal of the annoying statute at the last regular session and introduced a bill at the special session permitting Sunday amusements, but imposing a high tax on them for the relief of the unemployed.

It is to be hoped that every candidate for the Legislature will tell the voters plainly whether he is for or against repeal of the Blue Law. It is one of the important issues of the campaign, and those who aspire to represent the people at Harrisburg should not be allowed to pussyfoot.

County Joins Campaign

Commissioner McGovern Adds Strength to the Movement to Get Fair Utilities Rates.

The campaign to get unfair public utility rates reduced to a reasonable level is progressing in a fashion that promises to bring action.

Especially encouraging is the pledge of support given by Chairman Charles C. McGovern, of the Board of County Commissioners. He has promised to offer a resolution at the next meeting of the Commissioners, calling upon the utilities to make reductions in their rates commensurate with the decreased costs of commodities and services.

The force of public opinion, if properly expressed, may conceivably persuade utility companies whose rates are indefensibly high to reduce them voluntarily. But they must be made aware of the fact that their customers are aroused and indignant.

In the meanwhile preparations should continue for instituting a test case before the Public Service Commission.

Appropriate political action should also be taken.

Patience and Grit

Fine Qualities Are Displayed by Some of the Mid-Year Graduates at the University of Pittsburgh.

In looking over the records of some of the more remarkable of the mid-year graduates who are about to receive degrees from the University of Pittsburgh one cannot but be impressed by the fine qualities they have displayed.

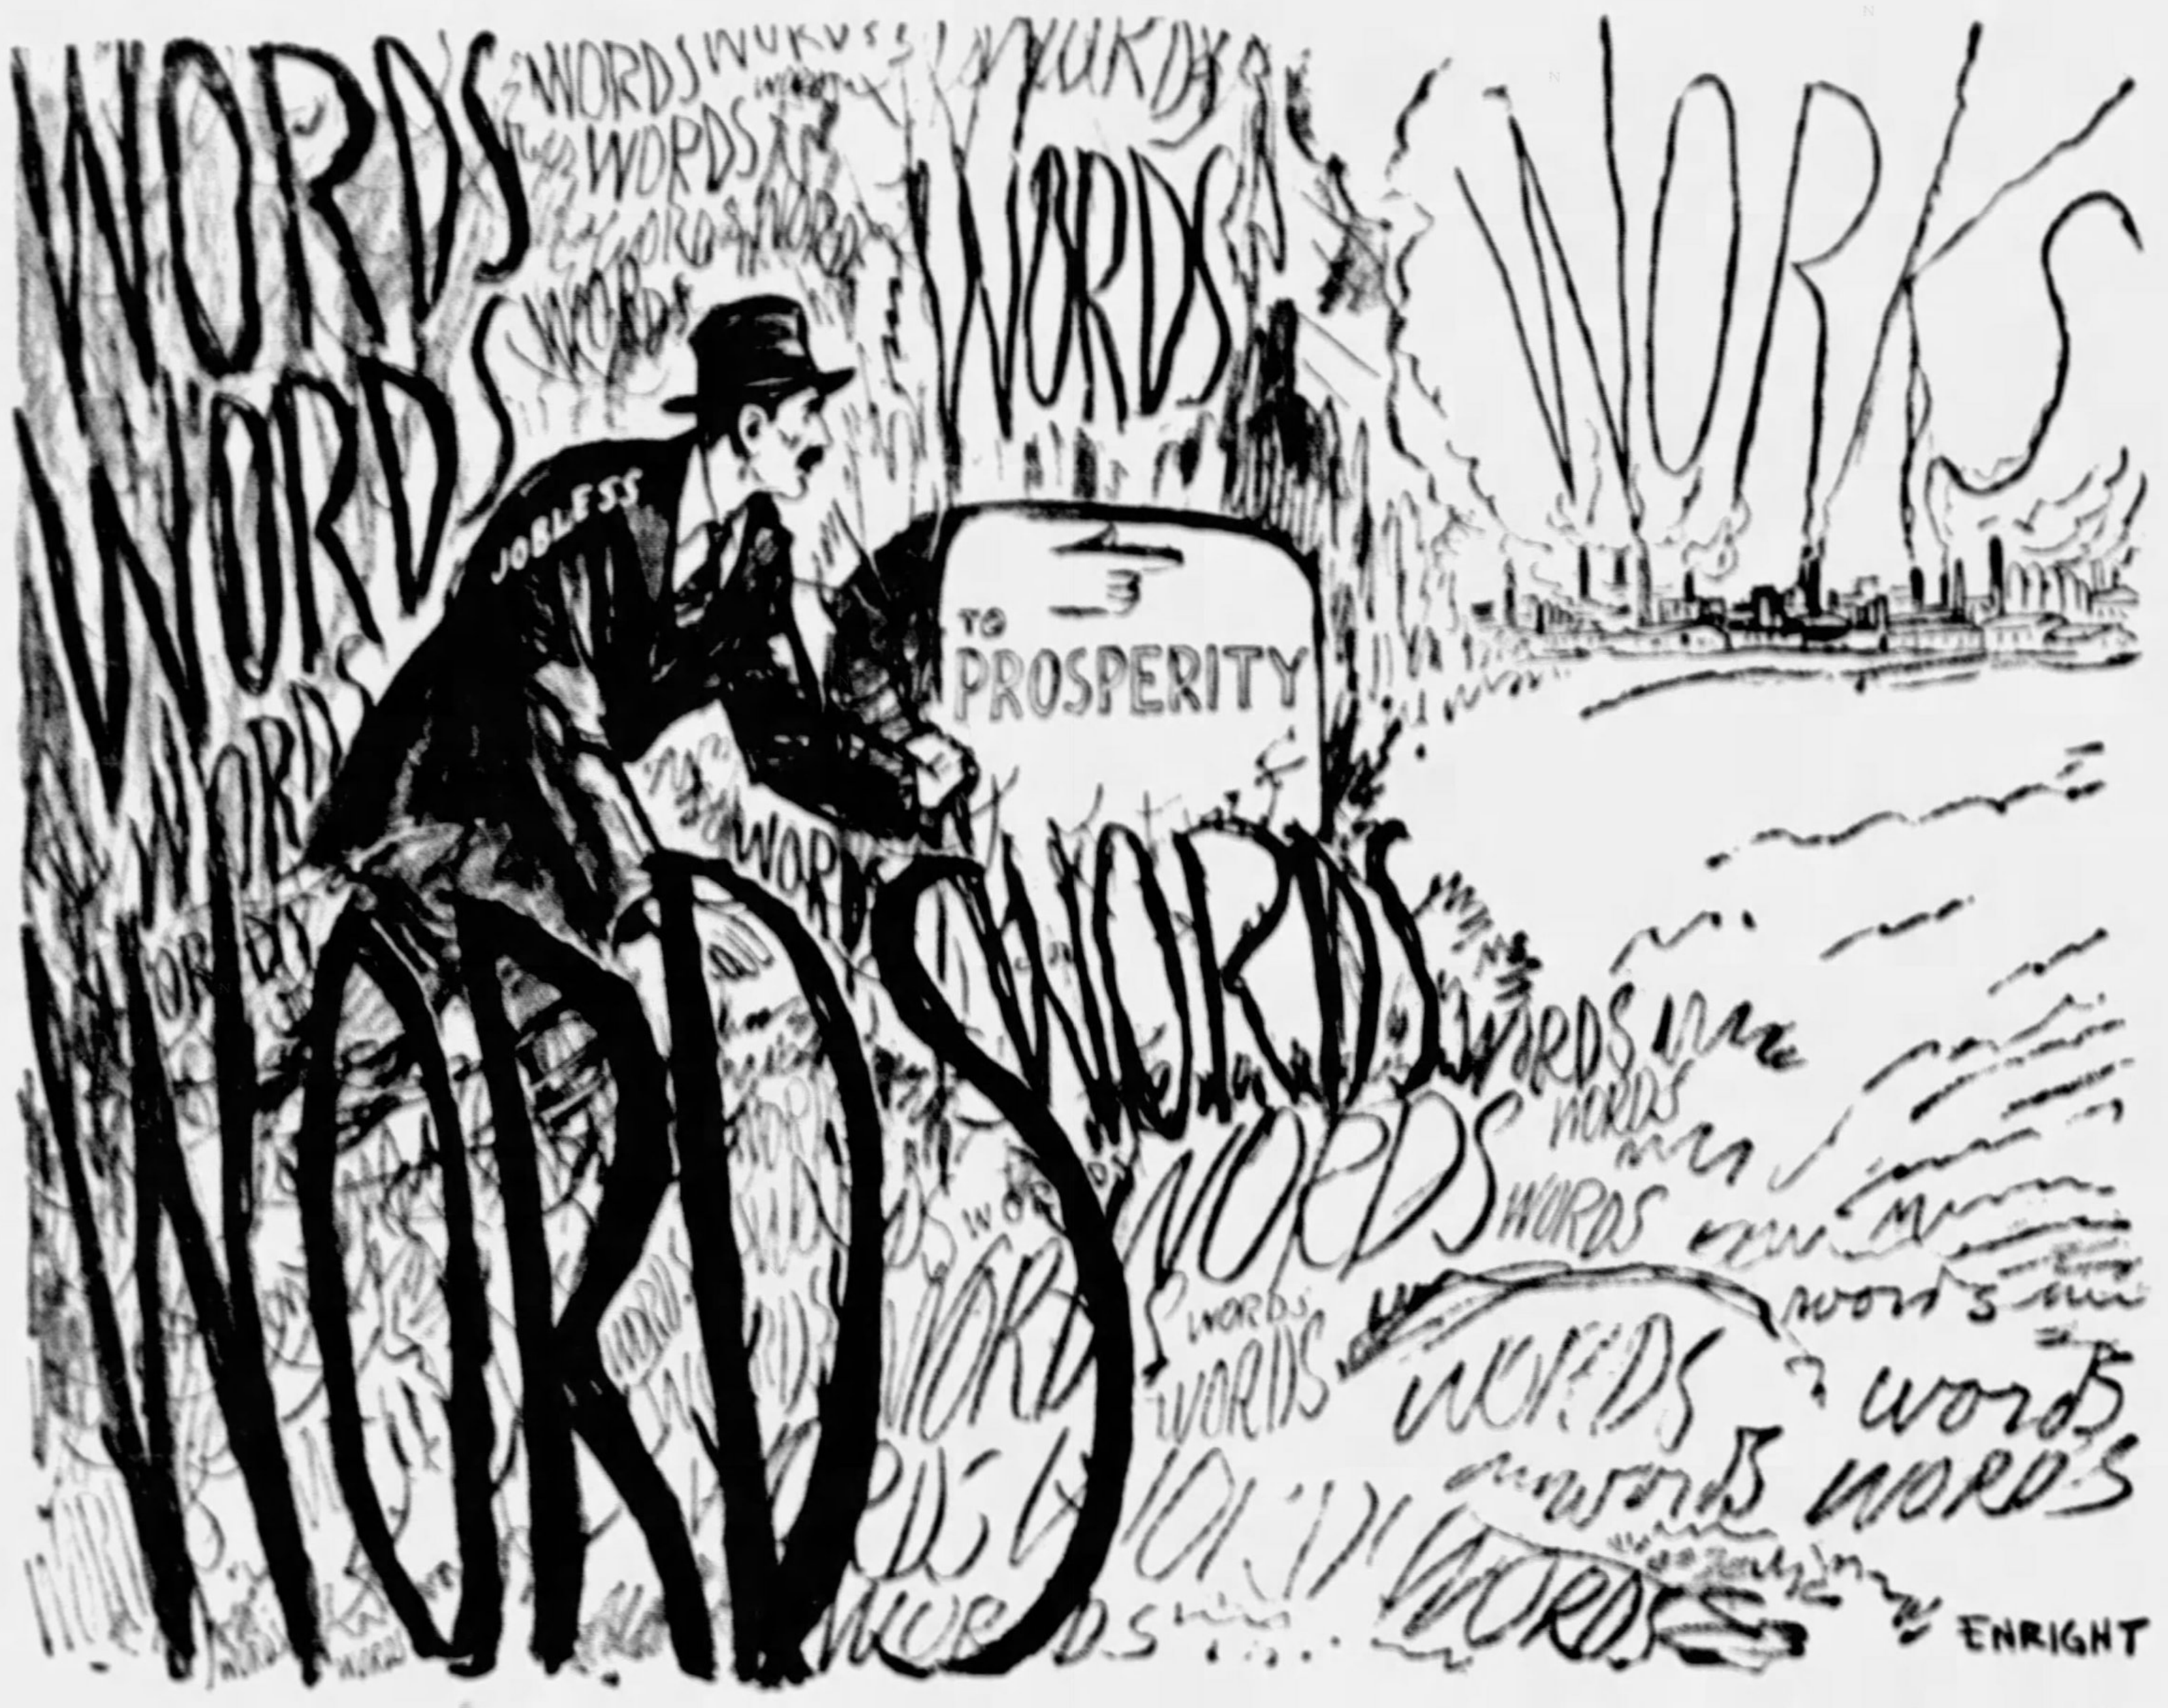
Here is the case of Mrs. Augusta Moran Moore, for example, who has won the degree of bachelor of arts by 8½ years of night study. During the day she is employed in secretarial work by a large industrial company, but in the evenings, through all these years, she has been studying and attending classes. That takes grit and patience.

Inspiring, also, is the story of Stephen Feduska, a sophomore in the school of mines, who has just been awarded a scholarship in a national competition. He has been working as a theater usher in the evening and as a laborer during other periods of free time, while pursuing his studies at the university.

There are few who cannot take lessons in courage and perseverance from these plucky students.

The Way Out

(Copyright, 1932.)



In a signed editorial appearing in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers on February 8, William Randolph Hearst wrote in part:

"What is needed to restore confidence is not merely words but WORKS.

"What is needed to revive prosperity is thoughtful attention to the problems of the people and particularly PATRIOTIC concentration on the requirements of OUR OWN PEOPLE.

"What is needed is immediate recommendation on the part of the Executive, and prompt action on the part of Congress, to give work to the unemployed, to put money into circulation, to stimulate trade and invigorate industry.

"And until such action is taken there will be no confidence and no CAUSE for confidence.

"The first duty of this Government, the first duty of any government is to give the workers WORK.

"If Mr. Hoover had advocated the five billion dollar bond issue for public works even one year ago, he would not now be going out of office with a record of unrelieved adversity such as no President has ever had."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—Thoughts while strolling: What a tune "I Love Louisa" will make for merry-go-rounds. The gloomy Untermeyer home on the avenue at Forty-eighth street. The youngish Adrienne Morrison—mother of the Bennett girls. Lillian Gish wears her hair in a mid-Victorian neck knot.

Bugs Baer, a Washington, D. C., boy, who made good in the city. I get Pat O'Brien and Pat Somerset mixed. Frustrated types who attend interpretive dance exhibits. Jack Murray and Grover Whalen look alike. And Ted Snyder suggests Richard Carle. Lucius Boomer's stage butler sideburns.

One-word description of Kate Smith—mountainous. Who remembers when grandma snipped off the shirt tail to make a new collar? Overheard: "He has a high-brow study with a little bar attached." Percy Crosby in town from his Virginia estate. Gone completely county, sah!

Will Hays chews gum, too. Chick Endor, who writes those ribald night club lyrics, spent his youth on the north end of a south-bound plow. The wand-like Claire Luce. Remindful of white hyacinth. Louis Joseph Vance started wearing a monocle on a dare. Elsie Janis is a sucker for celery.

Nobody suggests the amiable, clumsy bear-like Heywood Broun. A single photograph adorns Earl Carroll's office—an autographed print of Belasco. Those la-de-dah jewelry salons with little desk tables. And frock-coated salesmen. Gilbert Gabriel's quiet, flitting smile.

Beatrice Lillie has that slick look of a peeled onion. Atrocious pun: Maybe that's why she's Lady Peel! When I see Will Beebe I think of Orville Wright. A tea room—"The Poet's Corner." Don Marquis said, "Poetry is what Milton saw when he went blind." Mary Ellis won't appear professionally without Basil Sydney.

A caper of composing room print shops in other days was to show a cub reporter "type lice." Before forms were adjusted columns were soaked with a spongeful of water. The novice was told to bend and peer closely into the type for vermin. A quick shove at the end of the column and inky squirts sprayed, with malicious merriment, into an innocent's face. A copy chief who made me the victim of this hoax was the target for morning hymns of hate for years afterward. I hoped he would come to no good end. Years, like dividends, passed. Yesterday I saw him. He graced the executive desk of an important enterprise. He showed me about his elaborately modernistic quarters and stopping before a mirrored door said: "We'll peek in here!" I stepped in, but remembering the type lice, expected another gag. You know, come out all covered with flour or something! Instead it was a circular bar with four leather-cushioned stools like a Paris bistro. A further surprise was a taffy-haired English barmaid, as Britishly righto indeed as Collie and Kittie, the duo presiding so delightfully for years at the London Savoy.

An after-dinner divertissement these coolish evenings is called "Ambition." Players express hidden desires. For instance, Rita Weiman ached to be a grasper of opportunities while Mildred Cornwell desired only to be a humble stifler of yawns. Mary Ellis, with odd feminine perversity, was quite content to become a mere plumper of pillows.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

That little back door by which the monster came and went. Perhaps you recall it in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Perhaps you didn't notice it particularly, for you were too busy shuddering over that horrible, pitiful transformation of a man into a fiend.

And, as a matter of fact, Dr. Jekyll didn't notice that little back door very much himself—at first. For many years, through his eager, inquisitive boyhood; through his vigorous, radical young manhood, there had been no place in his life for little, low, back doors. He had been a Front Door Man, going openly, bravely on his way. Men criticized him for his frankness; quarreled with him for his recklessness. But he laughed—went freely forward.

And then something happened—not something outside himself; something inside himself. He began to have secret desires which he did not openly proclaim. He began to make secret experiments which he did not let the world see. He began to permit himself certain furtive indulgences—to sneak out on himself—TO SNEAK OUT THROUGH THAT LITTLE BACK DOOR.

In "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" that little back door was made of oak; but really it is only a symbolic story of what went on in a man's soul. That laboratory, with its complicated maze of instruments, retorts and test tubes, was Dr. Jekyll's soul. And the little back door was built, not of oak, but of his own secret, vicious, self-indulgence.

Dr. Jekyll did not take those self-indulgences very seriously at first. They began naturally enough. They began in his rebellion against conventional life—in his resentment at the shackles of respectability.

There was "another self" in him which was not as respectable as the great Dr. Jekyll whom the world knew—an animal self, vulgar, bestial. That animal self was restless. It wanted to have its fling. And Dr. Jekyll had discovered a way by which it could have its fling. He could let his other self go free—escape through that little secret back door of his self-indulgence into the darkness and the wildness which it craved.

Surely there was no harm in that. Nobody need know. And what a relief it would be, after his straight-laced days, just to run amuck for a little while. Only a little while—for, of course, he would come back. He had no intention of permanently leaving the life which he loved best of all—that proud and open front door life. He would just let himself out for an occasional spree; but he could always come back whenever he pleased.

So he thought—excusing to himself his secret monstrosity.

BUT THE DAY CAME WHEN HE COULDN'T GET BACK. HE HAD LOST THE KEY! AND THE MONSTER SELF WHICH HE BELIEVED HE CONTROLLED, NOW CONTROLLED HIM—AND SWEPT HIM HEADLONG INTO A HELL OF HIS OWN MAKING.

That is the story of Dr. Jekyll's soul—of EVERY MAN'S SOUL—For every man has a secret laboratory within his spirit in which he makes experiments with the values of life—with the code of Good and Evil.

Every man has a little back door of self-indulgence, and every man has a Mr. Hyde self who sneaks in and out of that little back door.

YOU, TOO, HAVE ANOTHER SELF!

Yes, I know; you deny it with snorts of indignation. But you know that the charge is true.

Your other self is not yet a hideous, fanged monster, such as emerged from Dr. Jekyll. Perhaps it is only a small, silly, sneaky little shadow, making brief and trivial excursions into bad temper and dishonesty, cruelty and nasty speculation—LITTLE EXCURSIONS THAT "DON'T COUNT."

But remember, that is what Dr. Jekyll thought when he first allowed his other self to prowl. He, too, thought that prowling wouldn't count. He, too, thought that "nobody would ever know."

BUT WITH EVERY PROWLING THE MONSTER GREW AND GREW STRONGER, MORE VICIOUS, UNTIL AT LAST IT RULED HIS WORLD!

Beware of a little back door—of secret self-indulgence that "don't count."

EVERYTHING YOU DO COUNTS, BE IT EVER SO SECRET.

EVERY ACT, HOWEVER TRIVIAL, WILL MAKE YOU MORE OF A MAN—OR MORE OF A MONSTER!

Marry-Go-Round

Why Women Shoot Men

If there is one thing that makes a normal woman wish that murder were not against the law, it is a man's casual suggestion that she ought to "control her nerves!"

* * *

Woman's "nerves" have been man's favorite alibi ever since Eve lost her voice trying to get Adam up in time for breakfast. There is nothing else in the world with which a man is so tenderly sympathetic.

He will confide to you, with solemn concern, that "the Little Woman had a touch of nerves." Meaning, perhaps, that, after she had called him six times, warmed over the chops and the coffee, made fresh toast and waited and waited—and waited—for him to finish his beauty sleep, she had a fit of hysteria.

* * *

Nerves! Huh! (Mocking laughter.)

* * *

It's her "nerves" that make her glare at her husband, when he brings home that unexpected guest for dinner on Thursday, when the cook is off and there's nothing to eat but left-over beef-stew and canned peas.

* * *

It's her "nerves" that drive her to unreasonable desperation, when she is all dressed for the party, and the guests are arriving, and the soup is getting cold, and her husband is still singing blithely in the shower-bath.

* * *

It's her "nerves" that send her into a weeping fit, when she has been sitting alone in a corner for a half-hour, watching her husband dance a Paul Jones with a platinum blonde.

* * *

It's nothing but "nerves" that plunge a girl into melancholia or drive her to cynicism, when she has been waiting two years for a man to ask her to marry him, and he suddenly begins rushing her pretty young cousin.

It's her "nerves" that make a wife sarcastic, when you preach "system" to her, after she has had to find your hat, hunt for your overshoes, clean your safety razor and get you off for the office in time, every morning, for 10 or 15 years.

* * *

It's her "nerves" that make her "petulant," when you tip over the teatable, let the tub run over and spoil the drawing room ceiling, make calves eyes at a red-headed flapper, drop the baby, set the curtains on fire or let the family skeleton out before her worst enemy!

* * *

It's ALWAYS her nerves! A woman never has any moods, opinions, reasons, feelings—she is never disappointed or angry or weary or blue or discouraged or indignant. She is never anything except "nervous!"

* * *

And a man's sublime "patience" with a woman's nerves is what causes most of the husband-shooting!

Lighten Tax Burdens On Business!

By B. C. FORBES

THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT has discovered, somewhat tardily, that it must revise its estimates of tax receipts.

Ways and means must be devised, it is now found, to raise $455,000,000 more than estimated in November.

Congress is confronted with the task of originating tax measures calculated to add no less than $1,241,000,000 extra income.

No plan acceptable to taxpayers has yet been officially propounded. Various proposals have been offered to levy heavier burdens upon different lines of business. The only—and natural—response has been a storm of protest from business.

The supreme objective of the government at this moment should be the encouragement, not discouragement, of business, the filler of our pay envelopes, the supplier of all the sinews of government.

WHAT POLICY SHOULD the government follow? How can business be stimulated to give more employment at decent wages rather than incited to reduce both employment and wages?

In March of last year the writer publicly addressed this appeal to Secretary Mellon:

"Secretary Mellon: Your financial statesmanship has made America your grateful debtor. Mainly through your genius the national debt has been reduced over $9,000,000,000 in eleven years . . . To you, more than to any other individual in the land, do taxpayers owe the rapid reduction in the public debt from $25,482,000,000 to $16,185,000,000.

"But, Mr. Secretary, will you please change your debt-reducing policy? Will you not please give first thought to the present, not to posterity, now that most taxpayers are struggling against heavy odds to make ends meet? We cheerfully submitted to excess taxes for the purpose of reducing the national debt faster than called for in the bond when we were prosperous. But we earnestly urge you to go to the limit to lighten our burdens in this time of depression and deficits."

THE LAST TWELVE MONTHS, unhappily, have brought no improvement in business. Over four hundred corporation statements covering 1931 show an average shrinkage of fully 45 per cent in earnings as compared with 1929. Employment likewise has decreased, the wage level has been lowered.

The need for the exercise of statesmanship in handling public finance has become painfully evident to all—except, perhaps, Washington stand-patters who carry no responsibility for filling pay envelopes and are smugly assured of their own pay from the taxes paid by you and me.

New conditions demand original action—new methods of attack. It is not sufficient that the government remain wedded to tradition, remain in a rut deep as a grave, remain content to single out specific industries and enterprises already overtaxed and torture them still more severely on the tax rack.

SINCE APPARENTLY Washington has decreed "thumbs down" on the increasingly widespread demand that measures be instituted to make it possible to obtain public revenue through modification of our present farcical prohibition (so-called), there is available, very fortunately, another species of taxation as broad-based as the continent, a sales tax so drawn up as to impose no hardship whatsoever on those compelled to subsist on only the veriest necessities of life, but applicable equitably to all other individuals and families enjoying the protecton of orderly government.

Such a tax at, say, a rate of 5 per cent—the rate in Canada is 4 per cent—would go a long way, a very long way, a vital way to solve the otherwise staggering problem facing the federal authorities.

Properly formulated and administered, this selective sales tax would impose a crushing burden upon none, would ruin no INDUSTRY, would constitute no barrier against the putting of now timid capital to work by entrepreneurs, would be so evenly and widely diffused that it would not handicap that revival of business which has been unconscionably delayed by, among other things, tax uncertainties and Treasury deficit certainties.

THE MORE BUSINESS is handicapped, the worse business and employment inevitably become. Poorer business means poorer public revenues. That too long has been our doom.

It is high time Washington stopped shilly-shallying, dilly-dallying, high time tax-leviers exhibited practical consideration for taxpayers, high time Congress took definite, clear-cut, constructive action to end apprehension and inspire confidence, parent of progress and prosperity.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Who composed the music for:

1. "Messiah?"
2. "Moonlight Sonata?"
3. "Magic Flute?"
4. "Lohengrin?"
5. "Melody in F?"

What does each of these expressions mean:

6. A Judas kiss?
7. He has feathered his nest well?
8. From Dan to Beersheba?
9. To break the ice?
10. Between Scylla and Charybdis?

Match correctly:

11. Ninny	fine fabric.
12. Charlatan	astringent.
13. Riotous	simpleton.
14. Styptic	tumultuous.
15. Tulle	quack.

Answers to today's test:

1. Handel. 2. Beethoven. 3. Mozart. 4. Wagner. 5. Rubenstein. 6. An act of treachery. 7. He has plenty of money. 8. All over the world. 9. To begin a disagreeable subject. 10. Between two difficulties. 11. Simpleton. 12. Quack. 13. Tumultuous. 14. Astringent. 15. Fine fabric.

We Need Him Now

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

His was the hand that broke the iron chain
That held a race in bondage and despair.
His was the hand that rent the bars in twain
That men might walk in freedom's blessed air.

And now the wraith of bondage looms once more
And lays its hand upon the nation's heart.
Or black or white, all men must bow before
The royal masters of the money mart.

Men walk the streets with hunger in their eyes,
Beaten by fear and hopelessness and cold.
Would God another Lincoln might arise
To free the nation from its chains of gold.
